LITTLE HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT

Strike on Seaway Set 8 a.m. Friday

60 Foreign Ships May Be Trapped

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 60 ocean-going ships will be trapped in the Great Lakes by a strike of 1,200 seaway workers scheduled for 8 a.m. Friday, a seaway spokesman said today.

Fifty-eight of the vessels, mostly foreign-owned, were above the Iroquois locks at the eastern end of Lake Ontario when the locks were closed to downbound traffic at 8 a.m. today. They will be joined by another seven which were moving up the seaway from Montreal.

The seaway authority had ordered the Iroquois Locks closed to downbound traffic and the St. Lambert locks at Montreal closed to upbound traffic at 8 a.m. today.

The seaway spokesman said the seven ocean-going vessels and eight inland ships were expected to clear the Iroquois locks into Lake Ontario before the strike deadline.

At the same time, 16 ocean and 14 inland vessels heading down to Montreal from the Iroquois locks were also expected to clear the system in time.

'Port Manager Guy Beaudet of Montreal said in an interview Wednesday night that a strike could only help business at Montreal.

FEW MADE PLANS

Owners and agents of ocean-going vessels upbound for Canadian and U.S. ports said they have been holding vessels at Montreal since the beginning of the week.

But few had made plans or arrangements to discharge cargoes in Montreal for carriage by rail to inland destinations.

A spokesman for the National Harbors Board said there has been no appreciable increase in the demand for wharf space or cargo-handling facilities at Montreal, Quebec City or Trois-Rivieres, Que., which could be accounted for by the threatened strike.

Seaway officials had some optimism Wednesday that a settlement might be reached in time and the strike averted, but that was before a statement by Prime Minister Trudeau.

CALLS OFFER FAIR

Mr. Trudeau said in a telegram to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers' Union that a six-per-cent wage increase this year and another six-per-cent next, offered by the seaway authority, is "fair and reasonable."

The union has asked for increases totalling 18 per cent over two years.

"Mr. Trudeau's statement has dimmed whatever hope we had for a settlement," the union said.

The Canadian seaway workers complain that their wages are an average of 21 per cent lower than those of employees of the United States St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp.

The Canadian authority administers five locks and the U.S. organization is responsible for the others on the inland waterway.

Wages of U.S. employees—who do not have the right to strike—are determined by industrial averages at locations along the seaway.

Peace Talk Logjam Breaking?

(Times News Services)

PARIS—Despite the barrage of charges which the United States and North Vietnam exchange in their Paris talks, a new pattern of contact is emerging—a pattern that could lead to serious negotiations to end the war.

This appears to be the most encouraging development in the discussions, which began almost six weeks ago and have registered no progress toward scaling down the fighting.

The pattern became clear Wednesday when 40 minutes of a meeting that lasted less than four hours were devoted to a recess during which the two top members of each delegation talked privately and informally.

In this conversation were W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance for the United States and Xuan Thuy and Le Duc Tho for North Vietnam. Their conversation was described as amiable but what they said was not disclosed.

The precedent of a recess for refreshments was set several weeks ago by a short break of about 15 minutes. Wednesday it clearly attained the proportions of something more than a brief respite from the formal talks.

'PRIVATE TALKS BETTER'

U.S. officials hope the practice will lead to regular private discussions. William J. Jorden, the U.S. press spokesman, told reporters: "Our feeling for some time has been that private talks are a better way of dealing with the tough issues."

The ninth session ended with an agreement between Harriman and Thuy to meet regularly each Wednesday and additionally as necessary.

In Washington, Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford said today there was "some movement" in the talks.

He acknowledged the signs of progress may be slight, but added:

"I believe that both sides are there to try to arrange an ultimate disposition of the conflict."

The secretary, one of President Johnson's top advisers on Vietnam war policy, indicated he expected some real progress in working out a solution when the negotiators got into private talks.

He appeared to discount the value of the formal sessions, in which both sides have exchanged charges and demands and appeared to be giving virtually no ground.

VIRTUAL ADMISSION

Meanwhile, the chief Viet Cong representative in North Korea has come close to admitting that North Vietnamese troops are fighting in South Vietnam.

Getting the North Vietnamese to admit to the presence of their troops in South Vietnam has been a major point of contention in the Paris peace negotiations.

The Viet Cong representative in Pyongyang also indicated but did not confirm that North Koreans are fighting alongside Vietnamese Communists. He indicated that more North Korean help may be asked in the future.

Reports of North Korean pilots and troops have cropped up recently in Saigon, Seoul and Washington. But details of strength and activity have been sketchy.

The Viet Cong spokesman further indicated that co-ordination of plan is taking place between Hanoi and Pyongyang. U.S. authorities in Seoul have long been aware of a meshing of North Vietnamese and North Korean action but have said they are not sure how close it is.

COLOR VENICE GREEN

They dumped a boatload of sodium chemicals into the Grand Canal and turned the city's waterways a violent green. Police arrested three youths for this action.

The spectacular staining came after a second night of rioting in the heart of the city that pitted nearly 2,000 club-swinging police against crowds of screaming students.

A number of tourists were caught in the middle of the fighting.

Peerage Reform Certain

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government said today it will reform the British constitution to reduce the power of the mainly hereditary House of Lords.

The government would eliminate the hereditary right of the non-elected peers to help make the law.

Prime Minister Wilson said the government would make up its own mind about reform of the 700-year-old upper chamber and break months of efforts to get agreement on the subject from all parties.

Wilson said the all-party talks were abandoned because of the vote this week in the Lords against the government order on Rhodesian sanctions.

Wilson said the action in the Lords proved the Conservative majority among the peers could frustrate and over-rule the Labor government and the elected House of Commons.

The government would soon introduce "comprehensive and radical legislation" to change the powers of the House of Lords.

This legislation would be submitted without seeking agreement from the Opposition Conservative and the Liberal parties.

Wilson said talks underway between them and the government's Labor party to reach agreement on how to reform the upper chamber had been stopped.

Dayan Speech Makes Sparks

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A ministerial crisis threatened Israel's coalition government today over a tough speech by Defence Minister Moshe Dayan.

The hero of last year's Middle East war appeared in bitter conflict with Foreign Minister Abba Eban on Israel's position in the quest for peace.

Dayan told a meeting of his United Labor party Tuesday, Israel must not accept a United Nations resolution of last November because it called for Israel to withdraw its troops from occupied lands.

Gov't Absentees Bring Wrath Of Shipbuilders

TORONTO (CP) — The absence of invited government officials at the first session of the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association annual meeting Wednesday brought angry outbursts from a dozen shipbuilding executives.

They had met to discuss major problems facing the Canadian shipbuilding industry with representatives of the department of defence production and the department of national defence, who had been invited more than a month ago.

However, the government officials were in Britain to commission the Okanagan, the last of three Oberon-class submarines ordered from British shipyards by the federal government.

"The damn things should never have been built in Britain—we have the skills, the equipment, the resources and the technical competence to build them right here in Canada," Eric Harrington, president of Canadian Vickers Shipyards Ltd. of Montreal, said.

"Yet, here we are wondering how we can keep our people working, scratching here and there, trying to turn up an order," he said. "And there they are celebrating the building in Britain of a pretty expensive piece of machinery that we would have been happy to get."

Tempers flared frequently as the executives from Vancouver, Saint John, N.B., Montreal, Quebec City and Port Weller and Collingwood in Ontario wrangled over the problems of mounting layoffs in their yards and the stiff competition from foreign shipbuilders.

They called on Ottawa to come up with a low-cost method of financing Canadian-built ships or face ruin in the industry.

Takis Veliotis, general-manager of Davie Shipbuilding Ltd. in Lauzon, Que., said Ottawa could provide a suitable climate for opportunity by introducing a relatively uncomplicated, low-cost method of financing Canadian-built ships over a long term.

"We're sick and tired of studies, studies and more studies," shouted J. H. Regnaud, treasurer of Davie Shipbuilding.

TRUDEAU RALLY

Battles Won In Cities, Toronto Told

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — The idea was to see if the participating democracy that sprouted on the gardened hillsides of ancient Greece could ripen on the concrete flats of Toronto's civic square.

"This," the announcement said, "will truly be a public rally. The time and location were selected to elicit genuine public response rather than the programmed shuttling of partisan crowds."

It took a little cheating. The chartered buses, six of them plastered with Hellyer signs, helped overcome the problem that a responsive public may have farther to walk in Toronto than it did in Athens.

And the circling helicopter with the banner that said, "A Vote for Trudeau is a Vote for Canada," was a tacit confession that a sense of consensus may be harder to achieve without help in a modern metropolis than it was in the old city state, especially since, in that early democracy, the slaves didn't get the vote.

In Toronto, Wednesday, they got at least to watch and listen as noon hour emptied the downtown cliffs and sent their contents flowing toward the civic square. The buses of schoolchildren had arrived, some of them, more than an hour before.

More Help

There was more help for that feeling of consensus. Bobby Gimby and his brood were there to sing Ca-Na-Da for Pierre Trudeau in 1968 as they did it for Confederation's 100th year in 1967.

By the time Pierre Trudeau began to speak, the vacant spots in the square were filling in with the thousands who had packed the sidewalks along his Bay Street ticker-tape parade, and the crowd was reaching its ultimate number which, by the most common estimate, was about 40,000.

At day's end his attendance score for three major rallies was nearing 60,000 and more

Airliner Hijacked To Cuba

HAVANA (Reuters) — A young hijacker, armed with a grenade, burst into the pilot's cabin of a Venezuelan jet airliner in mid-flight between Santo Domingo and Curacao early today and forced the plane to land in Cuba.

Santo Domingo is in the Dominican Republic while Curacao is part of the Netherlands Antilles. The flight originated in Santo Domingo with a stop at Curacao before its final destination, Caracas, Venezuela.

The plane—a DC-9 of Viasa International Airways with 73 passengers on board—landed at Santiago de Cuba in eastern Cuba at 12:30 a.m. Cuban security officials immediately drove off with the hijacker and declined to give any information concerning him.

The pilot of the plane, Capt. Harry Gibson, said in a telephone interview there was "absolutely no panic and everybody remained calm."

"Nothing exploded. We are being treated very well by Cuban authorities."

The passengers and crew were being cared for in the posh Versalles Hotel just outside Santiago.

The jet was the second Venezuelan plane to be hijacked this year and the 10th seized plane to land in Cuba in the last nine months.

'TWO NATIONS' AD REPUDIATED BY PM

(Special to the Times)

TORONTO—Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday accused Conservatives and NDP of campaigning on one constitutional platform in Quebec and another elsewhere in the country.

But he said he accepted the word of Robert Stanfield that he did not stand for two nations.

"Insofar as any Liberal advertising has accused Robert Stanfield of standing for two nations," he said, at a mass meeting in Scarborough, "and insofar as I take his word that he doesn't, I repudiate such advertising and I understand it has been discontinued."

Since Mr. Trudeau said flatly a few minutes later that he did take Mr. Stanfield's word, the second "insofar" in the sentence was understood to have been a slip of the tongue.

"Most of the recent Tory candidates in Quebec," he said, have been recruited precisely because they stand for two nations" and because they opposed his own constitutional views.

"The campaign in Quebec is going on on this subject."

He said it would be easier for the Liberals in Quebec if they did the same "but I do not believe this is the way to Canadian unity."

ANGRY SPEECH

Liberal Stand Anti-Quebec, Says Tory Chief

By GERARD McNEIL

QUEBEC (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Wednesday night that Liberals have injected "racial poison" into the June 25 election campaign and are trying to win votes outside Quebec by generating hostility and bitterness toward the province.

"A strong leader would not let his party arouse such passions," he said. "He would put an end to such tactics."

The angry speech was aimed at Liberal ads in New Brunswick and Alberta saying Mr. Stanfield supports a two-nations policy.

Told later that Prime Minister Trudeau had repudiated the ads and said they won't be run again, Mr. Stanfield said curtly: "I accept Mr. Trudeau's apologies."

A crowd of more than 1,000 came out in teeming rain to give him and Quebec lieutenant Marcel Faribault an enthusiastic welcome at the Centre Durocher, a Lower Town hall.

Poll workers from five area ridings—all held by the Liberals—chanted "we want Stanfield". He was given a wild ovation as he ended a 30-minute speech, most of it in French, by saying: "We are going to win next Tuesday."

CONTRADICTS HIMSELF

At a news conference here earlier, Mr. Stanfield gave the opposite impression as he protested the fact that the Liberal government has not appointed a successor to Gordon MacGregor as Air Canada president.

TORIES PUSH FOR MONTREAL

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield will hit 14 of the Montreal area's 25 ridings Saturday in a last big effort to win votes in the country's largest metropolitan area.

Mr. Stanfield's itinerary for the rest of this week has him in the Montreal area all Saturday afternoon and evening after a morning of taping television broadcasts in Toronto.

Voting day is next Tuesday, June 25. On that day, Mr. Stanfield will be at home in Halifax.

SOCK THE RICH IS DOUGLAS PLAN

By TOM MITCHELL

WINNIPEG (CP) — How long, T. C. Douglas asked, are the people of Canada going to allow the country to be run for the benefit of the big corporations instead of the ordinary people?

"About nine days," a supporter called from the crowd of 3,500 in Winnipeg Auditorium Wednesday night.

He told them there is a "new pulse and new upsurge" among Canadian voters as the June 25 federal election date comes closer.

They were becoming aware that "we've had the old parties long enough," Mr. Douglas said. Canadians were tired of "toiling for the establishment" and wanted a party that would allow more of the fruits of toil to flow back to the people.

"It's not enough to produce wealth," he told the audience. The wealth had to be distributed fairly among the people who produce it.

This was not happening under the Liberal or Progressive Conservative parties.

"I accuse both the old line parties of refusing to have an equitable distribution not only of the income but of the tax burden of this country," Mr. Douglas said to loud applause.

Banks, insurance companies, mining companies and stock market speculators were getting a free tax ride, Mr. Douglas said. They were awarded tax concessions that were not open to the average citizen.

The Carter royal commission on taxation had said the lower income groups in Canada were paying too large a share of taxes. It was time for governments to make "the freeloaders pay their fair share. . ."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

British Columbia Automobile Association warns of a cruel racket being worked on Canadian vacationers by a minority of dishonest U.S. service stations. It's called barbershopping, maybe because you get clipped.

The barbershopper waits until the tourists head for the rest rooms then slashes tires or squirts oil on shock absorbers, swipes ga caps, disconnects starter wires or shorts out electrical equipment with aluminum spray. When you return you learn about the costly repairs needed.

It's a $100 million business and most complaints are on tourist routes of the southeast and southwest, particularly in Florida, Georgia and New Mexico.

How do you fight it? Have your car checked before you leave your own service station. When on the road, keep an eye on the attendant. Make sure he clears his pump of the last sale before filling your tank.

Remember that just by looking at them from a distance the mechanic can't say whether your spark plugs need changing. Same goes for shock absorbers, points and condensers, especially if the car has been running well.

Crown Zellerbach Paper staffers in Victoria read a story in the Times about Foster Parents Plan (Canada) and how individuals or groups here can "adopt" a child in any one of nine under-developed countries for $16 a month. The money buys tuition, clothes and medical care and also brings letters to the donors, which make them feel 10 feet tall. Upshot was that secretary Mrs. Jean Lamontagne proposed the profits from the coffee fund go to finance the school career of a 10-year-old boy in Greece. So you see, if you look far enough, there is some good news in the paper.

Over at Fulford Harbor there has been a welcome sign and a box of flowers on the wharf for years, both tended voluntarily by residents who also have been known to sweep the street in outbursts of community enthusiasm. But our spies over there say the Salt Spring Chamber of Commerce has a letter from the ferry authorities stating the flowers must go. The beautification plan doesn't fit in with ferry regulations.

Among the Father's Day items displayed at local department stores we spied a set of horseshoes—an item we often long for, but never when we can afford to buy. But they raised a point. Why are there no horseshoe pitches and no shuffleboards in Victoria parks? The giant checker board atop Beacon Hill proves park-goers, especially the older ones, enjoy participation in sports. For aldermen next December, we'll vote for the man who brings back horseshoes.

"Don't be concerned if you are not sure of your identification; a member of the "Operation Cowbird" team will be pleased to call and verify any doubtful identities."

Then there was the marquee at Capitol Theatre last week: "Restricted 18 and over." Doesn't that mean those under 18 are given unrestricted admission?

We do these things so often ourselves we're glad to see others joining the club.

Gun Bill Signed With Reluctance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed with reluctance Wednesday night a broad crime control bill that bore little resemblance to what he had sought from Congress.

The measure fell well short of full control of mail sales of firearms. It also provided broad powers for police wiretapping with court approval and sought to relax Supreme Court safeguards on use of confessions in criminal trials.

Johnson said he signed the measure into law because it contains "more good than bad."

But he coupled his action with a renewed plea for a ban on mail sales of all guns, in contrast to the new law's coverage of pistols alone.

Johnson waited until only four hours before the midnight deadline to act on the crime control package. Some congressmen had urged him to veto it, but Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield warned Congress would override such an action.

The new law will:

- Make confessions admissible as evidence in court if the trial judge decides they were given voluntarily. Recent Supreme Court rulings have tossed out confessions given by suspects who were not advised of their rights to have an attorney and to remain silent;
- Permit police wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping after obtaining a court order;
- Forbid mail order sales of pistols, but not rifles and shotguns.

Johnson complained the crime package lacked sufficient safeguards on wiretapping and could produce "a nation of snoopers bending through the keyholes of the homes and offices of America spying on our neighbors." He asked Congress to reconsider and rewrite the wiretapping provisions.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Showers were still falling in the north coast area overnight while elsewhere skies were generally clear. The cool air which covers the province combined with nearly clear skies in the central interior dropped temperatures in that area to near freezing overnight.

The high pressure area will move across southern B.C. during the next 24 hours. Another Pacific system will spread rain into coastal areas Friday morning with some rain expected to reach the interior later in the day. Temperatures will continue much the same.

A-Bomb Pact Awaiting Signatures

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations has completed its action on the treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, and Britain, the United States and Russia are expected to open it for signature in London, Washington and Moscow before the end of the month.

The Security Council welcomed declarations Wednesday by the three atomic powers that they would seek the council's immediate aid for any non-nuclear country subjected to nuclear aggression or threat after accepting the treaty.

The three pushed such a proposal through the council by a vote of 10 to 0, with Algeria, Brazil, France, India and Pakistan abstaining. A week earlier, a resolution commending the treaty had gone through the General Assembly by a vote of 95 to 4 with 21 abstentions. Canada voted for the council proposal as well as the treaty itself.

After the council acted, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov said the road was now clear for opening the treaty for signature.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the United States would "move as speedily as possible" to do that "at a very early date," in concert with the two other powers.

The treaty, drafted by the United States and the Soviet Union and sent here from the Geneva disarmament committee, commits countries with nuclear weapons not to transfer them to other countries, and those without them not to acquire them. It will take effect when ratified by Britain, the U.S., Russia and any 40 other signers.

The resolution was designed to give security assurance to non-nuclear countries who, by adhering to the treaty, would renounce nuclear weapons.

EXPO LURED AMERICAN DOLLARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. travellers spent nearly $1,100,000,000 in Canada last year, an increase of nearly 60 per cent over 1966, the U.S. commerce department said Wednesday.

The department attributed some of the increase in spending to Expo 67 which attracted large numbers of U.S. tourists to Montreal.

A record number of Americans spent nearly $8,000,000,000 last year for foreign travel, the department said.

The transportation portion of this bill, $4,750,000,000, was 17 per cent above what it was in 1966. At the same time receipts from foreign visitors to the United States rose only five per cent, but also to a new high of $1,900,000,000.

. . . TORONTO RALLY

He had 10,000 or more at Centennial Park in Scarborough early Wednesday evening. An hour later at North York Centennial Centre the turnout filled the 6,500 seats and jammed the aisles and entrances.

Not quite all of them came to help Pierre Trudeau unite and conquer.

A clutch of supporters of NDP Parkdale candidate Bruce Rogers was in civic square resolved not to let him speak until he had stopped committing genocide.

Microphones

When he got to the microphones they set up a chant in what might have sounded to the average Toronto ear like native French.

The words were "Trudeau assassin" (Trudeau murderer). The "assassin" came out well enough but a French "Trudeau" is harder to fake. He caught the tell-tale English "oo" in the first syllable, glanced back over his right shoulder and tossed them a question: "Pourquoi je suis assassin?" Then grinned and went on talking while they were asking one another what he had said.

He read off a sign held by a pretty brunette out front: "Cher Pierre, vos beaux yeaux me font mourir d'amour," (Dear Pierre, your beautiful eyes make me die of love) and set off a sigh that was deeper than the gusts of wind funnelling through the city hall towers.

Easy Win

The group that kept calling him a murderer would have been adequate grounds for one of the scalding counter attacks that have made some of his most dramatic speeches. It would have been an easy win, with the microphones, and the big battalions in the audience, on his side.

But if the crowd had come for a blazing political speech they didn't get it.

What they got was a soft-voiced talk, letting the public address system do the work, on the only theme his sense of history would let him take on that setting and that occasion, the birth of democracy in the city-states of ancient Greece and the question of its survival in the Torontos, the Montreals and the Winnipegs of today.

The cities, he said, had begun as places for the exchange of goods but had become the centres of much more important exchanges: of ideas, of cultures, of human values.

Free Exchange

This way deomcracy had been born. But its life had been short because "the free exchange of ideas and the respect for dialogue and moderation in the city was interrupted"—here he nodded over his shoulder toward the "Trudeau-assassin" chorus —"by people like them who didn't want to talk."

That got a good hand from the thousands who wanted to listen. So he said that, in spite of the dream that "we can't all be cowboys," we must recognize that "our future will essentially be determined in great cities."

He talked about the physical problems, pollution of air and water, and the human problems, the need for unity, participation, integration and an atmosphere of respectful pluralism if the over-riding human values were to survive.

People Meet

Canada, he said, must not be "a society run by a small group of people." All groups in Canada must be fully integrated, though not assimillated, into Canadian society and the great role of the cities was as "places where people meet."

At North York Mr. Trudeau shared a platform, for the first time in the campaign, with former prime minister Pearson, who introduced him as "A Man for All Canada."

At all three major Toronto rallies the prime minister repeated that he was not making costly promises.

He said the party was accused of having no policy on any subject but national unity.

No Longer

Mr. Trudeau said this complaint was the result of confusing "policy as we see it and policies as they have been seen in the past." The conventional wisdom, he said, was to make costly promises. But the people would no longer accept this knowing that it would be the people who paid.

At all stops he got an enthusiastic response for his constant theme of one Canada and two official languages.

At every Toronto appearance the reaction was especially enthusiastic when he spoke French. At Scarborogh he took this as a cue to say he had found no backlash when he spoke in English and of one Canada in Quebec, and no backlash when he spoke in French and of two official languages in English-speaking regions.

Confrontation

Mr. Pearson vigorously endorsed Mr. Trudeau's constitutional policies.

He praised him as "a man who denies the right of a province to take part in a conference of sovereign states as if it were a state itself, a process which could break up this country."

Opponents have accused Mr. Trudeau of departing from the conciliatory approach of Mr. Pearson in constitutional matters and following a policy of confrontation.

But Mr. Pearson endorsed Mr. Trudeau for beinng "willing and anxious and determined to speak out loud and clear for Canadian unity."

"And I wish everybody else would too, on the other side," he added.

Former Teacher Earns Doctorate In Education

Les Karagianis Jr., son of the Greater Victoria school trustee, has been awarded a doctorate in education by the University of Toronto.

A native Victorian and former teacher at Esquimalt Senior Secondary School, he is now an assistant professor on the education faculty at Dalhousie University, Halifax.

Mr. Karagianis Sr. has been on the school board for the past five years.

Charles Brown, sone of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Brown of 1651 Fairfield, has received a doctorate in nuclear physics at the University of Rochester.

"What we want now is some action for a change."

"Recently, they started a study of ship-financing. Hell, we've been asking for some action on the problem for 10 years or more," Mr. Regnaud said.

EMPLOYMENT DOWN

H. C. Hawken, vice-president of Marine Industries Ltd. of Sorel, Que., said the potential employment level of existing Canadian shipyards is about 14,000 but they now employ about 8,000.

"Surely, an industry which employs this many, and which makes the substantial contribution to the gross national product, both in quantitative terms and technical competence . . . deserves more than short shrift from the Canadian government."

J. A. Wallace, general-manager of Yarrows Ltd. of Victoria, said all the politicians are "running around with fever" because 30 or 40 shipyard workers in Lauzon are being laid off.

They say nothing about the "800 or more laid off before" the campaign for the June 25 federal election began, he said.

"And then in the next breath we hear that there are too many shipyards in Canada, that some have got to go."

J. W. Hudson, executive vice-president of Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. in Vancouver, said Canadian Pacific has ordered a cargo ship from a British yard, and that Saguenay Shipping Ltd. of Montreal plans to order two bulk carriers from the same builders.

"Now just what are we supposed to do? You can't blame them for going abroad when they can save about 50 per cent. . . . But who is this just society supposed to be for—British shipyard workers or Canadian?"

George Black, general-manager of Port Weller Dry Docks Ltd., asked: "What are they trying to do, dance on our grave?"

"What they don't seem to realize is that for every shipyard worker employed, about five people in other trades are kept busy."

Other less developed nations are building and exporting ships, so why can't Canadian yards do the same, he asked.

MARCHAND WANTS GUARANTEE

QUEBEC (CP) — Manpower Minister Marchand has proposed that both company and union representatives agree to a clause in ship repair contracts for work at nearby Lauzon that will allow the shipyard to close down within 24 hours if workers engage in slowdown tactics.

After a meeting with union representatives, Marchand said the clause should be applied to repair work on the ship New Liskeard, which it is hoped will reopen the George T. Davie shipyard at Lauzon.

LABOR COSTS

The Confederation of National Trade Unions, which represents the 1,000 unemployed shipyard workers, said Wednesday it is prepared to sign a contract for the ship's repair if the federal government agrees to pay costs of material and labor.

Marchand has said repairs will be carried out on the ship whether or not the contract is accepted by the interests involved.

The George T. Davie shipyard was closed down June 8 by its new owner, Canada Steamship Lines Ltd., which purchased the yard last March. The original owner had contracted to refit and repair the New Liskeard.

The workers were told 10 days ago that all contracts would be transferred to Marystown, Nfld., site of a modern shipyard.

Renault Strike Ends; France Nearly Normal

PARIS (Reuters) — Work resumed normally today at the big state-owned Renault automobile plant at Flins near Paris after a wildcat 12-hour stoppage which came on top of almost five weeks of strikes.

Some Flins workers downed tools Wednesday when they heard two temporary employees had lost their jobs.

But pickets—placed at the plant gates when management-union talks broke down—disappeared today, and the factory was back in production. Management refused to comment on the 12-hour dispute.

MOST WORKERS RETURN

Most of France now is back at work, but about 20,000 electrical and electronics workers and 150,000 in the auto and metal industries—mostly at the Peugeot and Citroen car factories—still are on strike with no indication of agreement.

The state-run radio and broadcasting services also remained involved in labor trouble.

Some 12,000 technicians, producers, journalists and administrative staff have been on strike since mid-May over demands for an overhaul of the organization's statutes and guarantees of objectivity in news broadcasts.

Radio is limited to non-stop music, punctuated by hourly news bulletins compiled by non-strikers, while television is limited to sound-only newscasts, old —usually foreign—films on one channel only and pre-election party political addresses and debates.

There seemed little chance of a settlement before the general elections begin Sunday. The election campaign officially closes at midnightt Friday night.

. . . PEERAGE

breakaway colony that is governed by a white-minority regime were ordered by the United Nations, at least in part under the urging of Britain.

Wilson said the peers in the House of Lords had used their power to put Britain in default of its obligations.

The Lords cannot block the sanctions, which were passed by the House of Commons. But the government has to issue repeated 28-day temporary orders until the peers approve.

Wilson charged the defeat in the Lords must be treated as a "denial of democracy and total frustration of the spirit of our constitution. . . ."

No government could tolerate such action by a non-elected chamber in which most of the members "vote by the right of succession of some near or distant ancestor."

Wilson did not say what the reform would be, but said it would be "comprehensive and radical."

He indicated that reform rather than total abolition of the House was planned.

Labor Minister Sees Hope For IWA Dispute Settlement

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today saw hope for settlement of the coastal forest industry labor dispute in talks which continued this morning.

"As long as the discussions continue they may be able to reach agreement," he said as he entered a cabinet meeting.

The 11-man International Woodworkers of America bargaining committee was meeting members of Forest Industrial Relations in Vancouver in an effort to avoid a strike by 26,000 coastal woodworkers.

The strike deadline passed last Friday but the contract — with 126 companies — stays in force as long as negotiations continue.

The workers are seeking a 50 cent hourly wage boost on a base rate of $2.76 plus fringe benefits. The companies have asked a guarantee against wildcat strikes.

There were no official statements after Wednesday's bargaining sessions in Vancouver but optimism has been voiced that continued talks may achieve a settlement.

Yachtsman Sighted

PLYMOUTH, England (Reuters)—An RAF plane today sighted missing French yachtsman Jean De Kat alive in his dinghy in the mid-Atlantic. The aircraft radioed that De Kat waved from the yellow rubber craft.

Tory Specialty

TRY AS THEY WILL TO RELEgate it to a minor place in the election campaign, the Tories have been unable to keep the question of provincial special status from popping up on almost every hustings platform. The reason for this Conservative reluctance, of course, lies in the fact that whereas Mr. Trudeau has come out flatly for rejection of special status for any province — and has clearly publicized this position throughout Quebec as well as in the rest of the country—Mr. Stanfield's party has waffled on the issue and finally come up with sort of a special-status-for-everybody policy which is a contradiction in terms.

The effort, of course, is to appeal to those Quebec voters who demand particular constitutional concessions for their province. But at the same time Mr. Stanfield does not want to alienate other Canadian voters who do not share this disruptive obsession. The result is the special-special-status policy, under which certain rights would be given equally to all provinces, but in the knowledge that none but Quebec would be likely to benefit from them.

Mr. Faribault, who is Mr. Stanfield's right hand in Quebec, stated clearly in his book, "Ten to One," published in 1965, that "there is no case for granting a special status to any province . . . to do so would be an abuse of the federal system." And he added: "Quebec has not asked for anything that she is not prepared to have granted to all other provinces."

The catch is in the difference between granting and using such rights. The universal right to play a saxophone in a boarding house can hardly be said to be fairly granted if it is known in advance that only one of the ten boarders will ever want to exercise the right. Similarly, it is twisted logic that claims to have met the demands of equality by granting to all the provinces rights which it is known that only Quebec wishes to have.

Mr. Faribault was quoted last week in Le Devoir, of Montreal, as saying: "Quebec demands a status which is in keeping with reality. If we are alone in demanding it, that would be a special status. If the other provinces demand it with us, that would be a general status."

So far, Quebec is alone in demanding the provincial sovereignty in foreign dealings, in various financial matters, in welfare programs, which has dominated that province's politics in recent times. That, by Mr. Faribault's definition, puts its demands on a basis of special status—"an abuse of the federal system"—and Mr. Faribault is Mr. Stanfield's spokesman in Quebec.

A Hard Look at the Dollar

WHATEVER THE MERITS OF the present disagreement over consultant fees for surfacing the Athletic Park, the Victoria parks committee will be generally applauded by the taxpayers for its apparent determination to take a good, hard look at bills which come in above original estimates. The chairman, Alderman Clyde Savage, is exercised over the manner in which costs for the park renovation and improvement have escalated, and he objects to paying out money for services that he says were inadequate.

This watchdog attitude seems more than ever necessary on the basis of mounting municipal expense that inevitably finds its way to the taxpayers. The point has been emphasized in recent months—by Prime Minister Trudeau on Monday evening here, for example—that taxes in general are rising to a level of grave concern. As Mr. Trudeau pointed out, while the federal government is being blamed for extravagance by some of its critics, in fact Ottawa is taking less from the taxpayer than are the municipalities and provinces combined.

It is his objective to reduce expenditures wherever possible, but the effectiveness of any successful federal campaign would be minimized if growing expenditures by the lower levels of government offset any savings that could be made.

Alderman Savage and the parks committee members seem to appreciate the general point. Their attitude toward spending public money deserves emulation.

Nip It in the Bud

PUBLIC VIOLENCE FEEDS ON violence, and the murderous act of a deranged person can quickly incite similar acts among other fanatically unbalanced men and women. A chain reaction can easily grow in the murky mental world of the criminally obsessed. For that reason it is very important to deal with political violence as soon as it shows itself: those responsible should be given sentences of a severity that will penetrate the consciousness of all persons similarly inclined and jolt them out of their felonious track.

It is distressing that the current Canadian election campaign has apparently excited violence in certain quarters. A candidate in Alberta reports that he was shot at by a gunman in a car. Another candidate in Prince George reports menacing telephone calls, and threats have been heard in other localities. As background incentive, the lunatic fringe has produced hate literature which should be a quick passport to a mental institution for its authors.

Drastic retribution, well publicized, could do much to break the chain of violence and make it plain that such conduct will not be tolerated in Canada. The Canadian temperament is not one to provide fertile soil for the seeds of violence, but a minute minority could create a dangerous environment. It will be well worth while to make a major effort to disclose the origins of political threats and bullets. A climate of peace can be created just as a climate of obsessive hatred can be imposed.

A Gratifying Medical Plan

THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASsociation, meeting in Regina, has given the public grounds for deep concern over the health outlook for Indians and Eskimos, but has also offered a ray of hope. The association says curtailment of funds for health services to these people would cause deterioration of maternal and child care, and notes their maternal death rate is high in comparison with that of other Canadians.

To offset this depressing outlook the association has received an encouraging report from its maternal welfare committee. That group proposes the establishment of regional consulting services by the medical profession on a voluntary basis until federal and provincial health departments make satisfactory arrangements.

If the proposal is implemented, the Canadian Medical Association will have done itself great credit. The people of this country, by and large, are aware of the need to provide special assistance to the Indians and Eskimos—especially in the fields of health. Until government action is taken, following study of the problems involved, the creation of regional agencies by medical men to meet pressing current problems would be a temporary measure deserving the country's gratitude.

"... Good grief ... you HAVE Trudeaumania ...!"

ON THE LIBERAL TICKET

By JAMES H. GRAY

Tory Bogies Don't Scare Moneyed Men

EVEN before the federal election campaign began to heat up it was clear that Premier E. C. Manning's call for a realignment of Canadian political parties on economic lines had gone down the drain. Some sort of realignment seems in the offing, but there is nothing economic, logical or even sensible about it. While the Tories are blasting away with their "financial irresponsible" critique of Liberal performance, it is the Liberal party that has attracted some of the fattest financial cats in the West as candidates.

Gray

The Tories say the Liberal financial policies are destroying the country, but with millionaires who know finances best it is the Liberals four or five to zip.

In Manitoba, one of the most prestigious financial names in Canada attached itself to the Liberal ticket in Winnipeg South. The name belongs to James A. Richardson, the 46-year-old head of the 100-year-old Richardson grain firm and almost 50-year-old financial institution. He is near the top of any list of the richest men in western Canada.

Richardson was not sought out by the Winnipeg Grits and bludgeoned into getting into politics. He became infected with Trudeaumania and going out for the nomination was his own idea.

Outstanding Name

In the next constituency, the Grits came up with a big name candidate that takes second place to practically nobody in the West. He is E. B. Osler, the grandson of the founder of Osler, Hammond and Nanton, a firm that helped finance the construction of the CPR and the settlement of the West. Mr. Osler is not only rich and knows his way around board rooms, he is a professional author and biographer of Louis Riel and almost a professional do-gooder.

Out in the Provencher constituency in Manitoba, the Liberals nominated the richest Ukrainian in Manitoba — Mark Smerchanski, a geological engineer, mining promoter and business man. Of all the wealthy standard bearers, Smerchanski was the only one to make much point about cutting taxes.

In Alberta, the Liberals missed on millionaires, but came up with a well-on-his-way-to-be-one young petroleum engineer, plus an economist who makes up with degrees what he may lack in Dun and Bradstreet. Nick Taylor, in Calgary Centre, has made it big financially in the toughest economic arena in the country — as a Canadian independent in the Alberta oil business. Not only does he not complain about taxes, he favors a capital gains tax to soak fellows like himself who strike it rich.

Dr. Hu Harries is a rare bird among professional economists — a refugee from the halls of higher learning who has succeeded as a directing head of several large private enterprises in Alberta. He is the former dean of the University of Alberta School of Commerce, a successful farmer and quarter-horse breeder and horse show contestant. He won the Liberal nomination for the Edmonton Strathcona seat that up until now had been the fiefdom of Terry Nugent.

Like all economists, Harries worries about inflation and thinks something should be done about it. He does not seem to worry unduly about taxes or financial irresponsibility.

If there is justification, in what the Liberals have been doing, for the Socred-small-c-conservative charge that the Liberals are socializing the country with welfarism and medicare, what are all the fat cats doing in the Liberal camp? Obviously the people with most to lose if the alleged socializers stay in power are the rich millionaires. And they are the people with most to gain if the Conservatives win and redeem their pledges to torpedo medicare, cut spending and cut taxes. But there they are, climbing aboard the Trudeau bandwagon in sublime disregard of the alarms that it is bound for socialist perdition.

Will Electors Follow?

But will the electors follow the trail being blazed by the wealthy new Grits? Probably not, for the word is that only one, Mark Smerchanski has much platform presence or political savvy. He once got elected to the Manitoba legislature, but the going will be tougher this time. All the others are underdogs.

Meanwhile, will all this not cause some rethinking among the Conservative election strategists? If the bogey of creeping Socialism, welfare stateism and financial irresponsibility isn't scaring the millionaires of the prairies, how much less is it likely to fetch the votes of the proletariat and the kulaks?

FROM WASHINGTON

By CHARLES BARTLETT

A Start, Not a Solution

THE opportunity of access to our economic wise men yields some promise that the clouds of uncertaintly will be lifted from the American economy by the enactment of the federal surtax bill. Passage should attest to the world that Congress can be counted a late but sturdy ally of responsible economics. But no one from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler, who labored like an early Christian to expound the gospel of fiscal balance, to Federal Reserve Chairman William Martin, who has played the prophet of doom, believes all the problems will be solved by the tax bill.

Bartlett

"It won't mean that we have crossed all the bridges," Martin told a Yale alumni seminar, "but it will mean that we have made a start. We have the capacity and ability to deal with the situation."

The key factor is the inflation which has dangerously narrowed the trade surplus gap and set a pattern of 8 and 9 per cent wage increases. The tax bill has been delayed so long that it cannot be expected to bring the thrust of the economy under immediate control.

Even Walter Heller, progenitor of the seven-year boom and one of the more sanguine of the wise men, does not believe that inflation will disappear overnight. But he does expect the boom to moderate over the next six months and he feels that inflationary forces can be controlled in the longer run by a prudent allocation of the added tax revenues which will derive from the expanding economy.

Martin is optimistic that interest rates, now at their highest levels in history, will go higher and that the money tightness will be eased by the second thoughts of anticipatory borrowers. Treasury officials are hopeful that sufficient credit will be available to avert a 1966-type recession in the housing industry.

Travel Checks

The rise in taxes will not diminish the government's necessity to be dogged in struggling to close the balance of payments gap. Western Europe no longer needs American deficits and her central bankers are no longer willing to count the dollar as an equivalent to gold. So Fowler intends to push Congress hard to enact his restrictions on travel, the most accessible of the persisting leaks in the dike.

The big concern is not with the domestic prosperity, which rests upon such buoyant factors as national resources, population skills, and accumulations of machinery, but with the necessity to restore foreign confidence in a rich nation now vulnerable to charges of profligacy from former beneficiaries of our generosity.

The situation is made more fragile by the success of gold speculators in forcing the central bankers to find a supplement for the gold exchange system of world trade. The Free World needs a reserve base more flexible than the gold supply but it is impossible to demonetize gold at a rough and uncertain time or to hope that the supplement, the newly-created SDRs, will attract instant confidence.

Need Basic Reforms

International monetary developments will probably not, Dr. James Tobin points out, impair the domestic prosperity. But they will test the will of the money managers to seek durable remedies instead of temporary solutions. At least two wise men, Martin and Dr. Robert Triffin, believe that a rise in the gold price will merely and perhaps dangerously postpone the need for basic reforms.

But the circumstances will force disciplines upon the United States. It is necessary now to talk of priorities, of whether and where government functions can be cut back, of whether or not the nation should allocate a still larger share of its resources to public problems. The pressures ensure that the debate over expenditures will not end with the passage of the surtax bill.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"Now I know why he likes his sister. When he's losin' a fight, she hits ya on the head with a POP BOTTLE!"

Looking Back

From the Times, June 20, 1908.

"The yellow peril. Bah! Don't talk to me of the Yellow Peril. The Chinaman is not the Yellow Peril. No it is the white man who is the real Yellow Peril in Canada. Don't judge a man because his skin is not as white as yours. The Yellow Peril of Canada today is the rich merchant and wholesale manufacturer who employs the Yellow Peril at 11 cents per hour."

Letters

Test Flying

Reference Mr. E. V. Wood's allegation in his letter to you, dated June 17.

May I remind Mr. Wood that the form of the Pearson flag was issued in May or June, 1964, and that, as early as June, 1964, such flags were to be seen flying—in anticipation of possible adoption by Parliament.—S. W. M. GREER, 2434 Windor.

One-Sided Criticism

According to the Times (June 12), "U.S. warns Hanoi patience is near end."

No wonder the patience of the U.S. is near an end when Hanoi's war lords order the persistent, indiscriminate and heinous attacks on the civilians of Saigon — yes, even while their representatives at Paris profess to seek peace.

And why is it that, in the western world, one hears so few voices raised in protest against those attacks, especially when the Americans, who went into Vietnam to help stop aggression, are criticized vociferously any time they accidently kill civilians in their attempts to hit military targets only?

Furthermore, would the westerners so prone to criticize Americans for this and their decision to answer a call for aid from South Vietnam, have them surrender unconditionally and leave the Communists free to continue their ghastly onslaught against a people desiring little else than to express themselves in their own way; leave them free to conquer South Vietnam, then make one territorial demand after another until the whole world comes under the sway of Communism and Lenin's dream of a Communist world is fulfilled? If so, they must think Democracy unworthy of fighting for. Should this not be the case, one wonders what alternative they have to offer for peace, other than the negotiations going on at Paris and which are making so little progress — if any.—HOPEFUL.

Qualifications

I wonder if the candidates for election realize that they are in fact applying for a job at $12,000 per year plus expenses and that they are the servants of the public. They should therefore be compelled to show their qualifications, what they hope to accomplish and how they propose to do it.

There are in existence many millions of competent tradesmen who have served seven-year apprenticeships and are getting salaries varying from $5,000 to $6,000 a year. Why then should political candidates presume that they are going to jump into responsible jobs by the value of their personalities, especially jobs in which they will in fact run the lives of the public.

Let them tell us, their prospective employers, what they hope to do for Canada, for the aged, for the sick; in fact let them expound their entire policy and how they intend to carry it out.—W. E. Jenkins, 143 Medana.

Pollution

Our Gulf Islands are facing pollution problems. New subdivisions are a booming business. The B.C. Pollution Control Board has granted one application for permission to discharge effluent into the sea. Other applications are pending.

It was a shock to learn that the medical health officer favored this. At one time it was believed that salt water was a safe antiseptic but that time was long ago and far away. It was claimed that the ocean "could not be filled up." What about upper space? Not so long ago scientists were claiming it could not be polluted and since have had to eat their words.

The attitude of engineers and many developers is more understandable. Dollar signs are obscuring their vision. But they are largely responsible for our filthy, and steadily becoming filthier, environment. The public health officials and the B.C. Pollution Control Board are equally to blame, especially those health officials who continue to sit on the fence while the public is being brainwashed.

Canada should have a national program of pollution curbs. In our own particular case—to allow the Gulf Islands (and the hinterland of B.C.) to become defiled in the name of progress is unthinkable. More emphasis needs to be placed on foresight rather than bewailing hindsight. A brief presented to the Pollution Control Board at a hearing held in Ganges on May 7 last, pointed out that 50 per cent of our oyster growing areas (3,000 acres) have been closed or restricted allegedly by domestic pollution.

The old saying that the price of ignorance is death will shortly be proven true unless each of us is willing to take a part in helping to solve the pollution problem.—Ada Ryan, Ganges.

Song of the Bells

Ottawa Journal

Half a century ago bells were an important part of farm life. The big bell on the shed roof or on a cedar post by the woodshed called men and boys to meals or rang out in wild peals in an emergency. At district school, teacher stepped to the door with a hand bell to announce the beginning of the day's work or the end of recess.

Bells in village churches sent pleasant notes across the fields on Sunday mornings. When a fire was reported, the frantic, rapid ringing spread the alarm. And in times of sorrow, the slow tolling was a mark of respect.

Farmers were particular about their cow bells. The Swiss bells with varying diameters meant a blended melody of tones. The catalogue said "Celebrated for their pure musical tone which can be heard a long distance."

There are those who remember the sweet music that came through moist evening air to a family relaxing on the farm porch. Bell notes blended with the calls of the whipoorwills while fireflies put on their dot and dash ballet over the lawns. Bells have a long history; they have served men in many ways.

Did Yevtushenko Poem Signal New Soviet Era?

By ANATOLE SHUB
The Washington Post

MOSCOW — "All our system, all our state," poet Yevgeni Yevtushenko wrote this week, is a "dangerous illiterate lie . . . which hasn't saved anyone yet."

The 35-year-old Siberian poet placed these and other words of protest in the mouth of convicted United States pediatrician Benjamin Spock in the form of a verse "Monologue of Doctor Spock", published in Pravda, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper, Monday morning.

Although the poem contains a few lines criticizing the White House and condoning the burning of draft cards, the main body of the poem clearly applied as much to Soviet conditions as to the United States.

Yevtushenko wrote:

"... I love the people and despite those
Who practice faith healing in its name.
All our system, all our state,
Our boasting and self-praise —
Criminal, fatuous faith healing,
A dangerous illiterate life.
Oh, my God — even to our schools,
Not to speak of movie theatres,
They take children for injections
Of that lie which hasn't saved anyone yet.
The goal has disappeared. Living people are goals.
And if, as they say with such satisfaction,
Our system is a panacea,
Then what is venomous?
Swine and fools prescribe, who never blew life
Into a pair of chicks,
Pills of fear, mixtures of meanness
And sleeping powders of optimism.
Doctors haven't been invited to the government.
Unjustly! The late night sittings
Resemble a council of the helpless
When, quaffing rubbish, the land is ill.
An ignoramus talking in circles,
No matter what seat he's snatched,
Is dangerous — as if a surgeon's duties
Were usurped by a horse doctor.
How do they dare teach anyone,
While they themselves are not quite normal?
They give prescriptions but cannot even
Take the country's temperature ...
... They cure with pincers, bolts and vises,
And I know some of them, to God's shame,
Would like to cure with bloodletting
The remaining conscience of the land.
Why cry? No danger in not crying.
You'll manage yet. They'll force you. And once.
Most holy in the world are tears
But I love America. Quite otherwise
Than those who spit at the people.
To be a patriot in our country means
To wear the label "anti-patriot."
I see in blue and hazel children's eyes
The hope of my poor motherland ..."

Alexander Redishchev, considered the first Russian revolutionary writer, used an ode to George Washington as a vehicle of protest against the autocracy of Catherine the Great.

Yevtushenko himself, in an American cycle published in the January issue of the magazine Znamya, used an Alaskan fox to denounce "this animal farm, my motherland" and the ostensible thoughts of Arthur Miller and other American writers to denounce "witch-burning" and "the inquisition."

The appearance of Yevtushenko in Pravda Monday, on the heels of Andrei Voznesenky's poem mourning Robert Kennedy in Komsomolskaya Pravda Sunday, struck political observers here as significant.

Both had been under open and covert attack most of the year. Some observers believe a turning point may have been reached, marking the virtual end of the external and internal "vigilance" campaign proclaimed at the April meeting of the Communist Central Committee.

Publication of the two liberal poets may be connected with a broader shift toward more open, flexible policies — such as toleration of the Czechoslovak experiment in democratization.

A new central committee plenum, generally expected within a week, may reflect the change.

Challenge of Youth Sweeping the Globe

It began quietly, no one is sure when or where, and it awoke on campuses at the Sorbonne, Nanterre, Columbia, Berlin, Essex, Frankfurt, Rome, Kyota, Madrid and other campuses that spark the villages and cities of the world.

It rallied around academic discontent, the fading role of the liberal arts graduate in the modern world, the need to specialize, inadequate classrooms, dottering professors, restrictive rules. It rallied around groups already decrying the war in Vietnam.

It exploded this spring, welding the purpose of student and worker against low wages, too much government, the simple, inescapable horror of becoming part of the status quo.

This was the rebellion of the students, a revolt against established order, ignoring national boundaries, spreading like a contagious disease across Western Europe and on the other side of the Iron Curtain, as well as in America and parts of Asia.

"We have learned a great deal from the student revolt in Berkeley," said one of the leaders of the West German student revolt, referring to the 1964 furor at the University of California's Berkeley campus. "But we can see that the student movement in Europe is more political and theoretical. Much of the protest in the United States has a moral, and not a political basis."

Whatever the reasons — and they were complex and varied — the students tore up Tokyo, paralyzed Paris and beleaguered Berlin.

In March, Polish students in Warsaw began demanding reform, and soon, Czechoslovakia moved somewhat toward a new kind of freedom in the Communist world.

Berlin students found an early martyr in Rudi Dutschke — "Rudi the Red" — who was shot and wounded in West Berlin on April 11, touching off demonstrations by students all over Europe.

In France, Daniel Cohn-Bendit — "Dani le Rouge" — became the leader in a movement which says it abhors leadership. On March 22, two days after windows were broken in the American Express office in Paris and three youths were arrested, Cohn-Bendit led an invasion of the administration building on the suburban Nanterre campus of the University of Paris. It was the spark that touched off a crisis that continues in France.

Early in June, about 2,000 leftist students occupied the campus of the University of Rome for three days and there was rioting in the streets of Naples, Turin and Lanciano.

Even at ancient, staid Oxford University in England, students smashed through iron gates, grappled with police and staged a short-lived sit-in.

When things seemed to be quieting down a bit, they flared again. President Charles de Gaulle's government on June 12 ordered seven extremist student groups dissolved and banned all street demonstrations in an effort to halt bloody rioting in a new phase of the month-long dispute.

And, Cohn-Bendit suddenly arrived in London, bringing widespread reports that the student unrest in Britain is due for a spectacular change of course.

Not a Political Occasion But a New Public Rite

By PETER C. NEWMAN

TORONTO — Pierre Trudeau's mammoth rally in Toronto's City Hall yesterday would have been an unqualified success if the Prime Minister hadn't opened his mouth.

It was obviously his presence, not his words, that excited the sea of 50,000 Torontonians who turned out at midday to participate in his final visit to the Ontario capital. The fact that even his dismal speech seemed to have little effect in cooling the crowd's ardor left the impression that this—as most other Trudeau rallies—was not a political occasion at all, but some kind of public rite, new and strange to the Canadian electoral process.

Newman

Possibly it was the difference in settings as much as anything else that transmuted the Liberal gathering into a success while the Conservatives' major Toronto rally, held two nights before, was such a misfortune.

* * *

Robert Stanfield was booked by his organizers into the Canadian National Exhibition's dank Coliseum. It's a building that could almost be a monument to the old Canada of the rural era, redolent of horse shows, prize cabbages, homemade quilts, rhubarb preserves and willing rubes.

Stanfield came and departed in the dark. Trudeau arrived in the sunlight at the City Hall Square, which must be the most urban setting in the country. It is urban in the best sense, full of a sense of excitement, gaiety and youth, surrounded by the towers of commerce, by the trappings of culture (Henry Moore's famous "Archer") and of learning (Osgoode Hall in the background)—a seemingly perfect setting for a leader for tomorrow.

* * *

Unhappily what this breathtaking setting inspired from the Prime Minister—the man for whom all the fuss was made—was a speech so pedestrian that if almost any other politician had made it, he would have been booed.

It wasn't so much that one expected concrete policy proposals (the Liberal leader has already indicated he's against that kind of thing) or even statistics laying the foundation for the just society.

But one did expect some sort of intellectual content, some significant display that Trudeau believes he isn't the only one around with any brains, that he understands les beaux yeux et les belles fleurs are only the trappings of style and that style itself must have substance.

Instead he gave a curious speech, part discombobulated sloganeering, part first-year-survey-course-in-history lecture on the role of the city-state in the history of civilization.

* * *

He made the obvious point that all great civilizations have developed in urban environments and that he hoped there could be maintained in the country "harmonious cities where ideas can be exchanged."

Nobody is going to vote against that. But it was hardly what the people had come to hear.

The bulk of the adults in the crowd were office workers, skipping lunch to hear him. Many of them had waited nearly an hour in the sun for Trudeau's appearance. They came to hear some memorable words, to feel some broader involvement in Canada's problems. Perhaps even to be uplifted, who knows?

But all the Prime Minister attempted was to incite municipal loyalties. Before he was through, most people looked puzzled, many were beating the crowd out the exits and only the boppers were still ecstatic.

This is the great mystery of the current campaign: why Pierre Trudeau is presenting himself as so much less than he is. I have heard him talk beautifully with depth and intuitive understanding about contemporary Canada to an audience of one.

* * *

All winter long he presented himself on television to an audience of millions as a man with immense respect for the public intelligence. Why now on the hustings when he has audiences of 500 — or 50,000 as yesterday — does he not give a little more of himself and demand a little more of his listeners?

Perhaps Trudeau knows too well that he is riding the crest of success. Maybe he's been infected by the winner's psychology that permeates his camp and figures that no matter how little he says, nothing can go wrong for him now.

Yet it's disappointing that this truly remarkable man has yet to utter a memorable phrase, that he is treating the electorate with a self-contained arrogance which implies the intellectual's snobbish suspicion that the proletariat will be content with circuses and won't, in any case, understand the issues being discussed.

The Liberals may be planning some dramatically memorable last-day speech in Montreal for Monday, but in Toronto yesterday the kid in the crowd who was holding up a lonely sign that read "Fifty to one he says nothing," turned out to be dead right.

SET TO VOTE

By MICHAEL BARKWAY
Editor, Financial Times

On June 25 Canada will observe a national folk festival which—unlike the Stanley Cup of the World Series—takes place only at irregular and unpredictable intervals. There may be another general election within a year. On the other hand it could be as much as four years before we have another, so you cannot afford to miss it.

By taking the proper precautions, you can participate without serious risk. The danger of actual physical injury, in these enlightened days, is negligible. The perils to be guarded against are those which may attack the nervous system or lead to emotional disturbances; and they can be minimized with prudent forethought.

This feast is observed in the home, for compelling reasons which will appear later. It will be a long evening from Newfoundland to British Columbia. Misguided opinions, which merely jar at the outset, can lead to unhealthy emotional conflicts before the end. So choose your company with care.

Secondly, you must take account of a strange phenomenon, not peculiar to Canada but exceptionally evident in this country, which naturalists have never explained.

The more populous regions of Canada do not abound in poisonous snakes. But it has frequently been observed that urban dwellers are especially liable to suffer from snake bite on election day.

For reasons now lost in history, Canadian law provides that the common and authenticated remedies for snake bite may not be supplied in any public place—not even in a club—on the day of an election. This is why the election feast is always celebrated in the home.

Before next weekend it is also prudent to ensure that your idiot box is in tolerable working order. A little distortion will not matter; much of the time it may even be an advantage. If information were all you needed, you would do better with steam radio.

Once proper precautions have been taken for the evening, you may confidently conduct the preliminary ritual of casting your vote. This is not difficult, provided you ignore the well-meaning busybodies who will tell you to vote for the candidate of your choice. Such ill-judged advice creates a painful condition of stress since it is highly unlikely that you will find any candidate of your choice on the ballot.

Liberty does not mean license. If everybody could vote for anybody they liked order would be sacrificed to anarchy. Your democratic privilege is to select the least objectionable of the named candidates.

Despite Their Importance Barnacles Little Studied

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL

The series of low tides which happily occur during daylight in early summer expose a great variety of marine life to add interest to a sea-shore visit at this time. Rocky areas are particularly well populated but no two beaches are ever exactly alike in terms of their inhabitants because the species of plants and animals that are present is determined by many variable factors.

Carl

One creature is almost certain to be present wherever there is suitable attachment, namely the barnacle. Along the exposed coast two kinds are usually seen, the goose barnacle with a flexible stalk and the conical acorn barnacle. On our protected beaches only the acorn type is found, so called because in shape they vaguely resemble these structures.

Barnacles are world-wide in distribution and are certainly one of our most common seashore creatures. However, they are so unspectacular in appearance they would receive little attention from us were it not that they create hazards for bare feet on rocky shores and foul up ships' bottoms and other man-made structures in the sea. Yet despite their conspicuousness and their obvious economic importance barnacles have received remarkably little scientific attention.

* * *

There are several reasons for this. First, barnacles are rather difficult to identify. Many of the species look very much alike; it takes an expert to distinguish some of our common forms from one another—a fact which discourages their study right at the start.

Second their life history is rather complex and until comparatively recent times it has not been possible to rear barnacles in laboratories in sufficient numbers to make it possible to carry out extensive tests with them.

Finally relatively few people have become interested in working with the group possibly because other groups of marine organisms promise more exciting results or are of greater economic importance.

Actually the broad aspects of barnacle biology are well known. Early in the study it was established that barnacles were definitely crustaceous and not molluscs which their limey shell would indicate. Adults are hermaphroditic. After cross fertilization each incubates a mass of eggs which eventually hatch into larvae which are discharged into the water. The larvae are tiny swimming creatures very similar in appearance to the young of copepods and other crustaceans to which barnacles are closely related. They grow rapidly and go through a series of molts all the while swimming wherever the currents may carry them.

At the sixth molt, the young barnacle changes form radically. The body elongates and becomes enclosed in two shells hinged at the top and open at the bottom. Appendages which project through the opening are used both for swimming and crawling on the bottom. This "cyprid" stage lasts for some days during which the creature, about three one-hundredths of an inch long, spends more and more time clinging to a support. Eventually it cements itself permanently to a rock or other solid structure and begins to build the typical limestone shell around its body.

* * *

The usual form is that of a cone with a series of moveable plates covering an opening at the apex. However the shape is greatly influenced by the space available, consequently the design varies from a flattened cone to an elongated cylinder and the surface may be smooth or rough depending upon the amount of erosion to which the shell is subjected.

However, while the general life history pattern is known many details are still obscure. At what season do the various local species breed? How do you distinguish between the larvae of the several species found in any one area? What determines when and where the young barnacles settle? Why do some areas remain free of barnacles while others are thickly covered?

While the study of barnacles has been somewhat neglected interest has been renewed in recent years and with advances in laboratory technique one can hope that answers to some of the questions will be gained in time. Actually the interest is more than academic. If some means can be discovered to prevent barnacles from settling on ships' bottoms, for example, large sums of money could be saved each year. It has been estimated that the U.S. Navy alone spends $280 million annually in barnacle removal. Obviously the lowly barnacle will be receiving more than passing attention for the next few years.

SURROUNDED by students from Victoria's Chinese public school, Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson sits on the front steps and displays his fluency in the Mandarin language by reading a calligraphy notebook. Mr. Anderson began to learn the language when he attended classes there at age seven. He later polished it during a three-year stint with the external affairs department in Hong Kong.

AT FEDERALIST MEETING

'Can't Ignore U.S.' Claims Candidate

By JOHN SLINGER

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Anderson laid it on the line at a tri-party discussion of foreign policy Wednesday night.

He told more than 150 persons at a World Federalist-sponsored meeting in Bank Street school:

- Canada's "most critical" foreign relationship is that with the United States;
- No "simple solution" can be offered by Canada or any other country to bring an end to the war in Vietnam;
- Canada should adopt what might appear a "callous," but which he would prefer to call "pragmatic" approach to foreign aid;
- China is "generally disinterested" in establishing diplomatic relations with Canada.

'LOSING RESPECT'

Victoria New Democratic Party candidate Dr. Harvey Richardson said Canada is losing respect in the world community "because we appear to be a yes-man to Uncle Sam—hanging on to his shirt tails economically and politically."

Gwyn Owen, Esquimalt-Saanich Progressive Conservative Association president who substituted for candidate George Chatterton, said that if Canada did not agree with a U.S. policy, "then we should at least have the guts to stand up and say so."

Mr. Anderson said Canada should not permit "nationalist sentiment" against the U.S. to result in actions contrary to Canada's "national interest."

"It is vital to remember that we simply cannot ignore the United States," he said. Relations with that country affected Canada's ability to work toward "our goal of world peace."

The Conservative and NDP speakers criticized the ineffectiveness of the International Control Commission in mediating the Vietnam war. Canada, India and Poland are members of the commission.

ashamed" of Canada's efforts on the commission. "We haven't succeeded in stopping the war—nor has anyone else," but the ICC still existed as the single line of communication between North and South Vietnam.

Dr. Richardson slammed the Liberal government's continuing policy of arms sales to the United States. "We should not be selling weapons for use to Mr. Anderson replied that he was "not the slightest bit kill in Vietnam.

The Liberals use the excuse that it is a money-making arrangement, he said. But Americans opposed to their country's Vietnam policy were saying: "It looks like you Canadians will do anything to make a buck."

Mr. Owen received a muttered chorus of "No!" from the audience when he said Canada has no right to interfere in the internal war between North and South Vietnam "even though we may abhor it."

Under questioning from the audience, Mr. Owen said the war was "primarily a problem between the United States and Vietnam."

Dr. Richardson said he disagreed "completely" and said the presence of U.S. troops in Vietnam made it an international, not an internal affair.

The Conservative and NDP speakers discovered they shared a principle that one per cent of Canada's annual gross national product should be given in aid to underdeveloped countries.

EFFECTIVE USE

Mr. Anderson said he agreed with the one per cent objective but added that the amount was not so important as making sure the aid money was put to effective use.

He suggested the method should be to concentrate the aid in one country until its economic development is sufficient to permit the helped country give aid to others.

The result would be to leave some countries dangling for a period and "some people might suggest this is a cruel policy."

But we are fooling ourselves if we think that one per cent will help if the aid is not concentrated where it will do some good."

Dr. Richardson condemned the government's stated desire to establish diplomatic relations with Communist China while still advocating United Nations' recognition of Nationalist China.

Mainland China, as a "self-respecting nation" would never accept this.

"What it means," he said, "is that the Liberals, as usual, will do nothing."

ESTABLISH LINK

Mr. Anderson said it is important that Canada try to establish a diplomatic link with Peking because the presence of westerners in the Chinese capital might someday "have some minor influence" on that country's future course.

However, he said, "the thought that we — an insignificant power in China's eyes — could influence them — the world's leading power in their eyes — is naive."

He suggested a short-term exchange of students, professors and journalists might assist communications with China.

Dr. Richarson said NORAD, the Canada-U.S. defence agreement, is "obsolete, ineffective and very expensive," yet the Liberal government has renewed the treaty.

Mr. Owen read from a policy statement prepared by Conservative leader Stanfield that endorsed the "principle of continental defence," but criticized the treaty renewal by order-in-council as "contempt of Parliament."

The Conservative speaker reaffirmed Mr. Stanfield's recently-stated concept of a Pacific trading area as vital to western Canadian trade.

"We must trade and we must trade with the nations on our doorstep."

Candidate's Pen Points Way to Point

Victoria New Democratic Party candidate Dr. Harvey Richardson took pen in hand Wednesday to show that Communist China has good products for trade with Canada.

He said the pen was made in Communist China.

"And twice it's been through all the cycles of our automatic washing machine and it's still working."

He took it apart and handed bits to the other speakers at the World-Federalist sponsored meeting in Bank Street School.

The candidates had been asked why Canada insisted on payment in cash rather than other trade goods in its Chinese wheat deals.

Dr. Richardson corrected Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal David Anderson for saying China lacked trade goods.

Mr. Anderson replied that he had said China had goods, but that country did not know what the Canadian consumer wanted.

"That's not what it says in my notes," said Dr. Richardson.

"It's that pen you're using," said the Liberal.

West Coast Work Plight Ignored

Prime Minister Trudeau has either written off Victoria "or he does not care about the west coast or understand its problems."

That was the message of Victoria Conservative candidate Eric Charman to a coffee party at Oak Bay Beach Hotel Wednesday night. About 200 persons attended.

Mr. Trudeau Monday in Victoria warned shipyard workers that high costs in this area are keeping local yards out of the ship-building market. He said all taxpayers must pay for any subsidies.

Mr. Charman said these statements indicated the PM "is not interested in the plight of west coast yards."

He also said that Mr. Trudeau had implied, "We shall rule with a strong arm on behalf of you, the nine English speaking provinces, against Quebec."

Mr. Charman said the Liberals are afraid to deal with events of the day and to project a policy for Canada.

As for Mr. Trudeau, "I couldn't care less whether he's colorful or not."

Of Robert Stanfield he said, "I look upon him as the man of the hour in Canada today."

BIDS ARE LOWER

Tory Claims Ship Contract Vote Bribery

Political bribery was charged against the Liberal government Wednesday by Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative candidate George Chatterton.

Speaking to a coffee party at 592 Phelps, Mr. Chatterton was referring to the announcement earlier that day that a $6 million department of transport ship contract was earmarked for B.C.

This "is the most blatant attempt at political bribery because the replacement for the Estevan has been scheduled for years now."

Mr. Chatterton went on to criticize Prime Minister Trudeau, who "in effect said that B.C. does not deserve a government ship construction job.

"And the Liberal candidate confirmed before the all-candidate meeting last Tuesday afternoon that our shipbuilding capability here must be restricted to a ship repair capability.

"The Liberal candidate maintained that our shipyards in B.C. are inefficient.

"The fact of the matter is that when we called for bids on a man-hour basis, our West Coast shipyards were considerably below those of the East Coast."

Telephone Cables Go Underground

All telephone cables in the vicinity of Simpsons-Sears Hillside shopping centre are going underground.

As part of a two-phase project—first part of which will cost $27,000—two 3½-ton precast concrete manholes were lowered into the ground Wednesday on Hillside between Doncaster and Shelbourne Streets.

B.C. Telephone Co. said the two and two which were previously installed, plus laying underground ducts, will complete the first phase. Second part of the undertaking will include pulling in cable and splicing in the manholes.

OLSON RUNNING ON LIBERAL TICKET

Ex-Socred Faces Big Challenge

By RON MacDONALD

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) — In the short-grass cattle ranges and dryland wheat farms of southeastern Alberta, politicians do well to have a farming background. It is an asset shared by all four candidates for Medicine Hat in the June 25 federal election.

The contestants are H. A. (Bud) Olson, MP for Medicine Hat in the last house of Commons, running as a Liberal after crossing the floor last September from the Social Credit party; Progressive Conservative Charles (Chuck) Meagher, mayor of Medicine Hat; Walter Strom, Social Credit, and Lewis Toole, union representative and NDP candidate.

Campaigning in the constituency reflects its blend of the old rural west and modern urban living. The dominant issues are the intricate problems of late-20th-century agriculture, reaching into international trade and finance.

TOUGH TO COVER

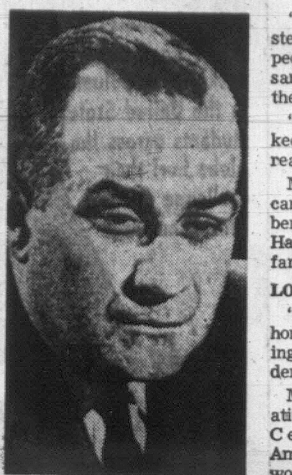
A touring sound truck proclaims the Conservative cause in the city of Medicine Hat and all parties except the NDP are making use of radio and television. But all candidates concentrate on the grass-roots, person-to-person approach, which poses problems in a riding covering 12,000 sparsely-populated square miles.

A key question is whether Mr. Olson's party switch will affect the success he has had in winning four of five contests in the constituency since 1957.

When he last won in 1965, the 42-year-old farmer and merchant piled up the biggest majority in the riding since 1921 in defeating Mr. Meagher, a Liberal candidate and Mr. Toole. But Medicine Hat has not returned a Liberal since 1921.

All but Mr. Olson's most embittered opponents concede him a Commons reputation as a well-informed member who stays in touch with his constituents.

For many former Social Crediters this may override any feelings of betrayal and most Liberals seem to welcome a man they regard as a winner.



OLSON

MEAGHER
. . . main rival

Several members of his campaign organization have followed him into the Liberal camp.

VOTE THE MAN

"Mr. Olson is a keen parliamentarian and a good representative," says Lyle Flynn, his campaign manager. "This has been Social Credit country but we're figuring people will vote the man."

Despite talk among Social Crediters and Conservatives of running a joint candidate against Mr. Olson, Mr. Meagher and Mr. Strom were nominated by their respective parties.

The youngest mayor in Medicine Hat's history when he defeated Harry Veiner in 1966 at the age of 36, Mr. Meagher is a pharmacist who makes a point of his farming background.

"I'm the son of a homesteader and I think most of the people in the area are of the same ilk. I can understand them and talk to them.

"I wish to be my brother's keeper, but only if my brother really needs keeping."

Mr. Strom, 52, a first-time candidate and brother of Alberta Agriculture Minister Harry Strom, is a tall, slim farmer from Bow Island, Alta.

LOOK FOR ANSWERS

"These people are looking for honest answers, straight talking," he says. "They don't understand the diplomat's way."

Mr. Toole, western representative of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers of North America, which has organized workers in Medicine Hat clay products plants, lives two doors from Mr. Meagher. Both grew up in Saskatchewan and moved to Medicine Hat in the late 1950s.

As a man who grew up on a farm, served in the army, was flooded out two years in a row on his own farm and then went to work in industry, Mr. Toole says:

"I think I know more about the average person than the three other candidates put together."

On June 25, 17,000 rural and 14,000 urban voters will make their choice.

Shantytown Defiant; Prepared for Jail

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The hard core of the Poor People's Campaign — virtually empty-handed after Wednesday's Solidarity Day demonstration that capped a 5½-week campaign for government assistance—defiantly dug in at their shantytown encampment today, determined to "go to jail" if necessary.

"We are only beginning to fight," shouted Rev. Ralph David Abernathy in threatening to ignore the government order to dismantle Resurrection City by Sunday.

But unless the fire of Wednesday's speeches sparked new enthusiasm, there seemed some doubt that the unhappy "city," beset by disorganization, internal strife and bad weather, could be kept intact indefinitely.

On the other hand, it appeared essential that Abernathy —who promised to carry the poor people's demands directly to President Johnson—win sufficient concessions to claim the "victory" he needs before ending the campaign. Without it, he will incur the ridicule of the advocates of racial violence who scoff at the effectiveness of peaceful demonstrations.

REDEDICATES HIMSELF

Speaking from the spot where the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. delivered his famous "I have a dream" speech to 200,000 persons five years ago, Abernathy rededicated himself to the principle of non-violence.

But he warned, as did others, that the patience of the country's millions of poor and disadvantaged is growing thin.

President Whitney Young of the National Urban League warned this "may be the last march which is non-violent and which brings blacks and whites together."

The nation and Congress "must listen to us now . . . before the prophets of violence replace the prophets of peace and justice."

The crowd, estimated at between 40,000 and 50,000—almost half of them white — sweltered under the searing sun for up to nine hours as the somewhat disorganized parade and then about 20 speeches dragged on.

Represented were every economic, age and racial group of the U.S.

STIFFLED A DREAM

Abernathy, successor to Dr. King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, accused a "19th century Southern racist Congress" of stiffling the dream Dr. King outlined here in 1963.

"I don't care whether the department of the interior gives us a permit to stay on in Resurrection City," Abernathy declared in saying campaigners would go to jail if necessary. They will stay put "until justice rolls out of the halls of Congress . . . and the glory and abundance of this God's nation be revealed to the poor."

The widow of King, assassinated April 4, won wild applause when she introduced the Vietnam war issue, saying the U.S. should "end the most brutal and evil war in history" and put the money into a total war on American poverty.

So far, the campaign's accomplishments—despite almost daily marches on various government departments—have been skimpy.

Tuesday, the education and labor committee of the House of Representatives approved and sent to Congress for action an additional $100,000,000 for the school lunch program for needy children. There also have been concessions from the agriculture department for the release of more supplies to the surplus food distribution program.

This falls far short of the campaign's call for a guaranteed annual income, a minimum standard for welfare payments and a vastly improved free food program, to list but a few demands.

New Left Turn Prohibitions To Be Enforced

Signs banning left turns from 4 to 6 p.m. have been in effect at Blanshard and View, Hillside and Quadra, and Douglas and Gorge for the last week. Warning notices have been given to offenders.

The turns are barred for motorists headed east on Hillside to go north on Quadra, east on View to go north on Blanshard and east on Gorge to go north on Douglas.

Traffic inspector Richard Berry said most of the offences have been at View and Blanshard where between 60 and 70 violations occur daily.

'DISASTROUS TO BYLAW'

Councillor Attacks Playing Field Critic

NORTH COWICHAN — Ald. John Cannon said Wednesday hot-headed, irresponsible criticism could be disastrous to recreation progress in the Cowichan district.

He said there was evidence of misunderstanding in the recent criticism of North Cowichan Recreation Commission by president Ken Paskin of the Cowichan Field Sports Association.

The association passed a resolution suspending activities in junior soccer, little league baseball and ladies' softball in protest against the lack of playing field facilities.

Ald. Cannon said at a meeting of municipal council, "Cooler heads in the different associations will realize that quitting solves nothing and that no one respects a quitter."

He suggested personal interviews with the various group leaders to explain council policy.

Ald. Dennis Hogan, a member of the recreation commission, said the delegation headed by Mr. Paskin was badly misinformed.

He said, "No playing fields are to be taken away from these people and new facilities will be developed separately from the $800.000 bylaw for a recreation complex at Pioneer Park.

"We know there are deficiencies and are doing our utmost to rectify the situation.

"There's a lot of misconception and these people don't realize just how much has been done in the past two years."

Ald. Hogan said it was important no dissension should occur now when the $800,000 bylaw was due to be voted upon.

He said, "Defeat of the bylaw could set us back years."

Mayor Donald Morton said, "Anyone who wants to kill a bylaw can easily stir up dissension and that's what is happening now."

Ald. Cannon said playing fields are council's number one priority but will be financed separately from the $800,000 bylaw.

Mayor Morton said a softball delegation told him they had not been approached by Mr. Paskin prior to the meeting at which the resolution to suspend activities was passed.

He said, "These things grow out of the grumblings of two or three malcontents."

Nine-Hole Course Proposed

LAKE COWICHAN — Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has displayed interest in providing government land for a nine-hole golf course at Lake Cowichan.

Director Ernie Ardley told the village Chamber of Commerce this week there is tremendous enthusiasm in the district for such a project.

He said 50 acres was required and he had written to the minister about the possibility of obtaining land near the Kiwanis Lakeview Park.

Mr. Campbell's reply was to ask for more information regarding which local body would be promoting the golf course, to whom the land would be dedicated, the estimated budget and financial backing.

Mr. Ardley suggested the chamber sponsor a committee to investigaet the availability of land.

Gordon Loutet said the chamber need not sponsor the entire project but give encouragement to get the thing started.

Mr. Ardley was asked to form a committee.

Council Backs Objections On Causeway

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal council is to seek provincial government aid in keeping H. B. Elworthy and Associates from making permanent a causeway and loading ramp at Crofton.

The Elworthy company is using the ramp and causeway in towing away loads from Crofton slag pile — remains of an early smelter operation.

The federal government has informed council it has no alternative but to approve the ramp and causeway.

In a letter the department of transport said an investigation had been carried out in the light of council's objections.

NOT LAND USE

But the D.O.T. said the Navigable Waters Protection Act does not give it authority to deal with land use, pollution or unsightly appearance.

Mayor Donald Morton reminded council Crofton ratepayers were strongly opposed to the structures becoming permanent.

Ald. Gerry Smith said council and the ratepayers consented to Elworthy having five years in which to remove the slag pile.

BACK OBJECTIONS

He said, "Now the company is trying to take advantage of the fact the ramp and causeway have been sitting there five years.

"As a matter of good faith we should further back the ratepayers' objections."

Ald. Margaret Robertson said the situation was that council did not want to do anything to impede removal of the slag pile but doesn't want the structure as a permanent feature of the Crofton landscape.

Council is to approach the provincial government about the matter and may extend the lease by two years to the Elworthy company.

Flown to Bamfield

Bert Pearce, a long-time resident of Carmanah lighthouse, was mixing cement when some blew into his eye.

By Wednesday morning the eye was so badly irritated a helicopter was dispatched from Victoria to fly the injured man to hospital for treatment.

Contract Let For Wharf

The Tofino-based firm of Thomas Gibson and Sons have been awarded a contract for construction of a new wharf and float at Ahousat Reserve on Flores Island.

Included in the $48,000 renovation will be the removal of the present approach and replacement of the 12 by 310 foot wharfheads.

A 9 by 100 foot fibreglass pontoon will be added to existing floats.

In other events, the school board of Ucluelet-Tofino will accept tenders for student transportation in the fall. About 240 students will be involved and tenders must be submitted before noon Wednesday.

Tenders will also be accepted at the school board office for painting the exterior of Ucluelet Secondary school. The job deadline is August 31.

Also being tendered is a paving job on 31.58 miles of the Alberni-Tofino highway and some Ucluelet and Tofino streets.

Highway paving will be from the present blacktop.

Chemainus Seeks Third Trustee

NORTH COWICHAN — Chemainus ratepayers feel that because they pay 49.6 per cent of the required revenue of School District 67 (Ladysmith) they should have a third trustee on the board.

At present Chemainus has two trustees on the seven-member board.

Wednesday they asked North Cowichan council support of their claim for proportional representation.

Mayor Donald Morton said he did not know how far it was the responsibility of municipal councils to intercede in such an issue but he thought council should support the ratepayers' contention.

He said, "But I don't think we would want to make a special issue out of it."

He said the selection of trustees is based partly on assessment and partly on population.

Chemainus ratepayers recently voted in favor of a $1 million school referendum after previously being instrumental in defeating two earlier referendums which sought to consolidate secondary school education at Ladysmith.

WATER TANK BLAST KILLS PIPEFITTER

PORT ALBERNI — One pipefitter was killed and two others injured in an explosion at a MacMillan and Bloedel pulp and paper mill here Wednesday.

Rick R. Hull, 27, was hurled 35 feet across a room into a concrete wall. He had been standing on the lid of an 18-foot-high hot water tank at the time of the accident.

Injured was Ernie Gerboff with two punctured eardrums and a dislocated shoulder. He is in satisfactory condition in hospital today. George Guy, also taken to hospital after the accident, was treated and released.

A company investigation opened Wednesday afternoon and is still under way, but a spokesman said today the possibility of accumulated gases in the tank was being looked into.

At the time of the accident Hall was positioning a pipe for welders working 15 feet below him on the tank. The company spokesman said the water in the tank was under no pressure and had been worked on five times previously this year.

He said the investigators would attempt to draw gases off the tank.

The tank was located in an area where only service crews worked.

The dead man was a fourth-year apprentice for the firm. His wife, the former Valerie Praisley, a teacher at a local school, has just been awarded a $1,500 scholarship to continue her studies.

Board, Council Seeking Hospital for Chemainus

NORTH COWICHAN — A joint Chemainus hospital board and municipal council delegation is to meet Health Minister Ralph Loffmark Monday morning.

It will seek the minister's approval to draw up plans for a new Chemainus hospital which can then be presented for ratepayer approval at the same time as the Cowichan Regional Hospital District votes on providing a chronic care unit at Cowichan District Hospital.

Warning Label Asked

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Tuberculosis Association unanimously passed a resolution Wednesday asking the federal government to require cigarette manufacturers to place a label on cigarette packages warning the user that smoking is injurious to his health.

MERGER FAVORED

NORTH COWICHAN—At the instigation of Ald. John Cannon, North Cowichan council Wednesday again initiated a move toward amalgamation with Duncan.

Ald. Cannon's motion reaffirming the municipal council's policy of favoring amalgamation passed unanimously.

Mayor Donald Morton said amalgamation would be of mutual advantage but North Cowichan was not in favor of dividing the municipality in any way.

TORIES SEEK CONSTITUTION CHANGE

Special Status Bid Denied

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Faribault says the Conservatives have only one constitutional policy—a policy of constitutional revision—not two, as Prime Minister Trudeau had suggested.

Progressive Conservative candidate in Montreal Gamelin in the June 25 federal election, he told a social club here Wednesday it is untrue that the Conservatives have two policies on the constitution—one for Quebec and one for the rest of Canada.

He said if the obsolete provisions were removed from the constitution, Canada itself would have the special status some people now are demanding for the province of Quebec.

He said the obsolete provisions included:

- A preamble to the constitution which states that Confederation is for the purpose of "prompting the interests of the British Empire."
- That all rights and powers are supposed to come from the British Crown.
- That privileges and powers of the Senate and the Commons may not exceed those provided for in 1867.
- That all residual powers are attributed to the federal government.
- That usage of the French language in the federal administration is not guaranteed and the majority could force it to disappear.

Mr. Faribault denied he advocates special status for Quebec. "I have always said, on every occasion and in both languages, that whatever Quebec asks for itself should be offered to the other provinces."

. . . STANFIELD

He said the Liberal government apparently have a little confidence in its choice and is waiting until after the election to "appoint one of its friends to the post."

"Do you not feel you will be the government after the election?" a report asked.

Mr. Stanfield promptly denied that he expects the Liberals to win.

Earlier, he used a helicopter called Faribault to fly to communities in four ridings south of he St. Lawrence.

It rained almost steadily from Montreal to Quebec City and the crowds were small, but friendly. It was the first time they had seen the tall Nova Scotian and appeared entranced by his craggy features.

Mr. Stanfield spoke in French throughout the day and broke into a pleased smile whenever the crowds cheered. One of his best receptions came at Drummondville, where about 800 persons stood in the rain as he spoke from a tiny circular platform on a lamp post.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

At Jacques-Cartier, south of Montreal in a riding where Postmaster General Cote is fighting for re-election, he spoke to about 100 voters in a high school auditorium, then to 150 at city hall.

At St. Hyacinthe, where Conservative Theo Ricard is fighting Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve, Mr. Stanfield made a brief speech from Mr. Ricard's downtown headquarters.

It attracted a crowd of about 200 and he shook hands with most of them later.

At the Chateau Frontenac Hotel here, Mr. Stanfield ran into the only sour note of the day—a boy carrying a placard that read "Stanfield—a friend or foe of English Quebec?" The other side read: "Stanfield for underwear. Trudeau for prime minister."

At Centre Durocher, the first speaker was Rodrigue Pageau, the party's candidate against Manpower Minister Jean Marchand in Langelier riding.

PROMISES TO HELP

Conservatives have pinned their hopes for upsetting Mr. Marchand on shipyard layoffs in the area and Mr. Stanfield said a Conservative government would do "everything possible" to make Canada's shipbuilding industry competitive with those of other nations.

He also said Conservatives would give Ancienne Lorette airport here international status by equipping it with a customs building.

Mr. Faribault and Mr. Stanfield said Liberal government has meant economic chaos, high taxes, unemployment and interest rates.

Mr. Stanfield said the government has not been able to meet targets se by the Economic Council of Canada. The cost of living and unemployment were twice what the council said was tolerable and economic expansion was half the figure the council said was necessary.

"It is a government of amateurs," he said.

Mr. Stanfield was to fly to Nova Scotia today to speak at Yarmouth, Port Hawkesbury and Dartmouth.

Greek Junta Shuffled By Strongman

ATHENS (AP) — Greek strongman George Papadopoulos dismissed his cabinet today and within two hours reappointed most of its members.

Dimitrios Patilis, the minister for Northern Greece, was given the additional title of second deputy premier. The other changes were in the ministries of justice, communications, social welfare, merchant marine and labor.

Those retained in the government included Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakos and Co-ordination Minister Nicholas Makarezos, the other two former colonels who with Papadopoulos make up the ruling triumvirate in the junta that has held power since the military coup April 21, 1967.

The dismissal of the cabinet was announced by a government spokesman who said Papadopoulos was revamping his government "so that a new generation might be appointed to carry out the political, social and economic aspirations" of the military regime.

The first tree ancestor on earth was the Psilophyton, which lived nearly 400 million years ago.

. . . DOUGLAS PLAN

If the government made them pay their share, another $605,000,000 would flow into the public treasury. This would allow a reduction of taxes for those in lower and middle income groups.

But the Liberal and Progressive Conservatives "consistently refused to commit themselves" on the Carter proposals, Mr. Douglas said, although there could never be "a just society unless you have a just taxation system."

Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Stanfield were tied up in the "financial establishment of Canada." They could not do anything but hedge on the Carter report because "the freeloaders might stop contributions to their campaign funds."

'CAN'T BE BOUGHT'

Candidates the NDP was offering across the country were "men who can be neither bribed, bullied nor bought."

The programs the NDP was advocating in the current campaign would not be a charge upon the people, Mr. Douglas said.

By putting currently unemployed people to work in such fields as building housing, more wealth would be generated for the country and more tax dollars would flow to the public treasury.

"If we reduce unemployment by 1½ percentage points . . . that would increase Canada's wealth output by $3,000,000,000 a year and one-third of that would go to the federal government in taxes," Mr. Douglas said.

The NDP stand for free post-secondary education was a long-term investment. But the average university graduate earned $4,100 a year more than the youth who only completed high school. This would mean more tax revenue for the federal government.

The government could save some of the money it is spending now on "obsolete" defence measures, Mr. Douglas said. He cited $50,000,000 being spent to convert four destroyers to missile carriers, $215,000,000 slated for purchase of United States jet interceptors and the $140,000,000 a year Canada pays for her share of the North American Air Defence Command.

Door Collapses; Worker Injured

A 58-year-old man is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today with back injuries sustained when a door fell on him at work Wednesday.

Andrew Jedenak, 825 Shamrock, a cellarman at Grower's Wine, was injured when a door which was part of a temporary structure, collapsed on him.

PARTY GIRL Gerda Munsinger, 38, today said she will marry tobacco merchant Ernst Wagner, 58, in Munich, West Germany, in July. She refused to discuss Canadian sex and security scandal she was implicated in, saying "that's all in the past."

Blood Donors Clinic Held By Red Cross

Unfortunately, you may not be on hand at the right time to dive heroically in and rescue that beautiful damsel from the water when she falls off the deep end, but . . .

But, you may still save a life with your donation to the Red Cross blood doner clinic held this week.

Remaining clinics:

Today, HMCS dockyard, 1 to 4 p.m.

Friday, Legislative buildings, 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m.

On index, industrials gained .20 to 162.36, golds rose .24 to 212.87, base metals slid .25 to 102.32 and western oils advanced 2.74 to 202.26.

Final volume was 3,419,000 shares compared with 3,472,000 Wednesday.

AT NEW YORK: Volume for the first four hours was 12,540,000 shares compared with 9,480,000 Tuesday.

Pent-up demand from Wednesday market closing was cited as a reason for the big increases in volume, but it was not as large as last Thursday which also followed a market recess.

Due to weakness in some blue chips, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss, but the broadly-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks posted a good gain. In the over-all list, gains outnumbered losses by about 2,300 issues. International Paper, up a fraction, was the volume leader.

Among other active stocks, American Telephone, up a fraction, continued to pace a rally by utilities which have been favored lately due to hopes that an income tax surcharge would be passed by the U.S. House of Representatives.

Great Western Financial paced savings-and-loan holding companies in a rally based on a report that the savings and loans had a net savings gain of $736,000,000 in May.

AT VANCOUVER industrial issues strengthened in price, while mines continued to weaken in moderate trading to 11 a.m.

Block Bros. led the gainers, putting on $1.25 to $14.75 and warrants added $1.12 to $12.62.

Also in the industrials, Weldwood advanced $1.12 to $14.50 on 900 shares traded. MacMillan Bloedel dropped .25 to $22.75.

Losses outnumbered gains in the mines as TC Explorations slipped .13c to $1.62; Utica backed off .10 to $3.65; Kimberley Copper fell .13 to $1.30 and South Seas dropped .07c to .88.

Leading gainer in the mines was Arctic.

AT MONTREAL the market adopted a wait and see attitude as all eyes were on the U.S. House of Representatives which debated the 10 per cent tax surcharge and mandatory $6 billion cut in government spending.

Clean Air Puts Firm In Chips

EDMONTON (CP) — Seven years of efforts to comply with provincial anti-pollution legislation have put the Zeidler Plywood Corp. in the chips.

The company now sells about 40 per cent of its waste material to a chip-board manufacturer instead of burning it.

The rest of the waste, mostly bark, is still being burned, says executive assistant Ken Campbell, but research by MacMillan Bloedel in Vancouver may eventually find an economic use for this material also.

Some waste is already being used in the production of chemicals and fertilizer.

A complete combustion incinerator, built to government and company standards, will be installed in about six months. Fired with natural gas, the incinerator will have an internal temperature of about 1,400 degrees fahrenheit, hot enough to reduce the wood cleanly and smokelessly.

TIME LIMIT SET

When the anti-pollution legislation was passed by the Alberta government, existing companies were given five years to install pollution control equipment but this was extended because of the lack of research in the field, Mr. Campbell said.

Three alternative methods of solving the problem were considered:

- Burning all the waste in a total combustion incinerator;
- Dumping it.
- Relocating the plant to a more isolated area from its site on the southern edge of the city.

But none of these was financially or economically feasible, said Mr. Campbell.

"Besides I'm a Scotsman and hate to see anything that could be used go to waste."

HELPS MEET COSTS

Revenue from wood chip sales helps offset the cost of pollution control, said Mr. Campbell. because any waste sold does not have to be burned.

The company can produce a maximum of 20 tons of saleable waste a day, but this varies with the type of plywood being manufactured, Mr. Campbell said.

The initial cost of the incinerator will be about $200,000, including installation, but operating costs will be low, he said.

The company also spent more than $20,000 developing a machine to break waste into small particles and the building supplies company that produces the board invested $80,000 in redesigning equipment.

Mr. Campbell said Zeidler Plywood has considered producing chip board itself but a significant capital outlay would be necessary to expand the plant.

Chip board is also a competitor to sheeting plywood and production of a material in competition to the main product would not be sound unless the top markets for both could be exploited, he said.

The company is also negotiating with a concrete-block manufacturer that may require wood chips for one of its product lines.

BEER CAN REFUND OFFERED

He said he is doing it to keep the price of canned beer the same as bottled beer, following a dime-a-dozen increase on canned beer ordered by the British Columbia Liquor Control Board.

Mr. Ginter first proposed to put a dime in every carton, but this was ruled out by the attorney-general's department.

He said the refunds will be paid at the Tartan warehouse in Vancouver and at the brewery in Prince George. The cans will be crushed and sold as scrap metal.

Surcharge In Senate By Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's 10-per-cent income tax surcharge appears to have a safe but not overwhelming margin for passage as it comes before the House of Representatives for a vote today after a year of controversy and delay.

The Senate, anticipating House approval, has scheduled its own vote Friday.

If the anticipated script is followed, everyone in the country who now has a federal income tax deducted from his pay cheque will find the tax bite 10 per cent bigger in about three weeks.

DON'T LET ADS CREATE PROBLEMS

MONTREAL (CP) — The advertising industry must make sure it helps solve social and economic problems and not create them, especially in the current trend of violence in North America, C. Warren Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Audit Bureau of Circulations said today.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the board of directors, Mr. Reynolds said advertising had a responsibility to society to provide guidance through effective sight and sound communications.

Air Canada Appointment Delay Hit

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

QUEBEC CITY — The Liberal government appeared to be holding off appointing a new president of Air Canada to succeed Gordon McGregor, who has retired, to avoid criticism in the election campaign, Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield said here in a press conference Wednesday.

He said he wanted to express his protest at the manner in which the Liberal government was delaying the appointment. He also objected to its apparent determination not to act on the recommendation of Mr. McGregor to appoint the vice-president W. E. Seagrim as president.

"I can only assume this is being done so that the government can appoint one of its friends to the position," he said, "I can't understand why this office has not been filled."

He commented on the federal government's decision for a special issue of $150 million 364-day Government of Canada treasury bills. This will be the third issue of special treasury bills in the past 17 months.

Mr. Stanfield said it is a further indication of the shortage of cash being experienced by the Canadian government due to its extravagance. He said it was an indication of the high cost to Canadians of the mismanagement by the Liberals of the country's economic affairs.

Dividends Increased

TORONTO (CP)—Maple Leaf Gardens Ltd. of Toronto announced Tuesday an increase in its quarterly dividend rate to 25 cents a share from 15 cents.

The company also declared an extra payout of 15 cents a share. The due date for both the regular and extra is July 15 to shareholders of record June 28.

In 1967, extras of $1 and $1,50 were paid.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Bond Market Stable Awaiting Tax Changes

By AB KENT
Business Editor

The bond market appears to have bottomed and turned in full anticipation of passage this week of the U.S. tax increase bill.

Kent

Prospects for a stable bond market are better than they have been for months, even though there is some misgiving that what the Congress is doing is little enough to correct the economic ills of North America.

One dealer said the 10 per cent surtax hike is a "bare minimum but better than nothing."

He placed great psychological value on passage, which would give lift not only to the low bond prices—which have already shown some new vigor—but create a "good, firm stock market today."

Such is the emotional state of the investing community these days.

In normal times it could be expected that any uptrend in the bond market would be matched by a decline in stock prices. However, as the investment man said, "the old rules are turned around."

Since the bond market has discounted to some extent the possibility of the tax hike, there might not be too dramatic a change should the bill go through.

If it doesn't pass, "there will be a helluva drop in the bond market," the dealer said.

Hopefully, back on the up side, the next thing Canadians could look forward to is a drop in the Bank of Canada discount rate.

New York comment suggests that higher taxes are already being felt in the stock markets; that corporate profits will be down because taxes will be higher and portfolios are being shifted to areas where compensations may be had.

(There is also the impact on profits that will come about through cut-backs in government spending.)

Utilities—a classic hedge and once considered the logical growth area—are coming back as evidenced by the Dow Jones average for Tuesday, 128.51 up 2.97 for its fourth straight gain.

U.S. utility companies propose rate increases to cover any setbacks brought about by an increase in taxation, whereas industry generally must be more cautious about increasing prices, being in a competitive field.

* * *

A major Canadian utility, Calgary Power Ltd., while not proposing rate hikes, is expecting moderate improvement in its earnings this year through growth of population and industry in neighboring Alberta.

The company is one of the fastest growing North American utilities with annual sales climbing recently at a rate of 10 per cent.

Gross revenue this year, according to officers of the company, is expected to hit $46 million, up about $4 million from 1967.

Long term prospects are considered good, as the company has said for the last few years and upon which it bases recent and near-term expansion of generating capacity.

Output capacity has increased by about 60 per cent with recent modifications to the system, and the next phase of development is due for switching on in the early 1970s.

The company expects to go to the public for new financing later this year, possibly a bond issue to retire bank loans for this year's portion of the capital expansion program.

Cost this year is expected to reach about $31 million, up $1.82 million from 1967, when Calgary Power issued $12 million worth of 7½ per cent debentures.

While domestics slumped by 32 per cent, imports rose by 29 per cent.

Tenders were called Tuesday for the new Simpsons-Sears' warehouse and it must be completed by Sept. 2.

Time is of the essence, said the specifications, and in view of the short time allowed in which to bid—closing date is June 28—an extension likely will be sought by interested contractors.

The building will be logistic support for Simpsons-Sears' new Hillside department store, housing inventories and some off-premises departments. It will be located at Pat Bay Highway and Vanalman. The building will measure 264 by 170 feet.

Quebec Paper Firms Busy

CARLETON, Que (CP) — The Quebec pulp and paper industry last year accounted for close to 23 per cent of all capital and repair expenditures made in Quebec by manufacturing industries in general, Paul E. Lachance, president of the Quebec Council of Pulp and Paper Producers, said Wednesday.

Mr. Lachance told the Chamber of Commerce of this Gaspe Peninsula community that investments in the industry throughout Canada in 1967 rose to $659,000,000 while those in Quebec alone were $200,000,000 or 30 per cent of the total.

Mr. Lachance said the demand for paper products is bound to incease throughout the world, and mills are being erected in Quebec and new machinery added to meet this demand.

Recognize Canada Rights, Chambers Urge Subsidiaries

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian and United States chambers of commerce have given formal approval to a set of recommendations designed to achieve more successful business investment and operations in both countries, it was announced today.

The chambers urged both parent and subsidiary companies to encourage their respective governments to "contain any extra-territorial governmental effort" designed to regulate or restrain the operations of the other company.

They suggested that companies "search out and develop local sources of supply" for components and services at competitive prices whenever this is feasible.

The recommendations were prepared jointly by a committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and it took about two years for them to receive official approval.

HELPED CANADA GROW

W. M. Anderson, president of the Canadian chamber, said investment and operations of U.S. business enterprises have "contributed significantly to the economic development of Canada and will continue to do so in the future." He added:

"Canadian investments and operations in the U.S. have become of increasing importance. Both countries welcome such investments and operations on bases compatible with their economic and other national objectives."

The recommendations urged the pursuit of a pricing and purchasing policy designed to achieve an "arm's length" relationship between parent and subsidiary companies. In other words, Canadian subsidiaries of American companies should be allowed to establish after their own price levels in their own environment.

The chambers also stressed the "need to recognize the sovereignty of the respective countries."

MADE RECOMMENDATIONS

Other recommendations urged:

—Extension of local processing of natural resource products

—Pursuit of a pricing and where this is practicable on an economic basis.

purchasing policy to achieve an arm's length relationship between parent and subsidiary companies.

—Sharing in national objectives of full and effective use of each nation's resources.

—To select personnel to serve in other countries who have the capacity to adapt to the local environment.

—To adhere strictly to the laws and practices of the country where the operation exists, including the furnishing of financial information and other data.

BEST VIEW IN THE HOUSE

While referees Whitey Severson and Ralph Plumridge struggle to restore order, Victoria goalie Barry Forbes gets best view in Memorial Arena of one of three fights that punctuated National Lacrosse Association game Wednesday night. Underneath Plumridge and causing all the fuss are Victoria's Jim McNeill and Sid Warick of Vancouver Carlings, who tangled in second period. Shamrocks packed biggest punch in rugged action and handed division leaders 9-4 thumping.

Rocks' Defence Benefits By Emphasis on Offence

IT'S MY VIEW . . .

By Ernie Fedoruk

And Some Time, the Beggar Says, Be Choosy . . .

When Canadian Pacific Airline expressed James D. Mutch into their Victoria office some years ago, the company didn't care if he worked towards community betterment by chastising sports writers.

Like many other parents, his interest in amateur athletics blossoms because of three active tigers. Whenever he can't con his wife into the job, Jamie becomes one of many unheralded "Dawn Patrol" pilots who ferry children to the early-morning swim sessions at the Crystal Garden.

When Vancouver's Elaine Tanner began setting swim records and dominating the sport pages, Mutch passed a remark that contained some authority and some truth.

"You sports writers," he said, "can't wait to shower affection on a champion. But long before Elaine became a champion, you never saw a photographer or a writer down at the pool when she was spending five and six hours a day in the water."

The Silver Fox of CPA has a point.

It must be argued, however, there is nothing new about young people who rise with the robins for long hours of dedicated training. As long as I can remember, runners, gymnasts, swimmers, figure skaters, hockey players and hundreds of other young athletes have been doing it. All hope for athletic glory that comes only to a talented few.

This dedication often is mentioned in print but modern society — the same people who read newspapers — do not become ecstatic over stories of also-rans, regardless of devotion to training.

If anyone can figure a way to sort out the future champions from the lovable kids who never make it, the sports writers surely will come a-running.

●

Nancy Green is another example. Before she became the world's best, Nancy Green was, to many, just another name that popped up in ski results.

The feats of the past are mentioned because there is a track and field meet in the future . . . Saturday, at Centennial Stadium.

There may or may not be any records broken, and I'm not even sure if Xavier Cugat and Ma Perkins are top-seeded in the rhumba contest. The co-sponsoring YMCA makes no promises apart from the expected appearance of several athletes with international experience.

No one is being forced to attend. Nor is there any intention of begging for fan support, because beggars are undignified.

Instead, be warned that the "nobodies" may outnumber the "somebodies" on Saturday's program.

Although she already has had a fair share of attention within the district, Anne Langdale might still be regarded as one of the unheralded youngsters, as were Misses Tanner and Green at that age.

Only 16, the Mt. Douglas blonde has run the 440 faster than any other woman in Canada this year. Even so, George Dean, her coach, treads carefully — with a sidestep here and there — when asked to evaluate Langdale's potential.

Dean shrugs at the mention of world and Olympic times and merely says he has "high hopes."

As it was with Tanner and Green, the demands for Anne Langdale's appearances are increasing. She, along with schoolmate Bill Fediw, were asked to attend the Royal Canadian Legion's six-day coaching clinic at Edmonton next week.

Miss Langdale may have to pass that up because another invitation is expected. It seems she will be asked to join a B.C. team for a trial meet in Toronto on July 1. If the invitation comes, as expected, Anne will pass up the Legion clinic along with several other B.C. athletes.

The Toronto trials will help select a Canadian team for a summer tour of Norway, Sweden and Britain. Before B.C.'s selectors send out any invitations, they want to study the results of this Saturday's meet.

Come along, by all means . . . But don't go just because I told you so.

By DOUG PEDEN

Chalk up another triumph for the theory that "a good offence is the best defence."

You can also mark down a morale-boosting National Lacrosse Association victory for Victoria Shamrocks, who went gunning for goals Wednesday night at Memorial Arena and collected a bonus.

Often hesitant on attack in recent games, the Rocks tried the aggressive approach before 1,663 fans and snapped a slump by charging to a 9-4 win over Vancouver Carlings. After deciding before the game to switch the emphasis from defence to attack, the Rocks got the goals they wanted against the Western Division leaders and found the hustling tactics paid a big dividend.

The bonus arrived as one of Victoria's finest defensive efforts of the season as the aggressive action continually kept the Rocks on top of the mainlanders and seldom allowed the powerful Carls to settle down to their own style of play, which had produced an average of 11 goals in Vancouver's first 10 games.

Success in the often rough battle was particularly pleasing for the "new look" Shamrocks since they had managed only one win in seven previous starts, although one loss was turned into a victory by the league commission because Portland had used ineligible players.

It also lifted Victoria into a second-place deadlock with New Westminister Salmonbellies and back within reaching distance of the top spot, only two points behind Vancouver.

"We decided we might be too defensively-minded," Victoria coach Dave Unwin explained after Carls had been vanquished. "So last Sunday we worked on offensive tactics, plus a new type of floor balance. We also worked on picking up loose balls and getting faceoffs.

"We were offensively-minded going out there tonight. When we lost the ball, we were getting to them before they got settled and keeping them off balance.

"We still have a lot of things to work on, but this was a good start."

Finish Overshadowed Brief Stall

If it was only a start, coach Jack McKinnon's Carls probably won't want any part of the Irish when they finish.

The hunger for goals showed quickly Wednesday, when Jim McNeill got the Rocks out in front with a long sizzler past goalie Skip Chapman with only 15 seconds gone.

Don McNeill made it 2-0 at 3:48 on a neat play with Ranjit Dillon and the Rocks were never headed, although they appeared likely to lose it all when they stopped running in the early minutes of the third period.

They grabbed a 3-2 lead in the opening session and got the only two tallies of a penalty-studded second period before falling into old stand-around habits at the start of the third.

Sid Warick and Gord Fredrickson each collected his second goal of the game and suddenly the score was 5-4 and the Rocks were in danger.

The bustling Billy Gray beat Fredrickson and cruised in for a goal that started the Rocks moving again and school was out for McKinnon's boys. Ray Beech made it 7-4 and slender Ron Zilkie flitted in for two late tallies that added to the Carling humiliation.

Zilkie and Beech each collected two goals but the standouts for Victoria were Ranjit Dillon and goalie Barry Forbes.

Ranjit, slick as a penalty-killer and quick to snatch loose balls, collected five assists, and Forbes came up with 28 saves, including three or four fine blocks when the visitors were threatening.

Carls, confident before the action started and frustrated before it ended, didn't exactly make it a friendly tea party. Three fights spiced the rugged exchanges, including two in the second period when each club collected six penalties.

PICK YOUR PARTNERS

Gray tangled with Fredrickson after being tripped in a corner early in the second period and later in the stanza Jim McNeill resented being kicked and went after Warick.

In the dying minutes, burly Larry McNabb, who had convinced Vancouver forwards it was wise to run with heads up, gave his muscles an extra workout in a clash with Tony Ciolfito.

By that time the Carls were a sad and disorganized crew and the Rocks were in a mood to try their new tactics in another game.

They'll get their chance to learn if the emphasis on attack will continue to pay dividends when they visit Vancouver Friday night.

Maple Leafs' Early Surge Topples Habs

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Montreal Canadiens, 14-8, in a National Lacrosse Association game Wednesday night.

Leafs held a 5-2 lead at the end of the first period and stretched it to 11-4 in the second.

Graeme Gair and Jack Madgett each scored three goals for the Leafs. Ted Howe and Ross Othen each scored two while single goals went to Larry Davidson, John Roberts, Don Riding and Bob Davidson.

Selection Not So Easy After Mick Grabs Medal

Dave Paces Amateur Field As Juniors Show Muscles

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The B.C. Amateur format was designed to help simplify selection of a four-man golf team to represent "our nation" in the interprovinciial Willingdon Cup tournaments.

Somehow, the "kids" have muscled into the men's program. The Willington Cup choices are very much up in the air, but the juniors—using the men's event—have placed the more positive makeup stamp on their choices. (Or a portion thereof.)

It all happened because Dave Mick, a 17-year-old Esquimalt High School student, brewed a formula of consistency and walked away from Gorge Vale with medallist honors in the 64th B.C. tournament.

Not since Dick Munn thundered out of Cedar Hill to reach the 1960 final against Colwood's Laurie Kerr has a junior stirred as much noise as Mick created Wednesday.

Mick, pulling off a great pitch shot on the 72nd and final hole of the medal rounds, charged from behind to lead all qualifiers—men and boys—with a 299 total. The polite but positive Gorge Vale youngster did it with rounds of 74, 77, 74 and 74 and on the par-73 course.

Joining Mick and Field in the match-play quarter-finals which got under way this morning were Kerr, defending champion John Russell, Cec Ferguson, Ross Ellison, Art Donaldson and Tom Moryson.

The scoring suited tournament officials. The eight qualifying berths were filled without resorting to sudden-death play-offs.

The qualifying efforts of Mick and Ferguson—also 17, also from Esquimalt High, and also a Gorge Vale member—undoubtedly earned them berths on the B.C. junior team.

Kerr Qualifies Despite 84 Finish

You can't be as positive about the Willingdon Cup choices with the exception of Russell. Third in the qualifying test with a 301 total, a stroke behind Field, the Point Grey slicker has consistently scored well in Vancouver tournaments this year.

The remaining members of the senior cast stir a guessing game. It became that way because of the sudden collapse of Kerr.

The six-time City Amateur king took a four-stroke lead with a sizzling 69 in Monday's opening round. He remained four shots ahead Tuesday after carding a 75. It was still Kerr, by three shots, after the third round and despite a 78.

Seething but remaining polite, Kerr offfered few comments on his last-round score. It was learned, however, that the playing performance of Seattle's Jim Gannon did much to upset Kerr's game.

Throughout the first three rounds, Gannon was the No. 2 scorer behind Kerr. The University of Washington student started the final round three strokes behind Kerr, as did Mick and Ferguson.

Gannon dropped five shots off the pace on the first hole of the final round. He took a double-bogey six while Kerr carded a par four.

Also playing in the threesome with Kerr and Gannon was Mike Buckley, a well-regarded junior from Vancouver who scored 84 and 82 in his final rounds for a 316 total, third best among the junior contingent.

Mick, who played to a seven handicap when he entered the Times Island Open in March, felt his "improvement in reaching the greens in regulation figures" was the main reason for his consistent scoring.

Wedge Shot to Six Inches From Cup

His four rounds, incidentally, will probably lop another stroke off his handicap—from three to two.

In the first round of the Victoria City Amateur, Mick hit only four of 18 greens but scored 81. He followed that with a 75 and 71 to finish in a fourth-place tie.

The grade 11 student had no trouble hitting the greens this week. In his four rounds, he was on in regulation figures 15-14-16-16 . . . or 61 out of 72.

The sweetest shot of all, however, was his third one on the final hole. He came to the tee knowing he needed a par four to claim the medal. Dave hit a good drive but was short of the green with a seven iron.

Mick hit the ball to within six inches of the cup, tapped in for his par.

Russell's return to top form was indicated in his two-under 71 Wednesday afternoon. ("Around this course," he said, "it feels like a 61.")

Russell's 71 was in keeping with the tournament's one-sub-par-per-round trend. Kerr, with his 69 in the first round; Buckley, with a 72 on Tuesday, and Ellison, with a 72 in the third round, were the only other players to go under par in the first four days.

Mick met Ellison, Russell went against Moryson, Field faced Donaldson and Ferguson tackled Kerr in the quarter-finals that got under way this morning.

Survivors meet Friday in 18-hole semifinals scheduled to start at 10 a.m.

Tornado Clipped By Alert Barber

The largest Kansas City crowd of the North American Soccer League season—13,641—showed up Wednesday night and Eric Barber gave them their money's worth by scoring four goals as the Spurs trounced Dallas Tornado 6-1.

Barber booted in one goal and scored another on a head shot in the first six minutes. His other tallies came in the second half.

The victory enabled Kansas City to increase its Gulf Division lead to 14 points over Houston. Winless Dallas has lost 13 games and tied two.

In other NASL action. Baltimore blanked Atlanta 2-0, New York and San Diego played to a 1-1 tie as did Cleveland and Boston, while Los Angeles and Oakland battled to a scoreless deadlock.

Guy St. Vil scored both goals in the second half as Baltimore knocked off Atlanta, the Atlantic Division pace-setters. The goals were the first in four games for the Bays. Atlanta saw its nine-game unbeaten string come to an end.

Ron Crisp scored with 3½ minutes left to give San Diego its tie with New York. Crisp's goal offset one scored early in the second half by Co Prins of the Generals.

Amancio Cid's header midway through the second half enabled Cleveland to tie Boston. The Beacons tallied late in the first half on a goal by Patrick Mulligan.

In the Oakland-Los Angeles deadlock, goalie Malcolm White of Los Angeles posted his fifth shutout and third straight. He has held the opposition scoreless for 272 minutes in a row.

Luckies Rise to Top On Jackson's Effort

Victoria Luckies used opposition errors as the springboard to jump into a first-place tie with Lake Cowichan in the Stuffy McGinnis Senior Men's Softball League. Luckies downed Bottle Exchange 2-1 at Heywood Avenue Park Wednesday.

Bottlers had a 1-0 lead going into the fourth inning.

Ben Price scored the tying run when he singled, moved to third on an error, then crossed the plate on Rick Blake's sacrifice fly. The winning run came across in the sixth as Jim Moody doubled, stole third and ran in on another Bottler bobble.

Vollmer Gets the Word

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver was patiently waiting near the first tee Wednesday morning when he was told that he will be playing in the Canadian Open golf championship today.

Vollmer, 23, who became an alternate after carding a par 72 in Monday's qualifying round, had waited around for a withdrawal by one of the 147 professionals entered in the 72-hole tournament today through Sunday.

A telegram was received at mid-morning Wednesday, informing Professional Golfers Association officials that Rex Baxter of the United States was withdrawing because of illness. Vollmer was told to take his place.

Baxter's withdrawal was the eighth by a U.S. touring professional in the last two days. Lee Trevino, who won the U.S. Open title Sunday, withdrew early Tuesday after playing a practice round here Monday and 1966 Canadian Open titlist Don Massengale announced his withdrawal Wednesday.

A $25,000 first-place purse is at stake in the Open over the 6,792-yard St. George's Golf Club and a winning score of four-under-par 276 has been predicted. Total prize money is $125,000.

Vollmer's entry brought the list of Canadians playing in the tournament to 31, including three amateurs—Nick Weslock, John Micallef and Jim Dolan, all of Toronto.

It also gave British Columbia three representatives in the field —Vollmer, Bob Cox of Vancouver and Victoria's Bill Wakeham. Another Victoria pro, Vaughan Trapp failed to qualify.

Harry's Sprint Efforts Feature Track Program

Former pole vaulter who was a member of France's junior team, Gerard Dumas has been associated with Vancouver Olympic and Victoria YM-YWCA track clubs since moving to Canada 10 years ago. Canadian track and field correspondent for the Paris newspaper L'Equipe, Dumas has submitted the following comments on the mammoth track and field meet scheduled Saturday at Centennial Stadium:

By GERARD DUMAS

Some national records could be in danger Saturday when what promises to be the greatest track and field meet ever staged on Vancouver Island is presented at Centennial Stadium.

Harry Jerome, Irene Piotrowski, Randy Montgomery, Frank Marlatt, Wilf Wedmann, Ann Langdale, Casey Carrigan, Bob McLaren and Jan Maddin are just some of the Olympic-calibre athletes scheduled to compete. The all-weather surface laid out last year at the University of Victoria site is rated one of the fastest in Canada and, even if it rains, some excellent times should be recorded.

Also, the entire program—starting with age-class heats at 10 a.m., continuing at 12:45 p.m. with age-class finals and open heats, and concluding with open finals from 6:30 to 9 p.m. — should progress smoothly.

Key officials for the meet are capable and experienced, and they realize they may be organizing the Canadian national championships next year. They are making every reasonable effort to ensure an outstanding show in this sport, which is so technical it doesn't permit mediocrity.

Track and field can be very spectacular, but only if it is well organized. Having witnessed three Olympic Games, I can assure readers that even difficult spectators will leave the Uvic stadium satisfied to have discovered track and field at its best.

Meet directors Art Burgess and Ron Bowker have received more than 650 entries and the open events have attracted athletes from the best clubs in B.C., Oregon and Washington.

Sponsored by the Victoria YM-YWCA and the Daily Times, the meet will be one of the highlights of the Canadian track season and, for many, the first step toward Olympic trials. With the Mexico City games only four months away, we could possibly watch the emergence of some new stars.

Probably the most interest Saturday will be generated by the appearance of Harry Jerome, co-holder of the world record (9.1) for 100 yards. Harry, who has run the 100 metres in 10 flat, is looking for another Olympic medal and has been training at the University of Oregon. His condition is improving steadily and a time of 9.3 seconds Saturday is a reasonable guess.

★ ★ ★

Jerome will probably receive his strongest opposition from Washington's Randy Montgomery (9.4) and Toronto ace Frank Marlatt (9.4).

In the 220, Harry should outrun his rivals since his best time of 20.4 is well ahead of Montgomery's 20.8.

One of Canada's main hopes for a medal at Mexico, Jerome has been plagued by bad luck in international events. However, he came back after a series of delicate operations on an injured right leg to win a bronze medal at the Tokyo Olympics (1964) and beat the best U.S. sprinters for a gold medal at last summer's Pan-American Games.

Whether or not he can win in Mexico remains to be seen, but Saturday will be one of his selected opportunities to prepare for Olympic trials.

Let's also have a look at what we can expect from main competitors in some of the other events:

440 Yards: Wendell Brown, Tacoma. and Bill McDonald of Simon Fraser University, both with times of 48 seconds, should make it a two-man race on the quarter-mile track, although Greg Yorke of Vancouver Optimist Striders (48.8) is rapidly improving.

880 Yards: Oregon's Jim Reverman (1:48.8) should dominate this one if he gets out of the pack in time. Barry Cunningham (VOS—1:51) and Don Scott (VOC—1:51.2) must run a tactical race and try to outsmart Reverman.

One Mile: This is the "classic" race of track meets and the top three should be close. Oregon's Tom Morrow (4:02), Tacoma's Wes Smylie (4:06) and Vancouver's Bill Smart (4:07) should lead the way.

Three Miles: This race should belong to Victoria's John Cliff, an amazing runner who has a 13:37.5 clocking to his credit, but he may get a tough argument from Tacoma clubmates Sam Ring and Jon Hayes.

Six Miles: His time of 29:27 should put Jon Hayes well ahead of Victoria runner Norm Patenaude and Ross Phillips.

Steeplechase: Barry Adams, Rick Wood and John Christensen are the best in Canada at this interesting event, relatively new to Vancouver Island. However, the winner should be Oregon's Guy Renfrew, a more experienced performer in the difficult contest.

120-Yard Hurdles: Tacoma's Pat Deneen (14.7) should dominate the Vancouver pair of Steve Spencer and Gordie Dong, who usually run around 15 seconds, but he may get a surprise from Chris Knight, a young Victorian who is new to the event but already has a 14.9 to his credit.

440-Yard Hurdles: This is the race of Bob McLaren, the Victoria star who won a bronze medal at the Pan-Am Games and should be one of Canada's best medal prospects in Mexico. Owning a 51.7 time. Bob should finish ahead of Deneen and another Tacoma hurdler, John Hallowell.

Also on Saturday's star-studded schedule are field events and women's track contests. These will be discussed Friday.

Hurst Sparks Ingraham Win

He made some of the best Wednesday night at Layritz Park to guide his club to a 9-7 victory over Transport Workers and within half a game of the pace-setting Transports.

Hurst started setting the stage last week when he traded John Yankoski to Greaves Movers in exchange for Bob Lumley and Jerry Ciochetti.

Al took charge Wednesday when he entered the game as a pinch-hitter for starting-pitcher Harold Cliff in the top of the seventh. With the score tied 6-6, he singled in Lumley, who batted three for three, and Ciochetti.

He then scored the final run of the four-run rally on Tony Cosier's double.

Transports tried to rally in the bottom of the inning, but couldn't escape Hurst, who relieved Brian Brossard on the mound with one run in, bases loaded and one out. Hurst promptly settled the issue by striking out the next two batters.

Dortmund's Late Goal Clips Royals

VANCOUVER (CP) — German international Willi Neuberger scored with only two minutes remaining to give touring Borussia Dortmund a 2-1 exhibition soccer victory over Vancouver Royals Wednesday night before 7,497 fans.

Neuberger lofted a 25-yard shot over the head of Vancouver goalie Gary DeLong, who had entered the game at half time. DeLong came up with several outstanding saves after replacing Chris Varnavas and had little chance on Neuberger's shot.

The North American League Royals had jumped to a 1-0 lead at the half on a goal by outside left Cheung Chi Wai at 28 minutes. Wai took a pass from fullback Bob Kram, wheeled and drove a hard shot past Dortmund goalie Bernhard Wessel.

Borussia Dortmund's tying goal came nine minutes into the second half when Neuberger set up centre-forward Siggi Held with a long run down the left side. Held scored on a short drive from in front of the goal.

Don's Sore Back Won't Stop Him

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitcher Don Drysdale of Los Angeles isn't expected to miss any turns on the mound, despite a strained back muscle that forced him out of the game after the seventh inning against Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Dodger trainer William Buhler said Wednesday the injury wasn't serious.

By The Associated Press

The strong young arms were at it again in the National League Wednesday night, but a couple of old ones did pretty well, too.

Juan Marichal, who's pushing 30—years and maybe victories as well—won his 13th game and ninth straight, pitching San Francisco Giants to a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia Phillies. Bob Veale, 32, hurled a six-hitter and Pittsburgh Pirates won their eighth straight, 2-1 over Los Angeles Dodgers.

Steve Carlton, 23, headed the younger pitchers with a one-hitter, hurling St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 victory over Chicago Cubs. Jerry Koosman, 24, won his 11th game for New York Mets, pitching a five-hitter to beat Houston Astros 8-2. And Ron Reed, 25, fired a four-hitter for Atlanta Braves 3-1 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Marichal, 13-2, leads the majors in victories, and has achieved his total with just over one-third of the season over. It's a timetable that could lead to 30—a plateau that hasn't been reached since Dizzy Dean did it in 1934.

The Giants' ace had help from Willie Mays who slashed consecutive triples in the seventh and eighth innings, scoring two runs and knocking in one, as the Giants snapped a 1-1 tie.

Beckert Wrecks Carlton's Hopes

Carlton, 8-2, allowed only a fourth-inning single by Glenn Beckert and hurled his fourth shutout. He struck out nine and permitted just four base runners.

Orlando Cepeda provided all the offense Carlton needed, hammering a three-run homer in the bottom of the third inning against loser Rich Nye.

Cleon Jones sparked a four-run first inning rally with triple and then homered in the fifth.

Reed had a two-hitter through eight innings before consecutive ninth-inning doubles by Vada Pinson and Fred Whitfield cost him his shutout.

Killebrew singled home Minnesota's first run with the 1,000th hit of his career and Chance checked in with a three-hitter for his 100th victory as the Twins blanked Washington Senators 4-0.

In other A.L. games, Oakland dropped Baltimore 5-3, California shaded New York 3-2, Boston beat Detroit 8-5 and Cleveland edged Chicago 3-1.

DATE AGREED

Athletes Assist Fund Drive

Victoria athletes and officials will be out Friday and Saturday to help in a fund-raising campaign of the B.C. Track and Field Association.

The provincial group is collecting money to send B.C. athletes to the Olympic trials and to pay B.C.'s share of expenses for trips by the Canadian team, funds required to send national teams on a Scandinavian tour and to the Olympic Games.

Bob McLaren and Anne Langdale are two of the athletes who will be selling tickets to boost the fund Friday evening at Mayfair and Town and Country Shopping centres. Tickets will also be available at Centennial Stadium Saturday.

One fortunate ticket purchaser will receive a new car.

Lethal Gas Charge Brings U.S. Denial

SAIGON (AP) — The chief spokesman for the U.S. military command in Vietnam today described as "a lot of baloney" charges by a British scientist that a gas used by the Americans in Vietnam had caused the deaths of at least 350 persons.

Dr. Stephen Rose, a research biochemist at London University, told members of the British Parliament the gas, known as CS, was developed in Britain's Porton Down laboratory and is similar to concentrated tear gas.

"We have documentary evidence that it has caused the deaths of at least 350 people in Vietnam," he said. "If it is used as a grenade thrown into a confined space, then the concentration increases and quickly reaches lethal proportions. It has been thrown into caves and huts in Vietnam."

Brig.-Gen. Winant Sidle, the information officer for the U.S. command, confirmed U.S. forces in Vietnam use CS but said: "There is no evidence of anyone in Vietnam being killed by this agent. In fact, there is no evidence available to us of anyone anywhere being killed by this agent."

50 Bodies Uncovered

KASHTAN SEES HOPE IN FUTURE

Communist Chief Backs Quebec

By R. J. ANDERSON

TORONTO (CP)—Quiet, slight, almost wispy, gentle Bill Kashtan resembles not in the least the classic revolutionary, dedicated to overthrow of existing institutions by force.

Certainly he wants to do away with capitalism. To him. complete socialism is the perfect form of government and to these ends he has selflessly devoted 41 of his 59 years.

But he says he wants to attain his ends by democratic means, by the votes of a free people. Indeed, there would be room, under his expressed ideas for a Socialist Canada, for one or two minor opposition parties.

William Kashtan, general secretary and national leader of the Communist party of Canada, perhaps the smallest national communistic party in the world, has four main aims in the federal general election of Tuesday, June 25.

- To help elect the largest bloc to Parliament.
- To bring about a new national foreign policy.
- To give sovereignty to Quebec.
- To bring about what he terms a more equitable distribution of the country's wealth.

CONFIDENT OF FUTURE

Mr. Kashtan, party leader since 1965, has a background of utter devotion to orthodox communistic doctrine. He sees a long road ahead before theory becomes reality in this country but eventually it will come about, he insists.

He is one of 14 Communist candidates in the 1968 election. There hasn't been a Communist member of Parliament since Fred Rose was elected in 1945 — party strength that year was estimated at about 25,000 — but he refused to admit that the cause was hopeless.

KASHTAN
. . . larger effort

"You won't know what the water is like until you have tested it," he said in an interview. "We have found a more friendly attitude towards us this time. The election isn't an end in itself; we see it as part of a larger effort."

At party headquarters in a deteriorating area of central Toronto, Mr. Kashtan can be visited easily any time he is not travelling on party business. He answers freely almost any question. He talks quietly but with conviction.

On the wall is a calendar from a capitalist bank — "banks are the only place we can get them for free."

Born in Montreal in 1909, son of Jewish immigrants from the Ukraine, Mr. Kashtan went to work at the age of 13 as a $5-a-week runner for the customs office. Since the age of 18 he has worked full time for the Communist party, first with the Young Communist League. He became party general secretary on the death of Leslie Morris.

In July, 1929, he was found guilty of obstructing police during a Communist street-corner rally in Toronto and was fined $50. A year later, in Hamilton, he was sentenced to six months in jail on a vagrancy charge, but was freed when the conviction was quashed.

He says his only income is his $90-a-week salary. The amount is said to be based on the national average industrial wage which has gone up since his selection as leader 3½ years ago when he got $80. His wife, Della, works as a bookkeeper to supplement the family income. They have one married daughter.

What of party membership? From the peak of 25,000 in 1946 it declined to an estimated 5,500-7.000 in 1965. Mr. Kashtan puts it now at "under 5,000."

WANTS FREE QUEBEC

In the Communists' view, the best result of the election would be another minority government. This would seem to conflict with the first of the party's four main aims, but Mr. Kashtan said this is not the case.

A "majority bloc" would be a majority group of Parliament composed of progressive thinkers of all parties — representative of all classes working together to formulate ideas of general value to Canada.

Some day, he said, such a government will come about and the wealth of the country — major industry, banking, public utilities, national resources — will be nationalized. Small and medium business will be left alone.

Mr. Kashtan said sovereignty for Quebec "would mean in effect the right of the French-Canadian people to decide how they wish to order their relations with the rest of the country and what powers they would freely give the federal authority."

On foreign policy, Mr. Kashtan's expressed opinions followed the familiar leftist line — a check on alleged American domination of Canada's economic life, withdrawal of Canada from NATO and NORAD and refusal to sell arms to the United States for use in Vietnam.

'Rejoice!' Key Word for Boys' Choir From Toronto

By Beryl Proudman

Last night, as the setting sun threw long shafts of reddening light over Christ Church Cathedral, the boys of St. George's College Choir, Toronto, sang a traditional Evensong in which formal settings were embellished by a variety of additional anthems.

The 40 boys, whose ages range from 9 to 14, sang pleasingly blended and balanced music in several parts.

"Rejoice" was the key word of several of the works and the boys' clear, sometimes strident tones re-echoed joyfully around the resonant building.

Henry Purcell's "Evening Hymn" taken at an unusually slow pace, and measured in triplets instead of the more acceptable sharply-dotted notes of the period, was less successful than the other anthems but Bairstow's intriguing "I Sat Under His Shadow" showed how well the choir could tackle difficult part-settings.

In an attempt to combine a beautiful service and Evensong with a small recital, the choir retired to the west end of the Cathedral to sing the four final anthems.

Even with this withdrawal from the chancel, the Negro spriituals, "Were You There?" and "They Crucified My Lord," though beautifully sung with great intensity of feeling, made rather a startling intrusion into the traditional atmosphere built up by the rest of the service.

The large number of people who obviously appreciated this rarely-heard sort of service, prove that well-presented traditional church music still has an undeniable appeal, and look forward to a return visit by this outstanding boys' choir.

Broadway Actors End Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay announced today a settlement of the three-day strike by Actors Equity that darkened 19 Broadway theatres and nine road company shows.

After meeting through the night with negotiators for the union and the League of New York Theatres, Lindsay said at 6 a.m.: "Performances in the Broadway theatres will be resumed tonight."

Lindsay said the contract will run for three years and calls for wage rates of $145 a week the first year, $150 the second and $155 the last year.

Appearing with Lindsay at the news conference were Angus Duncan, executive director of the union, and producer David Merrick, spokesman for the theatre group.

Duncan said the contract had been approved by the Equity Council and would be explained to the membership this afternoon but said no ratification vote was needed to open the theatres tonight.

Merrick said it was "very likely there would be a rise in theatre prices," but said he did not know how much of an increase would be needed.

Lindsay, who summoned both sides to meet him after the union urged him to intervene, said "satisfactory agreement was reached concerning the use of alien actors"—another major issue in the strike.

The union had been seeking a 2½-year pact with a minimum weekly wage of $200 as well as guarantees against hiring foreign actors to displace Equity members from roles.

PERSISTENT, thirsty and lonely, Hugo Vihlen, trans-Atlantic adventurer, just said "Hi! I'm Hugo" when hailed by United States submarine Grenadier when it surfaced near him 210 miles south-southeast of Miami. They gave him his bearings, much needed water and wished him luck, while a crew member took the above picture of him. Hugo said he had grounded during the night but had pushed off again. He is nearing the end of his 4,700 sailboat trip from the west coast of Africa to Miami.

TRIMARAN BREAKS UP

Multi-Hull Yachts Under Fire After Mishap

LONDON (AP) — Ships and aircraft scoured the Atlantic today for a French yachtsman drifting in a rubber dinghy after abandoning his yacht on the singlehanded transatlantic race.

As the search went on, bitter argument was revived among yachtsmen over multi-hulled craft, many saying they're unsafe.

Jean De Kat, 27, radioed Tuesday that he was abandoning his 50-foot trimaran Yaksha in heavy seas about 600 miles west of Ireland. He reported his mast and rudder were broken and one of the yacht's three parallel hulls was torn away.

Weather ships, freighters, the 25,000-ton liner Empress of Britain and British Atlantic Patrol planes from Northern Ireland converged on the spot. The first report of wreckage came from the Dutton, a U.S. Navy ballistic missile support ship which has the latest search and navigation aids.

Search experts directing the RAF's Shackleton planes rated De Kat's survival chance as good provided visibility held and he had been able to get his dinghy's cover up.

TRIMARAN HAS SPEED

Yaksha is a three-hulled trimaran whose great virtue is speed. Evan in moderate breezes a multi-hulled yacht can reach up to 20 knots because instead of heeling it stays upright and the sails catch up in the wind.

But in heavy weather the risk of capsize is high and the strain on the bridge between the parallel hulls immense.

Conventional yachts, though their speed seldom exceeds 10 knots, are less prone to capsize. Even if they are knocked down by squalls their heavy ballast keels are usually enough to right them again.

John Pymun, technical secretary of the Royal Yachting Association, said:

"The traditional yacht may break its mast and rigging when it capsizes but it usually rights itself and leaves its crew with some shelter and control.

"But a catamaran or a tri in the same situation will probably stay upside down and break up. These beasts are ultimately unstable if pushed to the extreme."

NEW BREED OR LETHAL?

Another expert yachtsman said: "Some see the multi-hulls as the prototypes of a new breed of sailing craft. Other see them as potentially lethal."

Losses among multi-hull enthusiasts have been heavy. Arthur Piver, leading American designer, disappeared in a trimaran while qualifying for the current race. South African designer Tom Corkhill was lost in the South Atlantic two years ago.

The race, sponsored by the London Observer, started from Plymouth, England, June 1. Leaders are expected to reach Newport, R.I., within the next 10 days.

Surplus Food Stall Records Big Increase

More than 200 Victoria families now qualify for assistance from the Surplus Food Stall, Mrs. Joan Price, convener, said today.

"This means the number of welfare families recommended for free monthly food gifts has increased by at least 75 per cent over the past two years."

Free distribution for June will take place Saturday morning at the food stall on Cormorant Street.

TEEN-AGE JOB HUNTERS CAUSE WORRY

He asked Wednesday that parents make sure teen-agers have sufficient funds and a chance of finding employment before setting off on summer travels.

Many 15 and 16-year-olds have to get help from welfare offices when their hitchhiking job searches prove fruitless. Many find themselves without adequate supervision, food, shelter and transportation and some come under undesirable influences, he said.

'I'm Hugo' Says Intrepid Yachtsman

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Navy disclosed Tuesday that the submarine Grenadier surfaced off the coast of Cuba Sunday and found Hugo Vihlen trying a lone voyage across the Atlantic in a six-foot boat.

"I'm Hugo," Vihlen announced as he tied up alongside the submarine, the navy reported.

Vihlen, in swim trunks and a flowing beard, stood in his bathtub-sized craft and chatted with the startled sailors.

"Call my wife. . . . Tell her I'm okay," he said.

Then, running behind schedule and short on rations, he asked for bread and water. He said he had allowed himself only four ounces of water a day since leaving Casablanca on Africa's west coast March 29.

Vihlen, an air line pilot from Homstead, Fla., told the submariners he had gone aground the night before, but he wasn't sure whether he hit the coast of Cuba or the Bahama banks.

He was about 12 miles off Cuba's northern coast and some 210 miles south-southeast of Miami.

B.C. Hydro To Share Rail Cost

LADNER, B.C. (CP) — Cost of the 27-mile rail link from the Canadian Pacific Railways main line to the Roberts Bank port will be split between the CPR and B.C. Hydro, municipal officials announced Wednesday.

Delta Mayor Dugald Morrison in whose municipality the port will be located, 20 miles south of Vancouver, said the "door has been left open" for Canadian National Railways to join in the $9,000,000 project.

He made the statement after a meeting of Delta municipal officials and officials of B.C. Hydro, CNR and CPR. The CPR is expected to carry most of the coal to the port from Fernie in southeastern B.C. to meet a $650,000,000 contract between Japanese steel firms and Kaiser Steel Corp.

Delta had asked for the meeting to persuade officials to use a northern route for the railway via CNR which would serve Delta's industrial areas. Conservationists and recreation enthusiasts had also complained about the southern routing of the railway along the Boundary Bay foreshore, a potential recreation area and a wildfowl watering area.

Mayor Morrison said the meeting produced no change in the routing of the railroad.

TO CONSERVATORY CONCERTS

Trudi, Allison Team Up For a Brilliant Finale

By AUDREY JOHNSON

A brilliant finale to the Victoria Conservatory of Music series of concerts was provided Wednesday night by two notable young performers.

Trudi Conrad, violinist, and Allison Marshall, pianist, were the featured artists who shared the bulk of the program.

Formerly a student at the Conservatory, Miss Conrad has spent the past several months playing with the Quebec Symphony Orchestra and studying with Jean Angers.

She leaves shortly for the eastern United States for summer study on a Canada Council grant.

With Robin Wood as her partner at the piano she performed the magnificent Cesar Franck Sonata for Violin and Piano.

The effect was dramatic for those who recalled Miss Conrad's promise of the period when she won the Music Festival's Congress of Strings award in 1966.

She has advanced in authority and poise but most spectacularly in areas of tone, now so much broader and more powerful, and in her progress toward a virtuoso mastery of the bow.

Well developed climaxes and phrases shaped with smooth finesse marked her interpretation, aspects in which she was greatly assisted by the truly magnificent piano performance of Mr. Wood.

Miss Conrad appeared clearly to be a young artist on her way toward achieving a national reputation.

The present conservatory auditorium does not offer the best accoustical conditions, but it seemed that the violinist's greatest gains must now be sought in the area of warmth, sweetness and delicacy of tone production.

Allison Marshall played the Beethoven Sonata Op. 31 No. 3 and two Chopin numbers—the R Major Etude and E-flat minor Polonaise.

She is a vital and powerful performer, possessed of an impressive keyboard technique that allowed her to cope with the rhythmic and more rugged movements of the Beethoven most effectively.

The fiery and, once more, the strongly rhythmic parts of the Polonaise she made more convincing than the slow interior section.

As an introduction to the program, three young pianists were presented. These were Juliette de Goutiere who gave a musical rendition of Bach's Little Fugue in C and Scherzino by Oscar Morawetz.

Completely captivating was a duo piano performance of Five Movements from a Suite in Canon Form by Arensky, played by a most promising pair of 13-year-olds—Heline Barker and Elizabeth Byatt.

Hotel Wage Negotiations Continuing

Empress Hotel manager Leslie Parkinson declined to comment today on a report that CPR labor relations official James Forrest was flying here from Toronto in an attempt to avoid a strike by 280 employees.

But he said both sides in the negotiations "are still talking."

Richard Henihan, regional representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said he was notified Wednesday the hotel had enlisted the aid of Mr. Forrest, described as the head of labor relations for CPR hotels.

The 280 Empress employees voted 97 per cent in favor of strike action last week after rejecting a conciliation report.

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Campaign Generalities Make Manning 'Angry'

(Times News Services)

CAMROSE, Alta.—Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta said Wednesday night the more federal election campaign talks he hears about, the angrier he gets.

The Social Credit premier told a party rally in support of Battle River candidate Stan Valeau that Prime Minister Trudeau and Progressive Conservative leader Stanfield have not "defined precisely what they mean by a generalized term such as 'one Canada.' "

Mr. Manning said the expression could mean "any one of a dozen things, depending on what you want it to mean."

He criticized the Liberal and Conservative campaigns for making more of the images cast by the party leaders than of the party platforms.

"The political arguments we are hearing today are: 'Our leader is more of a swinger than their leader; our leader has more stability than theirs.' These things have nothing to do with the ability of a leader or the ability of a party to come to grips with the pressing problems which so desperately need to be solved."

The premier said "as far as I'm concerned there will never be any political party realignment until the necessary ideological realignment takes place first."

Mr. Manning advocated in a booklet a realignment of Social Credit and the Conservatives.

QUEBEC — Prime Minister Trudeau was endorsed Wednesday by a number of Quebec Liberal MLAs including house leader Pierre Laporte.

He said he is intervening in the election campaign to support Trudeau, despite "serious differences of opinion on the constitution," because of what he called the degrading campaign against Trudeau in Quebec.

★ ★ ★

MONTREAL — Claude Ryan, publisher of Le Devoir, has come out editorially in support of the Progressive Conservative party in the June 25 federal election.

He said the election is "a partial expression of opinion on the constitutional future of Quebec and Canada."

"It is not enough in this election, to make an absolute choice. One must also consider which party had a serious chance of forming the next government and would be the most likely to resolve the consititutional problem.

RYAN
. . . backs Tories

Mr. Ryan says the New Drmocratic Party is more "explicit" than the Conservatives, who are "far from being perfectly united from coast to coast" concerning Quebec's status in Confederation.

However, he says, the Conservatives have adopted a better approach to the matter than the Liberals, the only other party with a chance of forming the next government.

He feels that in Quebec the main fight will be between Liberals and Conservatives.

"The Conservative party has successfully recruited in Quebec a team of candidates most of whom — especially the new candidates — are basically convinced of the need to defend the distinct aspirations of Quebec in forthcoming constitutional negotiations."

★ ★ ★

SHERBROOKE, Que. — Raymond Langlois, Creditiste member of the last House of Commons for Megantic, said Wednesday he is supporting the Progressive Conservative party in the June 25 federal general election.

"The fight for Quebec in Ottawa can only be effective from within one of the two main parties," Mr. Langlois, who is not a candidate, said in a French-language television announcement.

"It is not by a balance of power that we will win the fight. I know what I am talking about.

"I have decided to support the Progressive Conservative party because its political position is the deepest and most clearly defined, because only its program will improve the economy of the country, and most of all because the eastern farmers are at last being considered."

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. — Bob Borrie, Liberal candidate in Prince George-Peace River, is being accompanied by two RCMP plainclothes officers during a campaign tour of the Peace River area.

His wife said from her home in Prince George Tuesday that she had received several threatening telephone calls. She said one caller told her: "Tell your husband that if he doesn't drop out of the campaign the same thing is going to happen to him as happened to Kennedy or perhaps the same thing will happen to you or your children."

Kitimat Union Orders Strike If Talk Fails

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP) — Local 5-115 of the United Steelworkers of America has served strike notice on the Aluminum Company of Canada at Kitimat and Kemano, on the northern British Columbia coast.

The local represents 2,000 workers at the company's smelter and power operations at the two centres.

Roy Simmons, president of Local 5-115, said the union negotiating committee has advised members that a provincial conciliation officer has been appointed and will arrive in Kitimat Monday to attempt a settlement.

Failing a settlement, a strike will go ahead at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 25, he said.

The union is demanding a 26 per cent pay raise on a base rate of $2.85 an hour.

Fined $350

Court was told he was observed driving in an erratic manner May 20 on the Island Highway. His licence was suspended.

Drunken Driver Loses Licence

Albert Smith, Lovat Avenue, pleaded guilty.

Court was told police observed Smith driving in an erratic manner Friday and "falling down drunk" when out of his car.

His driver's license was suspended.

LABOR PAPER 'LOUSY RAG' SAYS LABOR

VANCOUVER (CP) — The trade union newspaper, The Labor Statesman, published by the B.C. Federation of Labor, was condemned by Vancouver Labor Council delegates Tuesday as a "lousy rag" for carrying a Liberal party election campaign advertisement.

Ron Gomex, of the Letter Carriers' Union, said the copies that are mailed out to trade union members should be sent back to the federation in the mail marked unacceptable.

The council passed a resolution calling on the editorial board of the Labor Statesman to reconsider its policy on carrying advertisements from political parties not endorsed by the labor movement.

Another Five Years

VANCOUVER (CP) — A prisoner who broke out of jail after serving 10 years of a life sentence and took a prison guard with him, Wednesday was sentenced to a further five years. Joseph McKenna, 32, pleaded guilty to four charges; breaking out of Agassiz Prison, kidnapping a guard, Robert Hugh Wilson, firing a shot at Wilson and firing at Constable Percy Grant to prevent arrest.

FRANCE SEEKS MONEY AID FROM ECM

PARIS (UPI) — The French government said Wednesday it is appealing to its Common Market partners for help for the French economy, hit with billions of dollars losses by six weeks of crippling strikes.

Premier Georges Pompidou told a cabinet meeting presided over by President Charles de Gaulle that France still plans to meet the July 1 deadline when final tariff barriers are swept away among the Common Market members.

But he said France is asking the Common Market commission in Brussels for concessions designed to ease the burden on both French exporters and importers stemming from the strikes.

To work the other morning with a Saanich pound-truck—cream-colored panel with ventilation louvers—pussyfooting along in front of me.

I am sorry, heh-heh, to report that the pickings appeared to be poor. No furry faces and pleading eyes were visible on the wrong side of its rear screens.

One reason for this may be the state of near-excellence which our neighborhood early warning system has attained. Over the wires it goes, sometimes a "Pound truck is coming," lilted to the tune of "Shrimp Boats," but more often a mere hurried "Pound truck!" relayed by Mrs. Smith to Mrs. Brown to Mrs. Jones.

Then any pooch who may have ventured a sniff or two off his home lot is garnered in with all haste by his people.

But perhaps that's one virtue of the pound-truck, whose driver, in fairness, has a necessary if not always appreciated job to do.

As for the untended and usually unlicensed stray, the pang of seeing him taken into custody is mitigated by this fact:

At least, he has a chance of acquiring a new master who will give him the love without which neither dog nor human can function at his best.

What Geoff dropped in for was to remind me that Tommy Dougals is to speak in Memorial Arena at 8 p.m. Sunday. But he lingered to air his impressions of apartheid as he saw it.

"Just awful," says he. "An obscene hallucination. It made me realize how fortunate we are in Canada, where our political issues are economic advancement and national unity, not human liberty."

Geoff had been forewarned, but it was still a shock to see signs reading "Non-white Only" (as well as its huge Negro population, South Africa has many Asiatics).

He had made the trip to visit his son, Frank Mitchell, an accountant attached to University College of Nairobi in Kenya. But the chance seemed too good to miss, so he extended his journey.

"What I found," he says, "was a wonderful country, technologically advanced, but determined to cut its people off from contact with a world that might inform them. This is the land of the first heart transplant — but they are running on a philosophy that belongs to the days of the ox-wagon."

Geoff, a member of the Christian Action Defence and Aid Fund, a London-based organization that helps battle oppression, found that the Negro South Africans are determinedly building schools for themselves. Their problem is to find teachers.

"It's good to be back in the land of the free election," Geoff Mitchell concludes. "Here at least, the losers won't be subjected to house arrest or imprisonment without trial by the victors!"

With shame, sorrow and resolves to do better, I must confess that this corner occasionally boots one.

First, the dogwood seedling can indeed be taken out of this area, and the nursery that supplies it will gladly provide the necessary permit-stamp. This correction from several local nurserymen, who point out that earlier quarantine strictures have been eased.

Second, it is Skidegate Channel that separates Graham and Moresby Islands of the Queen Charlottes, not Hakai Passage, which lies between Hecate and Nalau Islands.

That's it for this day, except to note a trio of memories from the great gathering that assembled to hear Canada's prime minister in Beacon Hill Park . . .

The picnic atmosphere of that perfect evening. The blended scent of sea and crushed grass. The kite that floated high over the hill, with its long, long orange tail.

BATTERED BUT A WINNER, Fred Roesner, 12, and his partner in three-legged race, Ria Barten, also 12, display their victory ribbons, earned against tough odds. Fred hurt one leg three months ago and last month doctors added the cast as part of treatment. He and Ria still figured to enter the three-legged race in the Sir James Douglas School track meet Wednesday. In the morning while Fred was playing, somebody jumped on his good leg. But he and Ria still came out winners. After the race, the "good" leg somehow got jumped on again and thus earned its own bandage. The doctor sees it today and Fred is hoping there won't be need for a second cast. There's just no race devised for that yet. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Mayors Shaken By New Plans For Hospital

By JIM HUME

The recently formed Regional Hospital District could be heading for the roughest meeting of its young life next Wednesday afternoon.

Several board members including Mayor Hugh Stephen and Mayor Ray Bryant this morning expressed the intention of "demanding answers" when the group meets to discuss a twin-report from its priorities and advisory committees.

Tuesday afternoon the priorities committee voted solidly in favor of a major switch from the Agnew-Peckham master-report on hospital and health services for the area recommending the building of a $25 million 800-bed hospital in the Elk Lake area.

Wednesday afternoon the hospitals advisory committee received the priority committee report but trimmed the bed total from 800 to 650 before agreeing to pass the recommendation to the full regional board next week.

This morning Mayor Stephen said he had no comments to make on the situation other than to say that he was "flabbergasted by the report in Wednesday's Times."

"I don't want to make matters worse by saying any more at this time," the mayor added. "But I shall have some things to say next Wednesday."

Mayor Stephen said he couldn't believe the Times story on first reading but that a subsequent check revealed it accurate in detail.

'POINTLESS TO WORRY'

"But it's pointless to worry about that now," he said. "I am carefully reviewing the newspaper report and trying to equate it with the Agnew-Peckham report. There appears to be some inconsistencies with the sub-committee's recommendations and the Agnew document for which I shall be seeking further information before committing myself one way or the other."

The priorities sub-committee provided the shock-wave when it apparently scrapped Agnew-Peckham recommendations for a new acute care hospital adjoining St. Joseph's Hospital.

It provided a further surprise when it recommended that a new 800-bed, now reduced to 650-bed, hospital be built in the Elk Lake area and administered by the St. Joseph's management staff.

St. Joseph's Hospital officials refused to comment on the Wednesday announcement.

This morning Michael J. Griffin, acting chairman of the St. Joseph's hospital board, would only state that he was surprised at the suddenness of the decision.

He repeated that his board was now presented with the problem of what to do about the services of Dr. Harvey Agnew. hired a few weeks ago to update the St. Joseph's long-range development plan with particular emphasis on the construction of a new acute-care hospital on the St. Ann's Academy grounds.

"As for the St. Joseph's administration being moved from the hospital to a new hospital at Elk Lake, that too surprises me.

"All I can say is that I am sure whoever is in charge of the administration, Greater Victoria will continue to receive the finest quality in hospital care and administration."

PLAN NOT NEW

Mr. Griffin added that like Mayor Bryant he found it disturbing to read of the events in the newspaper before the matter had been fully debated at the regional level.

The proposal to build a new St. Joseph's in the general area of Elk Lake is not new.

Last November the Times reported that serious consideration was being given to a new St. Joseph's in the area. They story was branded as inaccurate by various hospital authorities.

Mayor Hugh Curtis, chairman of the Regional Hospital District Board, has stressed that the priorities committee recommendation is just that, a recommendation of a sub-committee to an advisory committee of the regional group.

He added that the term "Elk Lake" should be considered in only the most general terms and that site of the new acute care hospital would be decided by his board "possibly against the wishes of the hospital people."

He added that the hospital "will have to be somewhere between the heavily and lightly populated areas of the Saanich Peninsula. A large hospital generates urbanization. You simply can't drop an institution of that size into an area. It would be chaotic."

IT HAS ELIMINATED . . . . . . SWING-DOOR PRISONER

New Drunk Policy 'A Proven Success'

By HUMPHREY DAVY

Frank was picked up two days ago by Victoria police. He was drunk.

After police had obtained his name and address, members of his family were contacted and he was taken home.

A year ago, this same man would have been tossed into a cell and the next day charged with being intoxicated in a public place.

"What on earth has happened!" he said the next morning. "Fancy being taken home by police."

But if by the end of the year this same man is picked up for being drunk, he may be treated somewhat differently.

It's revolutionary and the first of its kind in North America.

Charges are no longer being laid under the Liquor Act against people found intoxicated in a public place and centres for the treatment of alcoholics—men and women—are now in the process of being established throughout the province.

The first detoxication centre where "pick-ups" are medically examined to determine if they are in need of medical attention at an alcoholic centre is expected to be in operation in Vancouver by the end of the month.

No dry-out centre is being planned for Victoria as yet, but police chief John Gregory hopes one will be established in the near future.

"We need one," he said, "especially for treating serious cases—people in danger of dying from alcoholic poisoning.

He said the program of not laying charges against drunk persons has proved a success.

It had eliminated the swing-door prisoner and the cluttering up of courts and jails, he said.

"The practice of filling up our jails with people charged with this offence accomplished nothing toward rehabilitating them," he said. "It was also a tremendous drag on taxpayers."

He pointed out that a drunk person has committed no criminal offence and done no physical harm to person or property.

"People want him picked up because he is an eye-sore and is a danger to himself as he might get killed or might be the cause of an accident," he said.

"That's what we are doing now — just picking him up and seeing that he gets home or sobers up."

●

The projected plan to rehabilitate an alcoholic would involve costs, he said, but "at least we are accomplishing something — something useful."

He said the B.C. program had proved so successful that the Northwest Territories had applied to Ottawa to follow the province's example.

"It's long overdue. I have always maintained that an alcoholic should not be treated as a ciminial but as a sick person."

The new program means that 1968 will be the first year that no drunk charges will be laid before the city police court. Last year there were 1,180 such charges — an average of three a day. In Vancouver there were 25,000 charges.

However, Chief Gregory points out that the new program does not exempt from arrest persons, who while drunk, might commit other offences such as assault or smashing windows.

In these cases the offender is not charged with being drunk, but with the specific offence committed.

An official of the attorney general's department said because many Indians were unemployed or were earning small incomes, they could not pay the fines for being drunk. They were sent to jail.

●

"In this respect the law is discriminatory," he said, "because those with the means could keep out of prison."

At Oakalla Prison, 60 per cent of the inmates were found to be Indians serving time for being drunk in a public place.

"With the establishment of the new program we will have in effect three places of detention in B.C. — prisons, mental institutions and alcoholic centres," he said.

He pointed out that police court and prison costs for drunks had now been eliminated — representing a saving of thousands of dollars.

It is true that these savings will be ploughed back into rehabilitation centres, but the public will at least be getting something back for the money, he said.

U.S. Sub Here For Weekend

The USS Remora, a conventionally powered sub, will arrive at HMC Dockyard at 5 p.m. Friday and leave at 10 a.m. Monday.

Over 311 feet long, the Remora has a beam of 27.2 feet and carries a complement of 86.

ELECTION HALF OVER FOR FORCES

For armed forces personnel in Victoria, throughout Canada and abroad, the election is already half over.

The same goes for patients who are domiciled at the Veterans' Hospital here.

FIVE DAYS TO GO

Under Canadian Forces Voting Regulations, servicemen have been voting since Monday and their polls will remain open until Saturday.

Their ballots are sealed and sent to Edmonton where the count will be made for all service people wherever they are stationed.

Returning officers from Edmonton were also taking ballots today at Veterans' Hospital here. A spokesman said that any patient in the hospital during this week, will have a vote. Registrations are brought up to date every morning. Polling ends Saturday.

Patients' votes also will be sent to Edmonton for counting. It apparently is possible for a veteran to have been registered at his home to vote locally then admitted and registered again for the balloting now under way.

Patients in other hospitals throughout the area have no vote unless they can be taken to their own polling places.

Votes cast by patients are for candidates in the Victoria riding.

A check with Liberal, Conservative and NDP campaign offices in Victoria revealed that no party had sent scrutineers to the hospital and only the Conservative party spokesman knew the voting was underway.

Each party indicated it was going to look into the matter. It was explained that because the voting is not conducted under the national elections act, little was known about it in civilian circles.

The cards, bearing Mr. Chatterton's name on a simulated ballot, have drawn many protests because they tell the voter to take them to the polls. Returning officer Mrs. E. T. Lea warned voters against doing so, on instruction from Ottawa.

Mrs. Chatterton said:

"We know from experience that on voting day there are a great many people who are not aware where they should vote.

"To assist the voters we send out an individually-addressed card to every voter in Esquimalt-Saanich, 52,900, to tell them exactly where their polling place is — and we received so much commendation for this service that the other parties have now copied us.

"We acted on expert legal advice that there was no contravention of the election act and I'm sure my husband would challenge them (other candidates) to take legal action."

Mrs. Chatterton also wanted to make it clear that it was not her who made the statement ". . . the damage has been done." This statement was made by Mrs. Lea.

Clothes Only At Rally

New Democratic Party supporters won't be able to wear any sort of badge, button or sign supporting their party, leader or local candidate at the Sunday rally for T. C. Douglas.

A Board of Broadcast Governors ban applies to radio and television advertising in the two days before Tuesday, Victoria returning officer David R. Wilson said today.

Candidates and their supporters are permitted to knock on doors and make campaign phone calls during the period and on election day itself. News reports of meetings as well as campaign advertisements are permitted in all newspapers.

Second Fire Probed

The second fire in a week destroyed the interior of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Ryan's home at 764 Lily, in Saanich.

The fire apparently broke out near a basement pile of lumber brought in to repair extensive damages caused by a fire last Friday.

Mrs. Ryan was alone in the frame bungalow shortly before noon today when she smelled smoke. She ran to the basement and discovered the pile of wood in flames.

She called the Saanich fire department and two pumpers were rushed to the scene.

Last Friday evening fire broke out in the basement and caused "extensive" damage to most of the interior, the fire department reported.

The department said an investigation was begun by detectives and the Fire Marshall's office.

A distraught Mrs. Ryan stood with neighbors outside the house today as firemen wearing air-packs carried hoses into the basement.

Her three children were not in the house when the fire started.

Mrs. Ryan said the house "is a write-off."

Mr. Ryan was reported then to be aboard the survery ship Richardson at Tuktoyaktuk in the Arctic.

Last Push For Votes Starting

By PETE LOUDON

Local election candidates today promised they will continue pushing their crusades right down to the wire Monday night.

And on Tuesday, election day, most of them plan to be busy all day helping to get out the vote — especially the vote of persons they each believe to be their supporters.

Here are results of interviews with the candidates who were available this morning:

ANDERSON

Dave Anderson, Liberal, Esquimalt-Saanich, was speaking to Yarrows Ltd. employees at noon today and this afternoon was to go out "mainstreeting" in Sidney. Tonight he has a meeting in View Royal and Friday night a coffee party at 4865 Cherry Tree Bend.

Saturday he has a lunchtime picnic on Chilco Road for native Indians and Sunday an open house at 808 Brock at 2 p.m. In between times he'll probably be knocking on more doors.

He said he'll await elections returns at his headquarters and at Red Lion Inn's main lounge Tuesday night. A colored TV is being installed especially for the event.

It he wins, what are his plans?

"I haven't considered that problem yet, simply be with people, I guess." He said he'd like to get up-Island fishing for two or three days to dissipate some of the "nervous energy that's been carrying us along."

But on the other hand maybe, "we'll all be flat on our backs for a while."

If he loses he'll have to "figure out what to do for the rest of my life." He has a law degree but never has practiced and would be required to spend a year as an articled student first.

CHATTERTON

George Chatterton, Conservative, Esquimalt-Saanich will also be mainly door-knocking and mainstreeting between now and Tuesday.

He has a tea party—perhaps a refreshing change from the parade of coffee parties—to attend Thursday. He says he'll watch returns at his headquarters and then go to McMorran's Cordova Bay motel for a celebration—and he speaks confidently about that.

When the vote is over, he plans a week or two to "just stay home and sleep and look to my garden and cut the lawn. Pushed to guess what he might do if he loses, he says, "My plans would be no different."

CHARMAN

Eric Charman, Conservative, Victoria, says he will concentrate on radio "hot lining" until election day although he has a meeting tonight at Eagles Hall. He said it might be his last. Some other sources indicate Mr. Charman may be planning a surprise meeting with a surprise speaker on Saturday night. If so, Mr. Charman wasn't saying.

Sunday, he says, he'll be door-knocking and Monday planning a get-out-the vote campaign. If he gets a chance on the weekend he'll dash up to Qualicum to his summer cottage with his wife and four children and pay a visit to the fishing grounds.

GROOS

David Groos, Liberal, Victoria, will also be giving time to open line broadcasts during this week. Today he was to address Victoria Rotary. There will be a final distribution of campaign literature to oversee. And he's got to give some time to problems of constituents, proving you don't stop being an MP until someone else takes your place.

He has some coffee parties still slated too, but he didn't plan to campaign Monday. He'll spend that day with his campaign workers readying for the Tuesday effort to bring out all available voters.

JOHANNESSEN

Don Johannessen, NDP, Esquimalt-Saanich, is a candidate with a difference—he's never been able to quit his school-teaching job "which is as important as elections" he says.

He's teaching every morning or doing end of term jobs at Lake Hill and canvassing more homes in the afternoon and evening.

Friday he'll be hot-lining too and Saturday back on the door circuit.

Sunday morning he rests and Sunday afternoon greets NDP national leader T. C. Douglas at the airport at 3:45 p.m. He'll be Mr. Douglas' special guide and will appear with him on a radio show after the rally. Then he escorts him back to the airport. Monday more school, more doors. Tuesday, more school, and checking out scrutineers and party drivers. Campaign headquarters Tuesday night to watch results come in.

"Wednesday, win lose or draw, it's back to school.

"I've got reports to get out."

RICHARDSON

Dr. Harvey Richardson, NDP, Victoria, is giving all his energies to building interest in the big NDP rally at Memorial Arena Sunday when national leader T. C. Douglas will be here.

There will be some NDP demonstrations between now and then at local shopping centres to publicize the rally. And of course the party is still distributing signs. His campaign workers report that they are elated with the acceptance by people of NDP signs, both at residences and business locations.

They say that in previous elections 30 per cent of eligible voters have not cast ballots.

"We want to make sure none of them are our supporters."

Dr. Richardson says he plans to watch the election results at party headquarters.

It was named after Sir Thomas Major Cullinan. The Star of Africa number one, in the Royal Scepter, was cut from it by Jak Ascher in 1908 and is the largest cut diamond in the world. It has 74 facets.

These Mini-Drawers Banish the Clutter

By Penny Saver

As soon as I stepped into Jayne's "den" I knew something was different. Her den is the spare bedroom — the scene of all the activities that don't fit into the rest of the rooms. It is here that Jayne makes posters, sews and refinishes furniture. It is to this room that she or her husband retire when they want to do accounts or read in peace and quiet. A bed (in case of over-night guests) is made up into a couch for every day with huge, bright-colored cushions and a toning spread — all made by clever Jayne of course. A desk occupies one corner while a sewing table takes up another. I popped in to see how Jayne's posters were coming along and sensed something was different. After much thought I realized what it was. The clutter of odds and ends that covered both the desk and sewing table were gone.

In their place is a pile of bright boxes. Each of these boxes has three tiny drawers in a toning shade. "Have you taken to playing with new kind of blocks?" I asked. Jayne laughed and showed me the secret of her edifice. The tiny drawers are just big enough for little objects such as pins, paper-clips and pen-nibs. The boxes are of heavy lacquered carboard made into cubes. They come in all the colors of the rainbow. Jayne had chosen colors that matched the room, then piled the boxes in attractive piles where she needed them. "I use a color code to find things now" she told me. "Pins are in the blue boxes; buttons, the yellow, and hooks and eyes in the red. They are terribly handy when you are in a hurry to find something." These colorful "mini-drawers" act as an accent to any decor as well as keeping those little things tidy and safe. They are $1.25 each.

Unusual Baby Spoon Makes Fine Gift

Jayne also found a better idea for a baby shower she attended the other day. I saw the gift before it was wrapped and think it the best idea I have seen in years. Jayne's gift was a stainless steel baby-spoon. The finish was lovely — that misty surface that only stainless gives — and if I were the mother receiving it I would be grateful to know it would not stain. But it is the shape that makes this baby spoon different. Whoever designed it knows just how a baby holds a spoon — in his fist. The bowl of the spoon is set to the side of the handle instead of straight along so that baby has a better chance of reaching his mouth as he comes swooping in from the side. And when baby has developed the co-ordination needed for going on to regular cutlery, his $3.50 spoon can be used for condiments.

Crumb trays fascinate me almost as much as egg-cups. I used to love scraping my mother's metal tray over the table-cloth before a meal and watching the little crumbs dance onto the plate. The other day I saw a crumb tray for $4.50 that could take its place by the most elegant table. Made of dark-stained teak, it came with a flat brush. The brush is designed to fit into the tray so that it will fall out easily when the tray is upside down, but won't slip out. A leather thong on the handle lets you hang this attractive set on your wall.

WHY GROW OLD?

Nutritional Values of Milk, Cottage Cheese, Discussed

Many readers write to ask if nonfat dry milk has the same health values as whole milk. They also want to know if cottage cheese is as nutritious a food as milk.

Lowman

When fat is removed from milk so is its vitamin A and vitamin D content. Therefore those who drink the nonfat dry milk should be sure to obtain an adequate intake of vitamin A from other foods. The yellow vegetables are extremely rich sources of this vitamin. The requirement for vitamin D is small for adults, and a varied diet, plus some outdoor life, will usually take care of this. Teen-agers and children require more vitamin D. This should be provided.

In some parts of the country one can buy skim milk which is fortified with vitamins A and D. So far, dry nonfat milk is not reinforced in this way.

Plain cottage cheese is made from nonfat or skim milk and therefore has a very low fat content and a resulting dearth of vitamins A and D. If cream has been added it will provide a small amount of the vitamins mentioned.

As to the comparative health values, dry cottage cheese is an excellent protein. Two ounces provide you with as much as an 8-ounce glass of milk. However it is not nearly so rich in calcium. Two ounces have only 1-6th the amount of calcium which a glass of milk gives you.

Uncreamed cottage cheese is an excellent item on the reducing diet. It is a good source of fine-quality protein and it is low in fat, and therefore in calories.

The dry cottage cheese may seem very dull to you. If so add some skim milk. Also remember that you can use this in many recipes. Gelatin and cottage cheese desserts or salads are nutritious and low in calorie count.

If you would like to have my calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

BAPTISM IN HOSPITAL CHAPEL

ROSES, ROSES— ALL THE WAY

It was roses, roses (red ones) all the way at Wednesday's Flower Fun Festival, held at the Empress Hotel.

Local florist Norma Fitzsimmons, who organized the day-long event to raise money for the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children, filled the Georgian Lounge with every flower imaginable but it was red roses that held the limelight. They formed a bouquet given to Mrs. George R. Pearkes and the boutonniere received by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. He also received a kiss from the organizer which raised a blush to rival the roses.

RAISES APPROXIMATELY $1,800 FOR VETERANS' HOSPITAL

Successful Dogwood Garden Fete

A well-laden stall with hundreds of books was some consolation for late-comer to the Dogwood Garden Fete Wednesday afternoon, when they discovered that only the early arrivals managed to make their way to the home baking stall before the cakes and cookies disappeared.

There were other bargains, too, for late shoppers, when conveners of the jewelry stall reduced prices for quick sales. Other attractive items on sale at the garden party sponsored by the Women's auxiliary to the Veterans Hospital were hand-embroidered pillow slips and children's knits.

A special arts and crafts stall convened by the Red Cross sold hand-made articles, including whimsical stuffed toys, table mats, hand-woven scarves, leather belts and wallets, all made by patients at the hospital.

Mrs. G. R. Pearkes officiated at the opening of the fete after being introduced by auxiliary president Mrs. H. F. Jarvis. The band of the Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, played as guests made their purchases at the stalls under the trees on the hospital lawn.

Mrs. F. R. Roberts and Mrs. C. F. Moore were general conveners of the affair, which raised approximately $1,800.

In charge of stalls were: Mrs. S. Carson, Mrs. E. G. Hewitt, Mrs. Ethel Vant and Mrs. A. Wiles, home cooking and delicatessen; Mrs. O. Minnis and Mrs. G. C. Baker, sewing; Mrs. A. Gosse, Mrs. D. McPhail, Mrs. Flow Wigley, Mrs. P. Newman, Mrs. S. Shawcross and Mrs. C. J. Read, superfluity; Mrs. R. Willoughby and Mrs. J. James, jewelry; library stall, Mrs. J. Lewis, and handicrafts, Mrs. B. Thirlwell and Mrs. William Chisholm.

Tickets for a grocery hamper were sold by Mrs. P. W. Smoothy and Mrs. R. S. Standiwick. Mrs. A. Davis and Mrs. S. J. Witherow were in charge of a tombola, while mystery raffle tickets were sold by Mrs. E. Jewell and Mrs. A. Digby. Mrs. F. Anders was in charge of parcel checking, and Mrs. L. Mess sold dogwood pins. Tea tickets were sold by Mrs. Forester Smith and Mrs. J. Edwards.

In charge of a special guest table were Mrs. F. X. Russell, Mrs. M. G. Stirling, Mrs. H. Vyvyan, Mrs. B. B. Bowen and Mrs. R. L. Christison. Treasurers were Mrs. B. Thake, Mrs. C. Hutton and H. F. Jarvis.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Lass 'Loses Mind' For An Older Man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I cannot for the life of me understand what is the matter with our 24-year-old daughter. She started going with a 44-year-old man, and now she says she is going to marry him! Abby, this man is nearly old enough to be her father! He isn't rich and he isn't especially good looking, but she says she "loves" him. We are just sick about it.

Our daughter has worked and supported herself since she was 18, and she dated nice young fellows her own age, but when she met this man she lost all her good sense.

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Don't expect to get anything "through her head." A girl "in love" has a filter-tipped brain. If marrying this man is a mistake, she may have to learn the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are middle-aged and we're watching our weight. We do all right at home, but our troubles begin when we're guests in someone's home. (I don't mean for dinner. I mean those late midnight "snacks" after cards, etc.).

We count our calories all week, and then the hostess puts all this stuff on the table, and pushes it onto our plates, saying, "O, I've worked so hard, you've GOT to eat this!" Or, "If you don't eat it, I'll have to throw it out!"

We have come home stuffed and uncomfortable because we couldn't get out of eating. We tell ourselves. "Never again," but on the next weekend it's the same story. How can we protect ourselves?

GORGED

DEAR GORGED: First, a word to the well-intentioned hostess who makes her guests feel guilty if they decline her snacks. Shame on you! The only defence a guest has against such a hostess is to say, "No, thank you." And then keep his trap shut.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for the woman whose husband suffered a heart attack out of town at 2 a.m. in the apartment of another woman. I have just gone through a similar experience that left me shaken and close to a breakdown.

My husband is 52, handsome, charming, and hard-working. He said he wanted to go away alone for the weekend to "rest." He didn't tell me where he could be reached in case of emergency, but when he came back I found a receipt for a motel stay indicating that a "Mr. and Mrs." had stayed there.

I was crushed. After loving him and struggling with him for nearly 25 years, I felt betrayed and rejected. I consulted a lawyer and came within an inch of filing for divorce. I could have thrown him out and taken most of his worldly goods, but I thought, "What for? I love him. Why should I send him straight into the arms of a gal who can't get a man of her own, and thinks its fair game to go after a middle-aged Lothario whose wife doesn't understand him?" (I understood him only too well. He reached the age where a man needs reassurance, and I wasn't smart enough to give it to him.)

I took him back and I'm not sorry. Now he thinks I am the greatest. He says he's always loved me, and I believe him. We all make mistakes and this was his. I can truthfully say that we have a much better marriage now than we had before.

NO REGRETS.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JANET W.: The 17-year-old boy who was embarrassed by the nurse who gave him a lamp treatment, said the nurse appeared to be about his age. Was YOUR doctor about YOUR age? Don't take medicine prescribed for somebody else. Your illness may be entirely different. The same holds true for advice.

New Fall Fashions Appear Subdued

NEW YORK (AP) — The brash and noisy fashion industry has begun to quiet down, shape up and behave itself.

The mood was subdued and decorous Wednesday when the New York couture group opened its program of fall fashion previews.

Instead of bounding on to the runway like Olympic candidates, hair flying and arms flailing, elegant mannequins hatted and gloved, chins up and shoulders squared, made the clothes route as ladies of few years ago.

Among the fashions, there were no shrieks for attention with dizzying geometric patterns, nor clashing psychedelic colors; and no bids for headlines with high hemlines or bizarre skin games.

No nudes were good news, according to audience reaction.

"My clothes are for the non-exhibitionist woman," said Jo Copeland

These perky little outfits can be made in either small, medium or adult sizes and are within the scope of any beginner.

KNIT AND CHAT

By MAY MAC LEAN

This Book Gives Instructions for Beginners

Mac Lean

Dear May: I hope you will be able to help me with some suggestions. I am a Girl Guide leader and I have 15 Guides between the ages of nine and 13. I would very much like to give them knitting lessons and a knitting project. Do you have a book? Or can you suggest one that shows with illustrations the basic stitches? Can you also suggest a very simple project?—Mrs. J. S., Carlton Place, Ontario.

Dear Mrs. J. S.: I am so pleased to hear that you plan knitting lessons for your Guides. I am sure that they will be eternally grateful to you, for both young girls and boys do experience a great deal of satisfaction from creating with their own hands. I often wish that schools did more to stimulate this need.

A week or so ago, I wrote about a basic book on knitting and crochet that I was able to obtain in answer to the many requests that I have received for such a book. It has very clear drawings, showing the position of the needles and hands for casting on, and the basic stitches.

If you would like this book, it can be obtained by sending 85c in coin or money order together with your name and address, to the address at the bottom of the column. Please be sure to state "Guide to Knitting."

Over the Christmas holidays, I showed a couple of nieces how to knit—they are on their first project now, slippers. We used a double-knitting weight of wool and No. 9 needles. Cast on 68 stitches and work six inches in knit two purl two ribbing. Cast off. Do not press. Fold in half widthwise and sew the two end seams.

Now with a medium crochet hook, work one row of treble with two chain between, around top edge. Make a 14-inch length of chain and thread through the eyelet holes made by the crochet. Sew pom-poms to each end of the chain. Make another slipper to match. You will find the ribbing stretches to fit any size foot, and they are so handy for travelling, they take such little space in a suitcase or overnight bag.

I've selected this week's pattern especially for your girls, and if other readers have a daughter who wants to start simple knitting, this is an ideal pattern.

Instructions are given for mitts, headband and head scarf, in small, medium and adult sizes, and they can be knitted from a synthetic or four-ply fingering wool. All are made from the basic knitting stitches, knit, purl and garter-stitch, which as you know is all rows knit.

For Pattern No. 10-57, send 35c in coin (stamps cannot be accepted) together with a long, self-addressed, stamped (5c) envelope to, May E. Mac Lean, "KNIT AND CHAT," care of the Victoria Daily Times.

WELFARE CHARGE:

They Treat Applicants Like Bums

By SUSAN BECKER

OTTAWA (CP) — A number of delegates to the Canadian conference on welfare said Wednesday that people seeking aid at welfare offices are made to feel small.

David Pope, a member of the Company of Young Canadians working in Toronto's Yorkville district, said he had accompanied someone to a welfare office and "they treat you like dirt."

"You have no power," he said. "They tell you what you want."

E. S. Shapiro of Winnipeg, program director for the Manitoba people's opportunity services, said people seeking welfare help are not considered people.

"Clients are considered bums," he said, "and the only reason service agencies help them is because they are a menace to society otherwise."

"If we start to see clients as people as good or better than us then we can do something."

FEELS VERY SMALL

Roger Avon of Ottawa, a disabled man with a wife and two small children, said welfare agencies made him feel only a few inches high.

Michel Blondin, an official in the Montreal council of social agencies, said that in big cities people seeking help could not express their views to a welfare agency. In turn, the agency could not listen because it operated under specific policies.

Three mothers whose children attended the Ottawa day nursery spoke strongly in favor of such good care services and said there were not nearly enough of them.

Earlier Guy Rocher, sociology professor at the University of Montreal, said school systems need teams of specialized teachers for underprivileged children in depressed areas.

John P. Humphrey, a McGill University law professor and member of the royal commission on the status of women, said Canada is not a haven in a world of violence.

The country could, however, still take precautions against violence by becoming a place where human rights and fundamental freedoms were really respected.

Atomic Plan Too Costly For Britain

GENEVA (Reuters) — Britain told the Council of European Nuclear Research centre today it would not take part in a giant atom-smasher project.

The decision—a blow for European nuclear research—was announced by the British delegate to the council.

He said the estimated expense of the atom-smashing project, about £39,000,000 (about $93,000,000) "would not be justified."

Total cost of the project has been estimated at $420,000,000 of which Britain was to have contributed 22.16 per cent.

France, Belgium and Austria previously approved the plan to build the 300,000,000,000 electron-volt accelerator.

Scientists have been pressing for the project to keep Europe abreast of the rest of the world in fundamental nuclear research. The United States is expected to have an accelerator ready by 1972.

New Salary Scale Costs $40 Million

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec civil servants voted 7,677 to 4,730 Wednesday night to accept a contract offer that will cost the government $40,000,000 in pay increases over the next three years.

Negotiations for the Quebec Civil Servants' Union accepted the offer earlier this month by a slim 60-58 margin and recommended its acceptance by the membership.

The ratification vote was conducted at meetings in Montreal and Quebec City. Results were announced by a spokesman for the union, an affiliate of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, who said the contract is expected to be signed shortly.

ORIGINAL DEMANDS

The original contract demands of the civil servants—18,000 office and 12,000 manual workers—would have cost the government an additional $80,000,000 over the three-year life of the contract.

Under the new pact, the basic hourly rate for manual workers will increase to $2.29 from $1.55 over three years.

Office workers, whose pay scales are more complicated, will receive total increase of $622 in their average annual pay. No basic or average figures were available for office workers' current salaries.

For manual workers, the work week would be reduced to 40 hours from 48 starting in September, without loss in pay.

Greasepaint Roars Again

The Greasepaint roars again in two hold-over performances, Friday and Saturday at McPherson Playhouse.

The Anthony Newley hit musical which was well received when it played last week to excellent houses, is being revived by box office demand.

Its title — The Roar of the Greasepaint, the Smell of the Crowd, always draws a 'double-take' reaction but that's the way the authors wanted it. It's a good conversation piece that is also part of the key to the musical itself, in which the 'born loser' in the game of life (played by Harry Hill) always gets everything wrong, including "The smell of the greasepaint, the roar of the crowd."

New CYC Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet has appointed Stewart Goodings, 26, acting director of the Company of Young Canadians replacing Alan Clarke, 39, who resigned from the $20,000-a-year post earlier this month.

GIANT MILITARY CONTRACTS AT STAKE

Pentagon Said Divided on Missile

By JOHN MAFFRE

WASHINGTON (WP) — The man leading the fight against a U.S. missile defence system hit the administration Wednesday as hard for its silence as for its arguments favoring the $5 billion sentinel ABM project.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R.—Ky.) trying to cut $227.3 million for sentinel from a military construction bill, said the defence community has been divided for years over Sentinel's capability.

Every defence secretary since the Eisenhower days has doubted the claims made for ABM, he said, and "history has proved us correct" for rejecting it in the famous 1963 secret senate session.

NEED SECURITY

"All these questions must be considered," he told Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D—Wash.), the bill's floor manager, though he acknowledged a need for military security.

"There are assumptions here that are not sustained by either private or public information," he said. Now it comes out that this is the beginning of a defence against the Soviets."

This was a reference to Jackson's statement that some senators may "have taken too literally the public rationale" last fall by the Pentagon for Sentinel: its chief aim was to protect against a Chinese missile threat in the 1970s.

SIGNIFICANT

Jackson said the ABM's "most significant feature" was defence capability against a Soviet missile threat against the U.S. Minuteman retaliatory force.

(In April Sentinel ABM's manager, Lt. Gen. Alfred D. Starbird told Congress it would "provide an option" for defending Minuteman with sprint short-range missiles. He had listed that as a secondary purpose of Sentinel, the first one being to "provide an overall area defence" against a Chinese missile threat.)

Fights Deportation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The 19-year-old brother of Sirhan B. Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, is currently fighting a deportation order issued against him after he was convicted of felony narcotics charges, an immigration official disclosed Wednesday. Munir Bishara Sirhan, known as Joe, was arrested June 10, 1966, for possession and sale of marijuana.

Foreign Aid Cut

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The House of Representatives foreign affairs committee Wednesday slashed the administration's $2,961,000,000 foreign aid authoriation request by $597,200,000.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There are lots of differences between duplicate and rubber bridge. We have discussed the greater value of extra tricks in duplicate on many occasions. We have also pointed out that the duplicate player's knowledge of how to get extra tricks becomes really important in rubber bridge when his extra trick means that he has made his contract instead of going down.

Opening lead—♠K

At both games, the toughest bidding problems occur when both sides are in action and you have to decide between bidding on, passing or doubling your opponents. A good decision in these situations will be most profitable, a bad decision most expensive. Take today's hand as an example. Playing with reasonable care West can make nine tricks with spades as trump; he will lose two clubs, one spade and one diamond. Playing with equal care South can make 10 tricks at hearts. He will lose one spade, one heart and one diamond.

Now look at the bidding. North's opening no-trump is sound indeed. South's two-heart response is a typical weakness response. That is, it is typical except that South's 6-4-2-1 distribution means that four hearts may well be there for the bidding. Still, he only holds one king and two jacks and his two-heart response is correct.

West is certainly entitled to back in with two spades and North, with a sound no-trump, good hearts and three aces, is justified in trying three hearts as a competitive measure. East's three-spade call is based on a desire to get his opponents to four hearts and South obliges.

West's four-spade call is a deliberate sacrifice bid. He expects that South will make four hearts. North's five-heart call is ill-advised. He doesn't expect that his partner can make four hearts and he really should expect to beat four spades. As pointed out earlier he would have done so, and a double would get him plus 200. Instead, his five-heart bid was doubled by East for a minus 200, a waste of 400 points.

Youth Held For Tip-Off On Kennedy

CIUDAD JUAREZ (Reuters — Mexican police questioned a 17-year-old Mexican-American Wednesday who claimed to have prior knowledge of a plot to assassinate Senator Robert Kennedy.

A police spokesman told reporters in this northern Mexico city that the youth, Crispin Curiel Gonzalez, was seized two days ago as he hitchhiked from the U.S. border toward Mexico City. He had a diary containing a June 4 entry which said he knew of a "plot to kill Senator Kennedy," the spokesman said.

He quoted the diary as saying:

SOMETHING BIG

"I am going to leave this world before I lose my memory completely. I have always wanted to do something big. If the world only knew of the plot to kill Senator Kennedy, the world will never know but I don't care."

Kennedy was fatally wounded in Los Angeles June 5.

The spokesman said Curiel Gonzalez told police he discussed the assassination of Kennedy in advance with Sirhan Sirhan, who has been arrested in connection with the Kennedy assassination.

DOESN'T APPEAR STABLE

A police psychiatrist questioned Curiel Gonzalez and said in a preliminary report he believes the youth was "mentally unstable," the police spokesman said.

Curiel Gonzalez allegedly told police he was born in the state of Washington of Mexican parents and had lived among the hippies in Los Angeles. He is reported to have said he met Sirhan in a Los Angeles pubic library prior to the assassination.

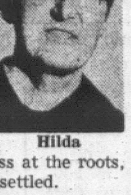
TIPS FOR HOME GARDEN

On Correcting Mistakes

By HILDA BEASTALL

It is during summer that gardeners should have moments of leisure for contemplation. As often as not their contemplation revolves around the placement of plants for better effect.



Hilda

This is as it should be, for no planting need be final and thank goodness we need not live forever with a gardening mistake.

Within two or three years of planting trees and shrubs, there is really no problem in moving them. The usual care in causing as little root disturbance as possible and subsequent avoidance of dryness at the roots, will see most things safely re-settled.

The moving of shrubs, or young trees, after being in one place for a longer period needs some preparation in advance.

The cooler days towards the end of September are ideal for this job, for the soil is still warm and roots active. Rains usually come along to keep humidity up and all conditions are ideal for re-establishing plants.

About the first of August, drive a spade down for its full depth at the perimeter of the shrub for half the full circle.

Take out some of the soil and in the miniature trench make a filling of screened compost and fine sand. Water this trench well every few days, adding more fine fill if it sinks too much.

Two weeks later, repeat this for the balance of the circle around the shrub. Fine new roots will be made into this mixture, and when the complete rootball is lifted later for transplanting, active new feeding roots will be ready to take over in the new environment.

Wrapping the rootball in a sheet of plastic or an open sack for moving even a short distance ensures that most of the soil remains attached to the fine hair roots.

Strawberries Must Wait While Wine Case 'Ages'

By DONALD BERNS

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Millard S. Cohen pleaded Wednesday for government permission to set up a makeshift commercial winery in his bachelor pad to brew five gallons of strawberry wine.

The correspondence-course winemaker carried his appeal to a U.S. treasury department examiner after he lost a year-long campaign for approval to make the wine for "family use."

"I would be the sole owner, producer and consumer of my little winery, the 29-year-old, 210-pound bachelor told examiner Robert Kelley, Chicago, of the treasury's alcohol and tobacco tax division.

"I never want to make more than five gallons a year, and I've even offered to sell it to myself," he said.

William Bergfelder, chief inspector in the division's St. Louis office, said the government would let the case of the strawberry wine age a bit.

A decision is not expected for at least two months, he said.

Cohen was first denied a permit for home-manufacture of the wine a year ago because, in the eyes of the government, he did not qualify as "head of a family."

The decision irked Cohen, who studied wine-making as a hobby and, while he lived with his mother in Chicago, learned how to transform strawberries into "an all-purpose wine . . . an excellent vin rose."

He started writing letters to get either the executive or legislative branch of the federal government to explain why he should not be granted the right to make five gallons of wine at home on a tax-free basis.

Thirty-four letters were exchanged. Cohen got nowhere.

Puffing on a pipe during the one-hour hearing Wednesday, Cohen said the government "simply does not allow a one-member family to exist."

That, he said, is why he made application, as a last resort, for permission to establish a bonded commercial winery. The hearing was on a summons to show cause why his application should not be refused.

Robert Burgess, the government's attorney, asked Cohen about the wine-making equipment he proposed to use and the premises where he intended to set up his winery.

Cohen said he would set up the winery in his four-room apartment.

His equipment, he said, includes "water-locks, flasks, a testing jar, a hydrometer and various kitchen utensils."

For a press, he said, there are "the 10 fingers and two hands at the end of the arms of the applicant."

'SECURITY'

Kelley, serious throughout while Cohen smiled frequently, asked Cohen about the "security" of his apartment. The idea, he explained, was that the revenue of a commercial winery must be protected.

"I have a chain lock on my back door which is steel," Cohen said, "and I think that lock is adequate to protect the 85 cents I must pay for the tax."

Cohen said he had offered to pay the alcohol tax in advance, in lieu of stricter security measures and a $1,000 surety bond. But agents told him that would violate regulations.

Bergfelder said Cohen's hearing "doesn't have anything at all to do with his application to produce wine for family use."

With a commercial winery licence, Bergfelder said, the manufacturer would be free to produce "any amount of wine." Applications for such licences, he said are "normally filed by persons going into a commercial wine-making business."

Youths to Hold Dinner Sit-In At Beacon Hill

Beacon Hill Park will be the site of a community festival and dinner to be held this month.

The Victoria Youth Council plans the event for June 29.

A follow-up to last summer's love-ins, the happening has been officially blessed by city fathers.

Organizers suggest persons attending should bring food for themselves and one other. Site is the picnic area and 2 p.m. the starting time.

Politics Cost $64

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A supporter of Democratic presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy drew a $64 fine Tuesday for wearing a McCarthy button. Airman First-Class Francis Gibbons of Boston, Mass., was fined in a summary court-martial. A Carswell Air Force Base spokesman said Gibbons was charged with "violating his commander's lawful order to remove a political pin from his military uniform."

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jerry Bertrand, age 13, of Sioux City, Iowa, for her question:

Are pineapples grown from seeds?

Any person who happens to have a green thumb can grow a pineapple plant from a pineapple. The plant is not likely to grow seeds to produce another generation of offspring, but it can be coaxed to produce new plants by several other methods.

The pineapple plant grows above the ground in a large tuft of long, spiky leaves and then it sprouts up a special fruiting stem. The top of the stem swells and grows a bump somewhat like a hard green pine cone. The pine cone becomes a rich golden pineapple fruit, topped with a spiky crown of green leaves. The pineapple's tough golden crust is covered with prickly floral bracts, but these flower fragments do not generally develop seeds.

This information makes us wonder how new pineapple plantations are cultivated. As a rule, they are grown from root suckers produced by older pineapple plants. These suckers sprout forth at ground level from plants that reach fruit-bearing age. If left alone, they put down roots of their own and grow into new pineapple plants right beside their aging parents. These conditions are rather crowded, and pineapple growers like to allow plenty of space around each plant. They need room to cultivate and fertilize around each plant and the plant needs room to grow to its full size.

When time comes to start a new plantation, suckers are cut from old pineapple plants and gently covered with soil in their new locations. Soon the suckers grow roots and after about two years they are ready to produce a harvest of mouth-watering pineapples. They will yield fine fruit for several years and then the worn out plants must be replaced with new ones. If there is a shortage of suckers, several other parts of grown pineapple plants can be used instead.

Plant Crown

Strips of plant material called slips can be cut from the base of the pineapple fruit. When planted in moist soil, the slips sprout roots and leaves and finally grow into fruit-bearing plants. Some growers take buds, called ratoons, from the roots of a grown plant, and they too can become pineapple plants just like those that grow from slips and suckers. The first harvest time arrives in midsummer, from May to July, when the young plants have been growing for about two years. Every summer thereafter they bear one, two or maybe three luscious pineapples, each on the end of a separate fruiting stem.

These methods of growing new pineapple plants without seeds are very easy. But another method is even easier. You need to buy a whole fresh pineapple fruit, complete with its tufty green crown on top. When you slice it up for dessert, make a straight cut across the top about one inch under the crown. Plant the leafy crown with the fruit end in a pot or in a moist and sunny spot of the garden. It looks like a growing plant — and this is just what it plans to become. The meaty fruit will send down roots, and more leaves will sprout on top. If the plant is happy, after two or three years it will grow real pineapples.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to John Rebstock, age 9, of Niagara Falls, Ont., for his question:

Will the metric system replace the yard?

Someday we shall change our clumsy old way of measuring lengths to the neat and easy metric system. On that glorious day, sensible people will haul up their flags and shout for joy. It will mean the end of all the wearisome work of figuring twelve inches to the foot and 36 inches to the yard — plus a whole lot of other useless brain work. For the metric system is not a mad mixture of tens and twelves and thirty-sixes. It is all based on tens. And nothing in this world is easier to figure than tens and tens and tens.

When the great change comes, the yard will be replaced by the neat meter. The meter happens to be a trifle more than three and a third inches longer than our yard, so all our yardsticks will have to be stretched a bit. Instead of 36 inches, the meter has 100 centimeters. It also has smaller and smaller sections and every one of them can be managed by multiplying and dividing by easy-to-manage tens.

'Tiger Shark' Sighted

PACIFIC CITY, Ore. (AP) — No one has gone swimming in the ocean at Pacific City since someone yelled shark Tuesday. Coast Guard officials identified a fish swimming 100 yards past the surf line Wednesday as a Tiger shark — one of the most vicious varieties. They said it was 12 feet long.

Boy Cyclist Struck by Car

A nine-year-old bicyclist received only minor injuries Wednesday when he was struck by a car.

Jeffry Owens, 2553 Prior, was knocked down at Kings and Prior just before 5 p.m. He sustained only cuts and bruises and required no hospital treatment.

Earlier, two men were taken to hospital for treatment after a collision at Vancouver and Johnson.

John Garrard, 58, of 1093 Stoba Lane, and Paul Wilkins, 72, of 1541 Pear, were both released.

Court Shields Informer In Drug Case

Two RCMP officers concealed themselves in the basement of a home occupied by a man later charged with possession of hashish for the purpose of trafficking, court was told Wednesday.

Const. Gerald O'Neil was testifying at the preliminary hearing of David Sainsbury, 821 Kings Road. The accused was committed for trial in a higher court.

Const. O'Neil said he and Const. George Robertson were hiding in the basement about 10 p.m. May 1 when they heard a knock on the front door.

The man reached up to a shelf over the door, stepped back, and 30 seconds later reached up again and then left.

Const. O'Neil testified he subsequently reached over the door and found a matchbox containing six cubes of a substance wrapped in silver foil.

Const. O'Neil told defence counsel Norman Prelypchan Sainsbury was under observation as a result of "surveillance and information received from a confidential informant."

When counsel asked for the name of the informant, Magistrate Ostler directed the constable not to answer.

"There is ample authority to say the RCMP is not obliged to disclose names of confidential informants," said the magistrate.

Gusty Winds Thrill Race Contestants

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Winds in the "mid-twenties" gusting to 30 provided quite a few thrills for sailboat racers Wednesday evening. RCNSA racing was cancelled, and dinghy racing in Cadboro Bay was also called off.

RESULTS:

THUNDERBIRDS (12 boats)—First, May D II, Ned Ashe; second, Hussy, Dave Anstey; third, Redskin, Gordie Nickells; fourth, Ahooya, Ian Stewart.

SHARKS (5 boats)—First, Hustler Brian Saunders; second, Hello Dolly, Dennis Roberts.

Port Angeles will be the first stop this Saturday in a weekend cross-strait race for RCNSA and Turkey Head sailing boats.

From a 10 a.m. start Saturday in Esquimalt Harbor, the yachts will set their course for the finish line off Ediz Hook on the state-side. Port Angeles Yacht Club will host the visitors over Saturday night, and send them off again Sunday on the return course which will finish between Brotchie Ledge and the Breakwater.

The Saturday race winner will claim the Cole Trophy, while Sunday's prize will be the Turkey Head Long Distance Trophy. CCA ratings will be used for calculating results.

The two-day event, open to all members of Turkey Head and RCNSA, was initiated in 1967, and will be an annual race weekend on the early summer racing schedule.

U.S. QUITS POLISH FAIR OVER PROPAGANDA

WARSAW (UPI)—The United States Wednesday closed its pavilion at the Poznan International Trade Fair in protest against a North Korean anti-American display showing captured crew members of the U.S. navy ship Pueblo.

An American spokesman said the move was taken only after repeated protests to the fair authorities and finally to the Polish foreign ministry failed to get the offensive display removed.

The North Korean exhibit shows a series of photographs of the crew of the captured ship and the Pueblo's captain signing an alleged confession of "crimes" they committed. Other photographs show the "defeat" of United States units during the Korean War.

The North Korean exhibit also contains a tape recording attacking the United States over the Pueblo incident and for allegedy violating the demilitarized zone in Vietnam.

U.S. SEEKS CREW RELEASE

Neutral Investigation Proposed for Pueblo

SEOUL (AP) — The United States has proposed to North Korea that the crew of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo be turned over to the neutral nations for an investigation into their alleged violation of North Korean waters, the Donghwa news agency reported Thursday.

Quoting diplomatic sources, Donghwa said the U.S. proposal further suggested that the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in Korea be entrusted with the role.

The proposals also said the United States would express "regrets" to North Korea if the investigation by neutral nations confirms that the USS Pueblo violated North Korean territorial waters at the time the ship was seized, according to Donghwa.

No comment on the report was available from U.S. officials here.

The report by the South Korean news agency came after Robert McCloskey, state department press officer, said in Washington that the United States made "certain proposals" to North Korea at their last private negotiation on Panmunjom May 28.

Reports from Washington did not give any details on what the U.S. proposition amounted to, but said that North Korea had not yet responded to the American proposals.

The Korean commission consists of four senior officers, one each from Switzerland and Sweden, which were nominated by the United Nations command, and Czechoslovakia and Poland, nominated by North Korea.

STAGE WALKOUT

Red Envoys Take Does of Umbrage

PEKING (AFP) — Soviet and other leading diplomats walked out of a banquet given Tuesday night by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai when he said the United States and Soviet Union had invented "nuclear colonialism."

The premier, who was giving the banquet in honor of Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere who arrived Tuesday, said that with the nuclear non-proliferation treaty the United States and Soviet Union had given birth to a new type of colonialism—"nuclear colonialism."

"The U.S. and U.S.S.R. acting in collusion recently established—by means of the United Nations General Assembly which they manipulate—a so-called treaty covering non-proliferation of nuclear weapons," he said.

Reduction Advocated In Drug Penalties

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Committees of two major health groups declared Wednesday that marijuana is dangerous. But they urged that penalties for its use be reduced.

They recognized that some researchers, including physicians, have argued that marijuana is harmless, but said new studies have proved the drug can cause hallucinations and psychological dependence.

The joint statement by two groups of the American Medical Association—its council on mental health and its committee on alcoholism and drug dependence—and the National Research Council's committee on drug dependence was released at the annual convention of the AMA.

Dr. Dana Farnsworth of Harvard University, chairman of the AMA mental health council, told a news conference the statement was "not precisely an AMA policy statement but it has the tacit approval" of the AMA.

Dr. Farnsworth said: "Opinion on marijuana is so diverse it seemed wise for us to make a definitive statement."

He gave these reasons:

- The drug has been proven dangerous both to the individual and to society;
- Legislation, as urged by some investigators and physicians, would create serious problems of abuse and control;
- Knowledge about marijuana is scant, and until more is known it should be controlled;
- Education is the best means of control.

"It is the opinion of many of us that users of marijuana should not be considered criminals but should be treated humanely. The first offence should be a matter for civil, not criminal action. We do believe that the penalties for sale, however, should remain strict."

The statement called for additional research and said that in the meantime marijuana should remain under legal control.

DEFENDER SPURNED

Sirhan Hires New Defender

(Times News Services)

LOS ANGELES — Sirhan B. Sirhan has fired the public defender assigned to prepare his defence against the charge of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and hired a new attorney.

On June 12, he signed a document formally requesting that Parsons, sight unseen, be substituted as his defence counsel for Wilbur Littlefield, chief trial deputy in the public defender's office.

Four Jordanian lawyers who had been nominated to defend Sirhan said Wednesday they have decided to cancel their trip to the United States.

No explanation was given in a statement issued by the four, which followed a meeting with Premier Rahjat Jalhouni in Amman.

The statement said the decision was reached "after consulting some fellow lawyers in neighboring Arab countries who will undertake to defend Sirhan on behalf of the Arab Lawyers' Federation."

Henry Cattan, a well-known lawyer in Beirut, Lebanon, who is a consultant to a number of U.S. firms, said that the most Arab lawyers could do would be to assist American lawyers out of court.

Parsons will handle the case without fee.

Parsons is no stranger to controversy.

"I've tried thousands of criminal cases," the peppery attorney told reporters at his office Wednesday.

"I was a prosecutor in Los Angeles and I prosecuted Communists and they took a shot at me in my car. The bullet came right through the windshield. I had a man sleeping in my living room for a week," Parsons recalled.

He called his assignment to defend Sirhan "a tremendous responsibility, like any criminal case."

AT UBC

Student 'Reforms' Negotiated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Kenneth Hare, president of the University of British Columbia, said Wednesday negotiations with students over their recent call for university reform are under way and will continue through the summer.

His statement came seven days after the Alma Mater Society issued a brief listing seven areas where the students want a share in decision-making.

Dr. Hare said he regards the students' questions so important he has cancelled a trip to Australia to continue talks.

Students are asking for participation in making appointments, discipline, financing studies, housing, planning and building, and a presence in all UBC governing bodies.

The brief set deadlines for some action, but David Zirnhelt who presented the document last week said it was a basis for negotiation rather than an ultimatum.

Three Men Injured During Ship Loading

Ixia, a British freighter that has been taking on lumber at Ogden Point, sailed today but not before two more men became casualties during loading operation.

Longshoreman George Haywood, 1029 Oliphant, was pitched over her side Tuesday in the first accident, reported Wednesday. He fell nearly 40 feet to the dock and into the water while helping to hold a boom restraining chain, but suffered only bruises, and was released from hospital.

Another longshoreman, Bill Bamford, 2296 Grove Crescent, later injured an ankle when he fell from the deck to the water between the ship and the dock.

And crew member Ernest Bertilsan fell from an upper deck to one below in the third mishap. He was not so fortunate as the others, suffering a possible broken pelvis. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and later transferred to Veterans' Hospital.

LITTLE HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT

Strike on Seaway Set 8 a.m. Friday

60 Foreign Ships May Be Trapped

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 60 ocean-going ships will be trapped in the Great Lakes by a strike of 1,200 seaway workers scheduled for 8 a.m. Friday, a seaway spokesman said today.

Fifty-eight of the vessels, mostly foreign-owned, were above the Iroquois locks at the eastern end of Lake Ontario when the locks were closed to downbound traffic at 8 a.m. today. They will be joined by another seven which were moving up the seaway from Montreal.

The seaway authority had ordered the Iroquois Locks closed to downbound traffic and the St. Lambert locks at Montreal closed to upbound traffic at 8 a.m. today.

The seaway spokesman said the seven ocean-going vessels and eight inland ships were expected to clear the Iroquois locks into Lake Ontario before the strike deadline.

At the same time, 16 ocean and 14 inland vessels heading down to Montreal from the Iroquois locks were also expected to clear the system in time.

Port Manager Guy Beaudet of Montreal said in an interview Wednesday night that a strike could only help business at Montreal.

FEW MADE PLANS

Owners and agents of ocean-going vessels upbound for Canadian and U.S. ports said they have been holding vessels at Montreal since the beginning of the week.

But few had made plans or arrangements to discharge cargoes in Montreal for carriage by rail to inland destinations.

A spokesman for the National Harbors Board said there has been no appreciable increase in the demand for wharf space or cargo-handling facilities at Montreal, Quebec City or Trois-Rivieres, Que., which could be accounted for by the threatened strike.

Seaway officials had some optimism Wednesday that a settlement might be reached in time and the strike averted, but that was before a statement by Prime Minister Trudeau.

CALLS OFFER FAIR

Mr. Trudeau said in a telegram to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers' Union that a six-per-cent wage increase this year and another six-per-cent next, offered by the seaway authority, is "fair and reasonable."

The union has asked for increases totalling 18 per cent over two years.

"Mr. Trudeau's statement has dimmed whatever hope we had for a settlement," the union said.

The Canadian seaway workers complain that their wages are an average of 21 per cent lower than those of employees of the United States St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp.

The Canadian authority administers five locks and the U.S. organization is responsible for the others on the inland waterway.

Wages of U.S. employees—who do not have the right to strike—are determined by industrial averages at locations along the seaway.

(Times News Services)

PARIS—Despite the barrage of charges which the United States and North Vietnam exchange in their Paris talks, a new pattern of contact is emerging—a pattern that could lead to serious negotiations to end the war.

This appears to be the most encouraging development in the discussions, which began almost six weeks ago and have registered no progress toward scaling down the fighting.

The pattern became clear Wednesday when 40 minutes of a meeting that lasted less than four hours were devoted to a recess during which the two top members of each delegation talked privately and informally.

In this conversation were W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance for the United States and Xuan Thuy and Le Duc Tho for North Vietnam. Their conversation was described as amiable but what they said was not disclosed.

The precedent of a recess for refreshments was set several weeks ago by a short break of about 15 minutes. Wednesday it clearly attained the proportions of something more than a brief respite from the formal talks.

'PRIVATE TALKS BETTER'

U.S. officials hope the practice will lead to regular private discussions. William J. Jorden, the U.S. press spokesman, told reporters: "Our feeling for some time has been that private talks are a better way of dealing with the tough issues."

The ninth session ended with an agreement between Harriman and Thuy to meet regularly each Wednesday and additionally as necessary.

In Washington, Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford said today there was "some movement" in the talks.

He acknowledged the signs of progress may be slight, but added:

"I believe that both sides are there to try to arrange an ultimate disposition of the conflict."

The secretary, one of President Johnson's top advisers on Vietnam war policy, indicated he expected some real progress in working out a solution when the negotiators got into private talks.

He appeared to discount the value of the formal sessions, in which both sides have exchanged charges and demands and appeared to be giving virtually no ground.

VIRTUAL ADMISSION

Meanwhile, the chief Viet Cong representative in North Korea has come close to admitting that North Vietnamese troops are fighting in South Vietnam.

Getting the North Vietnamese to admit to the presence of their troops in South Vietnam has been a major point of contention in the Paris peace negotiations.

The Viet Cong representative in Pyongyang also indicated but did not confirm that North Koreans are fighting alongside Vietnamese Communists. He indicated that more North Korean help may be asked in the future.

Reports of North Korean pilots and troops have cropped up recently in Saigon, Seoul and Washington. But details of strength and activity have been sketchy.

The Viet Cong spokesman further indicated that co-ordination of plan is taking place between Hanoi and Pyongyang. U.S. authorities in Seoul have long been aware of a meshing of North Vietnamese and North Korean action but have said they are not sure how close it is.

COLOR VENICE GREEN

They dumped a boatload of sodium chemicals into the Grand Canal and turned the city's waterways a violent green. Police arrested three youths for this action.

The spectacular staining came after a second night of rioting in the heart of the city that pitted nearly 2,000 club-swinging police against crowds of screaming students.

Peerage Reform Certain

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government said today it will reform the British constitution to reduce the power of the mainly hereditary House of Lords.

Wilson said the action in the Lords proved the Conservative majority among the peers could frustrate and over-rule the Labor government and the elected House of Commons.

The government would soon introduce "comprehensive and radical legislation" to change the powers of the House of Lords.

Dayan Speech Makes Sparks

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A ministerial crisis threatened Israel's coalition government today over a tough speech by Defence Minister Moshe Dayan.

The hero of last year's Middle East war appeared in bitter conflict with Foreign Minister Abba Eban on Israel's position in the quest for peace.

Dayan told a meeting of his United Labor party Tuesday, Israel must not accept a United Nations resolution of last November because it called for Israel to withdraw its troops from occupied lands.

Gov't Absentees Bring Wrath Of Shipbuilders

TORONTO (CP) — The absence of invited government officials at the first session of the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association annual meeting Wednesday brought angry outbursts from a dozen shipbuilding executives.

They had met to discuss major problems facing the Canadian shipbuilding industry with representatives of the department of defence production and the department of national defence, who had been invited more than a month ago.

However, the government officials were in Britain to commission the Okanagan, the last of three Oberon-class submarines ordered from British shipyards by the federal government.

"The damn things should never have been built in Britain—we have the skills, the equipment, the resources and the technical competence to build them right here in Canada," Eric Harrington, president of Canadian Vickers Shipyards Ltd. of Montreal, said.

"Yet, here we are wondering how we can keep our people working, scratching here and there, trying to turn up an order," he said. "And there they are celebrating the building in Britain of a pretty expensive piece of machinery that we would have been happy to get."

Tempers flared frequently as the executives from Vancouver, Saint John, N.B., Montreal, Quebec City and Port Weller and Collingwood in Ontario wrangled over the problems of mounting layoffs in their yards and the stiff competition from foreign shipbuilders.

They called on Ottawa to come up with a low-cost method of financing Canadian-built ships or face ruin in the industry.

Takis Veliotis, general-manager of Davie Shipbuilding Ltd. in Lauzon, Que., said Ottawa could provide a suitable climate for opportunity by introducing a relatively uncomplicated, low-cost method of financing Canadian-built ships over a long term.

"We're sick and tired of studies, studies and more studies," shouted J. H. Regnaud, treasurer of Davie Shipbuilding.

TRUDEAU RALLY

Battles Won In Cities, Toronto Told

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — The idea was to see if the participating democracy that sprouted on the gardened hillsides of ancient Greece could ripen on the concrete flats of Toronto's civic square.

"This," the announcement said, "will truly be a public rally. The time and location were selected to elicit genuine public response rather than the programmed shuttling of partisan crowds."

It took a little cheating. The chartered buses, six of them plastered with Hellyer signs, helped overcome the problem that a responsive public may have farther to walk in Toronto than it did in Athens.

And the circling helicopter with the banner that said, "A Vote for Trudeau is a Vote for Canada," was a tacit confession that a sense of consensus may be harder to achieve without help in a modern metropolis than it was in the old city state, especially since, in that early democracy, the slaves didn't get the vote.

In Toronto, Wednesday, they got at least to watch and listen as noon hour emptied the downtown cliffs and sent their contents flowing toward the civic square. The buses of schoolchildren had arrived, some of them, more than an hour before.

More Help

There was more help for that feeling of consensus. Bobby Gimby and his brood were there to sing Ca-Na-Da for Pierre Trudeau in 1968 as they did it for Confederation's 100th year in 1967.

By the time Pierre Trudeau began to speak, the vacant spots in the square were filling in with the thousands who had packed the sidewalks along his Bay Street ticker-tape parade, and the crowd was reaching its ultimate number which, by the most common estimate, was about 40,000.

At day's end his attendance score for three major rallies was nearing 60,000 and more

Airliner Hijacked To Cuba

HAVANA (Reuters) — A young hijacker, armed with a grenade, burst into the pilot's cabin of a Venezuelan jet airliner in mid-flight between Santo Domingo and Curacao early today and forced the plane to land in Cuba.

The plane—a DC-9 of Viasa International Airways with 73 passengers on board—landed at Santiago de Cuba in eastern Cuba at 12:30 a.m. Cuban security officials immediately drove off with the hijacker and declined to give any information concerning him.

The pilot of the plane, Capt. Harry Gibson, said in a telephone interview there was "absolutely no panic and everybody remained calm."

"Nothing exploded. We are being treated very well by Cuban authorities."

The passengers and crew were being cared for in the posh Versalles Hotel just outside Santiago.

The jet was the second Venezuelan plane to be hijacked this year and the 10th seized plane to land in Cuba in the last nine months.

'TWO NATIONS' AD REPUDIATED BY PM

(Special to the Times)

TORONTO—Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday accused Conservatives and NDP of campaigning on one constitutional platform in Quebec and another elsewhere in the country.

But he said he accepted the word of Robert Stanfield that he did not stand for two nations.

"Insofar as any Liberal advertising has accused Robert Stanfield of standing for two nations," he said, at a mass meeting in Scarborough, "and insofar as I take his word that he doesn't, I repudiate such advertising and I understand it has been discontinued."

Since Mr. Trudeau said flatly a few minutes later that he did take Mr. Stanfield's word, the second "insofar" in the sentence was understood to have been a slip of the tongue.

"Most of the recent Tory candidates in Quebec," he said, have been recruited precisely because they stand for two nations" and because they opposed his own constitutional views.

"The campaign in Quebec is going on on this subject."

ANGRY SPEECH

Liberal Stand Anti-Quebec, Says Tory Chief

By GERARD McNEIL

QUEBEC (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Wednesday night that Liberals have injected "racial poison" into the June 25 election campaign and are trying to win votes outside Quebec by generating hositlity and bitterness toward the province.
ward the province.

"A strong leader would not let his party arouse such passions," he said. "He would put an end to such tactics."

The angry speech was aimed at Liberal ads in New Brunswick and Alberta saying Mr. Stanfield supports a two-nations policy.

Told later that Prime Minister Trudeau had repudiated the ads and said they won't be run again, Mr. Stanfield said curtly: "I accept Mr. Trudeau's apologies."

A crowd of more than 1,000 came out in teeming rain to give him and Quebec lieutenant Marcel Faribault an enthusiastic welcome at the Centre Durocher, a Lower Town hall.

Poll workers from five area ridings—all held by the Liberals—chanted "we want Stanfield". He was given a wild ovation as he ended a 30-minute speech, most of it in French, by saying: "We are going to win next Tuesday."

CONTRADICTS HIMSELF

At a news conference here earlier, Mr. Stanfield gave the opposite impression as he protested the fact that the Liberal government has not appointed a successor to Gordon MacGregor as Air Canada president.

TORIES PUSH FOR MONTREAL

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield will hit 14 of the Montreal area's 25 ridings Saturday in a last big effort to win votes in the country's largest metropolitan area.

Mr. Stanfield's itinerary for the rest of this week has him in the Montreal area all Saturday afternoon and evening after a morning of taping television broadcasts in Toronto.

Voting day is next Tuesday, June 25. On that day, Mr. Stanfield will be at home in Halifax.

SOCK THE RICH IS DOUGLAS PLAN

By TOM MITCHELL

WINNIPEG (CP) — How long, T. C. Douglas asked, are the people of Canada going to allow the country to be run for the benefit of the big corporations instead of the ordinary people?

"About nine days," a supporter called from the crowd of 3,500 in Winnipeg Auditorium Wednesday night.

He told them there is a "new pulse and new upsurge" among Canadian voters as the June 25 federal election date comes closer.

They were becoming aware that "we've had the old parties long enough," Mr. Douglas said. Canadians were tired of "toiling for the establishment" and wanted a party that would allow more of the fruits of toil to flow back to the people.

"It's not enough to produce wealth," he told the audience. The wealth had to be distributed fairly among the people who produce it.

This was not happening under the Liberal or Progressive Conservative parties.

"I accuse both the old line parties of refusing to have an equitable distribution not only of the income but of the tax burden of this country," Mr. Douglas said to loud applause.

Banks, insurance companies, mining companies and stock market speculators were getting a free tax ride, Mr. Douglas said. They were awarded tax concessions that were not open to the average citizen.

The Carter royal commission on taxation had said the lower income groups in Canada were paying too large a share of taxes. It was time for governments to make "the freeloaders pay their fair share. . . ."

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1968—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

To work the other morning with a Saanich pound-truck—cream-colored panel with ventilation louvers—pussyfooting along in front of me.

I am sorry, heh-heh, to report that the pickings appeared to be poor. No furry faces and pleading eyes were visible on the wrong side of its rear screens.

One reason for this may be the state of near-excellence which our neighborhood early warning system has attained. Over the wires it goes, sometimes a "Pound truck is coming," lilted to the tune of "Shrimp Boats," but more often a mere hurried "Pound truck!" relayed by Mrs. Smith to Mrs. Brown to Mrs. Jones.

Then any pooch who may have ventured a sniff or two off his home lot is garnered in with all haste by his people.

But perhaps that's one virtue of the pound-truck, whose driver, in fairness, has a necessary if not always appreciated job to do.

As for the untended and usually unlicensed stray, the pang of seeing him taken into custody is mitigated by this fact:

At least, he has a chance of acquiring a new master who will give him the love without which neither dog nor human can function at his best.

What Geoff dropped in for was to remind me that Tommy Dougals is to speak in Memorial Arena at 8 p.m. Sunday. But he lingered to air his impressions of apartheid as he saw it.

"Just awful," says he. "An obscene hallucination. It made me realize how fortunate we are in Canada, where our political issues are economic advancement and national unity, not human liberty."

Geoff had been forewarned, but it was still a shock to see signs reading "Non-white Only" (as well as its huge Negro population, South Africa has many Asiatics).

He had made the trip to visit his son, Frank Mitchell, an accountant attached to University College of Nairobi in Kenya. But the chance seemed too good to miss, so he extended his journey.

"What I found," he says, "was a wonderful country, technologically advanced, but determined to cut its people off from contact with a world that might inform them. This is the land of the first heart transplant — but they are running on a philosophy that belongs to the days of the ox-wagon."

Geoff, a member of the Christian Action Defence and Aid Fund, a London-based organization that helps battle oppression, found that the Negro South Africans are determinedly building schools for themselves. Their problem is to find teachers.

"It's good to be back in the land of the free election," Geoff Mitchell concludes. "Here at least, the losers won't be subjected to house arrest or imprisonment without trial by the victors!".

With shame, sorrow and resolves to do better, I must confess that this corner occasionally boots one.

First, the dogwood seedling can indeed be taken out of this area, and the nursery that supplies it will gladly provide the necessary permit-stamp. This correction from several local nurserymen, who point out that earlier quarantine strictures have been eased.

Second, it is Skidegate Channel that separates Graham and Moresby Islands of the Queen Charlottes, not Hakai Passage, which lies between Hecate and Nalau Islands.

That's it for this day, except to note a trio of memories from the great gathering that assembled to hear Canada's prime minister in Beacon Hill Park . . .

The picnic atmosphere of that perfect evening. The blended scent of sea and crushed grass. The kite that floated high over the hill, with its long, long orange tail.

BATTERED BUT A WINNER, Fred Roesner, 12, and his partner in three-legged race, Ria Barten, also 12, display their victory ribbons, earned against tough odds. Fred hurt one leg three months ago and last month doctors added the cast as part of treatment. He and Ria still figured to enter the three-legged race in the Sir James Douglas School track meet Wednesday. In the morning while Fred was playing, somebody jumped on his good leg. But ne and Ria still came out winners. After the race, the "good" leg somehow got jumped on again and thus earned its own bandage. The doctor sees it today and Fred is hoping there won't be need for a second cast. There's just no race devised for that yet. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Mayors Shaken By New Plans For Hospital

By JIM HUME

The recently formed Regional Hospital District could be heading for the roughest meeting of its young life next Wednesday afternoon.

Several board members including Mayor Hugh Stephen and Mayor Ray Bryant this morning expressed the intention of "demanding answers" when the group meets to discuss a twin-report from its priorities and advisory committees.

Tuesday afternoon the priorities committee voted solidly in favor of a major switch from the Agnew-Peckham master-report on hospital and health services for the area recommending the building of a $25 million 800-bed hospital in the Elk Lake area.

Wednesday afternoon the hospitals advisory committee received the priority committee report but trimmed the bed total from 800 to 650 before agreeing to pass the recommendation to the full regional board next week.

This morning Mayor Stephen said he had no comments to make on the situation other than to say that he was "flabbergasted by the report in Wednesday's Times."

"I don't want to make matters worse by saying any more at this time," the mayor added. "But I shall have some things to say next Wednesday."

Mayor Stephen said he couldn't believe the Times story on first reading but that a subsequent check revealed it accurate in detail.

'POINTLESS TO WORRY'

"But it's pointless to worry about that now," he said. "I am carefully reviewing the newspaper report and trying to equate it with the Agnew-Peckham report. There appears to be some inconsistencies with the sub-committee's recommendations and the Agnew document for which I shall be seeking further information before committing myself one way or the other."

The priorities sub-committee provided the shock-wave when it apparently scrapped Agnew-Peckham recommendations for a new acute care hospital adjoining St. Joseph's Hospital.

It provided a further surprise when it recommended that a new 800-bed, now reduced to 650-bed, hospital be built in the Elk Lake area and administered by the St. Joseph's management staff.

St. Joseph's Hospital officials refused to comment on the Wednesday announcement.

This morning Michael J. Griffin, acting chairman of the St. Joseph's hospital board, would only state that he was surprised at the suddenness of the decision.

He repeated that his board was now presented with the problem of what to do about the services of Dr. Harvey Agnew. hired a few weeks ago to update the St. Joseph's long-range development plan with particular emphasis on the construction of a new acute-care hospital on the St. Ann's Academy grounds.

"As for the St. Joseph's administration being moved from the hospital to a new hospital at Elk Lake, that too surprises me.

"All I can say is that I am sure whoever is in charge of the administration, Greater Victoria will continue to receive the finest quality in hospital care and administration."

PLAN NOT NEW

Mr. Griffin added that like Mayor Bryant he found it disturbing to read of the events in the newspaper before the matter had been fully debated at the regional level.

Last November the Times reported that serious consideration was being given to a new St. Joseph's in the area. They story was branded as inaccurate by various hospital authorities.

Mayor Hugh Curtis, chairman of the Regional Hospital District Board, has stressed that the priorities committee recommendation is just that, a recommendation of a sub-committee to an advisory committee of the regional group.

He added that the term "Elk Lake" should be considered in only the most general terms and that site of the new acute care hospital would be decided by his board "possibly against the wishes of the hospital people."

He added that the hospital "will have to be somewhere between the heavily and lightly populated areas of the Saanich Peninsula. A large hospital generates urbanization. You simply can't drop an institution of that size into an area. It would be chaotic."

IT HAS ELIMINATED . . .

New Drunk Policy 'A Proven Success'

. . . SWING-DOOR PRISONER

By HUMPHREY DAVY

Frank was picked up two days ago by Victoria police. He was drunk.

After police had obtained his name and address, members of his family were contacted and he was taken home.

"What on earth has happened!" he said the next morning. "Fancy being taken home by police."

But if by the end of the year this same man is picked up for being drunk, he may be treated somewhat differently.

He may find himself in a dry-out centre and 72 hours later on his way to a centre for the treatment of alcoholics.

It's revolutionary and the first of its kind in North America.

Charges are no longer being laid under the Liquor Act against people found intoxicated in a public place and centres for the treatment of alcoholics—men and women—are now in the process of being established throughout the province.

The first detoxication centre where "pick-ups" are medically examined to determine if they are in need of medical attention at an alcoholic centre is expected to be in operation in Vancouver by the end of the month.

No dry-out centre is being planned for Victoria as yet, but police chief John Gregory hopes one will be established in the near future.

"We need one," he said, "especially for treating serious cases people in danger of dying from alcoholic poisoning.

●

He said the program of not laying charges against drunk persons has proved a success.

It had eliminated the swing-door prisoner and the cluttering up of courts and jails, he said.

"The practice of filling up our jails with people charged with this offence accomplished nothing towards rehabilitating them," he said. "It was also a tremendous drag on taxpayers."

He pointed out that a drunk person has committed no criminal offence and done no physical harm to person or property.

"People want him picked up because he is an eye-sore and is a danger to himself as he might get killed or might be the cause of an accident," he said.

●

The projected plan to rehabilitate an alcoholic would involve costs, he said, but "at least we are accomplishing something — something useful."

He said the B.C. program had proved so successful that the Northwest Territories had applied to Ottawa to follow the province's example.

"It's long overdue. I have always maintained that an alcoholic should not be treated as a ciminial but as a sick person."

The new program means that 1968 will be the first year that no drunk charges will be laid before the city police court. Last year there were 1,180 such charges — an average of three a day. In Vancouver there were 25,000 charges.

However, Chief Gregory points out that the new program does not exempt from arrest persons, who while drunk, might commit other offences such as assault or smashing windows.

In these cases the offender is not charged with being drunk, but with the specific offence committed.

An official of the attorney general's department said because many Indians were unemployed or were earning small incomes, they could not pay the fines for being drunk. They were sent to jail.

●

"In this respect the law is discriminatory," he said, "because those with the means could keep out of prison."

At Oakalla Prison, 60 per cent of the inmates were found to be Indians serving time for being drunk in a public place.

"With the establishment of the new program we will have in effect three places of detention in B.C. — prisons, mental institutions and alcoholic centres," he said.

He pointed out that police court and prison costs for drunks had now been eliminated — representing a saving of thousands of dollars.

It is true that these savings will be ploughed back into rehabilitation centres, but the public will at least be getting something back for the money, he said,

ELECTION HALF OVER FOR FORCES

The same goes for patients who are domiciled at the Veterans' Hospital here.

FIVE
TO GO

Under Canadian Forces Voting Regulations, servicemen have been voting since Monday and their polls will remain open until Saturday.

Their ballots are sealed and sent to Edmonton where the count will be made for all service people wherever they are stationed.

Returning officers from Edmonton were also taking ballots today at Veterans' Hospital here. A spokesman said that any patient in the hospital during this week, will have a vote. Registrations are brought up to date every morning. Polling ends Saturday.

Patients' votes also will be sent to Edmonton for counting. It apparently is possible for a veteran to have been registered at his home to vote locally then admitted and registered again for the balloting now under way.

Patients in other hospitals throughout the area have no vote unless they can be taken to their own polling places.

Votes cast by patients are for candidates in the Victoria riding.

A check with Liberal, Conservative and NDP campaign offices in Victoria revealed that no party had sent scrutineers to the hospital and only the Conservative party spokesman knew the voting was underway.

Each party indicated it was going to look into the matter. It was explained that because the voting is not conducted under the national elections act, little was known about it in civilian circles.

The cards, bearing Mr. Chatterton's name on a simulated ballot, have drawn many protests because they tell the voter to take them to the polls. Returning officer Mrs. E. T. Lea warned voters against doing so, on instruction from Ottawa.

Mrs. Chatterton said:

"We know from experience that on voting day there are a great many people who are not aware where they should vote.

"To assist the voters we send out an individually-addressed card to every voter in Esquimalt-Saanich, 52,900, to tell them exactly where their polling place is — and we received so much commendation for this service that the other parties have now copied us.

"We acted on expert legal advice that there was no contravention of the election act and I'm sure my husband would challenge them (other candidates) to take legal action."

Mrs. Chatterton also wanted to make it clear that it was not her who made the statement ". . . the damage has been done." This statement was male by Mrs. Lea.

Clothes Only At Rally

New Democratic Party supporters won't be able to wear any sort of badge, button or sign supporting their party, leader or local candidate at the Sunday rally for T. C. Douglas.

A Board of Broadcast Governors ban applies to radio and television advertising in the two days before Tuesday, Victoria returning officer David R. Wilson said today.

Candidates and their supporters are permitted to knock on doors and make campaign phone calls during the period and on election day itself. News reports of meetings as well as campaign advertisements are permitted in all newspapers.

Second Fire Probed

The second fire in a week destroyed the interior of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Ryan's home at 764 Lily, in Saanich.

The fire apparently broke out near a basement pile of lumber brought in to repair extensive damages caused by a fire last Friday.

Mrs. Ryan was alone in the frame bungalow shortly before noon today when she smelled smoke. She ran to the basement and discovered the pile of wood in flames.

She called the Saanich fire department and two pumpers were rushed to the scene.

Last Friday evening fire broke out in the basement and caused "extensive" damage to most of the interior, the fire department reported.

The department said an investigation was begun by detectives and the Fire Marshall's office.

A distraught Mrs. Ryan stood with neighbors outside the house today as firemen wearing air-packs carried hoses into the basement.

Her three children were not in the house when the fire started.

Mrs. Ryan said the house "is a write-off."

Mr. Ryan was reported then to be aboard the survery ship Richardson at Tuktoyaktuk in the Arctic.

Last Push For Votes Starting

By PETE LOUDON

Local election candidates today promised they will continue pushing their crusades right down to the wire Monday night.

And on Tuesday, election day, most of them plan to be busy all day helping to get out the vote — especially the vote of persons they each believe to be their supporters.

Here are results of interviews with the candidates who were available this morning:

(ANDERSON)

Dave Anderson, Liberal, Esquimalt-Saanich. was speaking to Yarrows Ltd. employees at noon today and this afternoon was to go out "mainstreeting" in Sidney. Tonight he has a meeting in View Royal and Friday night a coffee party at 4865 Cherry Tree Bend.

Saturday he has a lunchtime picnic on Chilco Road for native Indians and Sunday an open house at 808 Brock at 2 p.m. In between times he'll probably be knocking on more doors.

He said he'll await elections returns at his headquarters and at Red Lion Inn's main lounge Tuesday night. A colored TV is being installed especially for the event.

It he wins, what are his plans?

"I haven't considered that problem yet, simply be with people, I guess." He said he'd like to get up-Island fishing for two or three days to dissipate some of the "nervous energy that's been carrying us along."

But on the other hand maybe, "we'll all be flat on our backs for a while."

If he loses he'll have to "figure out what to do for the rest of my life." He has a law degree but never has practiced and would be required to spend a year as an articled student first.

CHATTERTON

George Chatterton, Conservative, Esquimalt-Saanich will also be mainly door-knocking and mainstreeting between now and Tuesday.

He has a tea party—perhaps a refreshing change from the parade of coffee parties—to attend Thursday. He says he'll watch returns at his headquarters and then go to McMorran's Cordova Bay motel for a celebration—and he speaks confidently about that.

When the vote is over, he plans a week or two to "just stay home and sleep and look to my garden and cut the lawn. Pushed to guess what he might do if he loses, he says, "My plans would be no different."

CHARMAN

Eric Charman, Conservative, Victoria, says he will concentrate on radio "hot lining" until election day although he has a meeting tonight at Eagles Hall. He said it might be his last. Some other sources indicate Mr. Charman may be planning a surprise meeting with a surprise speaker on Saturday night. If so, Mr. Charman wasn't saying.

Sunday, he says, he'll be door-knocking and Monday planning a get-out-the vote campaign. If he gets a chance on the weekend he'll dash up to Qualicum to his summer cottage with his wife and four children and pay a visit to the fishing grounds.

GROOS

David Groos, Liberal, Victoria, will also be giving time to open line broadcasts during this week. Today he was to address Victoria Rotary. There will be a final distribution of campaign literature to oversee. And he's got to give some time to problems of constituents, proving you don't stop being an MP until someone else takes your place.

He has some coffee parties still slated too, but he didn't plan to campaign Monday. He'll spend that day with his campaign workers readying for the Tuesday effort to bring out all available voters.

JOHANNESSEN

Don Johannessen, NDP, Esquimalt-Saanich, is a candidate with a difference—he's never been able to quit his school-teaching job "which is as important as elections" he says.

He's teaching every morning or doing end of term jobs at Lake Hill and canvassing more homes in the afternoon and evening.

Friday he'll be hot-lining too and Saturday back on the door circuit.

Sunday morning he rests and Sunday afternoon greets NDP national leader T. C. Douglas at the airport at 3:45 p.m. He'll be Mr. Douglas' special guide and will appear with him on a radio show after the rally. Then he escorts him back to the airport. Monday more school, more doors. Tuesday, more school, and checking out scrutineers and party drivers. Campaign headquarters Tuesday night to watch results come in.

"Wednesday, win lose or draw, it's back to school.

"I've got reports to get out."

RICHARDSON

Dr. Harvey Richardson, NDP, Victoria, is giving all his energies to building interest in the big NDP rally at Memorial Arena Sunday when national leader T. C. Douglas will be here.

There will be some NDP demonstrations between now and then at local shopping centres to publicize the rally. And of course the party is still distributing signs. His campaign workers report that they are elated with the acceptance by people of NDP signs, both at residences and business locations.

They say that in previous elections 30 per cent of eligible voters have not cast ballots.

"We want to make sure none of them are our supporters."

Dr. Richardson says he plans to watch the election results at party headquarters.

Q. How big is the largest diamond ever found? L.R.

A. The largest diamond discovered to date was found by Captain M. F. Wells in the Premier mine, South Africa, on Jan. 26, 1905. It weighed over 1¼ pounds. It was named after Sir Thomas Major Cullinan. The Star of Africa number one, in the Royal Scepter, was cut from it by Jak Ascher in 1908 and is the largest cut diamond in the world. It has 74 facets.

On index, industrials gained .20 to 162.36, golds rose .24 to 212.87, base metals slid .25 to 102.32 and western oils advanced 2.74 to 202.26.

Final volume was 3,419,000 shares compared with 3,472,000 Wednesday.

AT NEW YORK: Volume for the first four hours was 12,540,000 shares compared with 9,480,000 Tuesday.

Pent-up demand from Wednesday market closing was cited as a reason for the big increases in volume, but it was not as large as last Thursday which also followed a market recess.

Due to weakness in some blue chips, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss, but the broadly-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks posted a good gain. In the over-all list, gains outnumbered losses by about 2,300 issues. International Paper, up a fraction, was the volume leader.

Among other active stocks, American Telephone, up a fraction, continued to pace a rally by utilities which have been favored lately due to hopes that an income tax surcharge would be passed by the U.S. House of Representatives.

Great Western Financial paced savings-and-loan holding companies in a rally based on a report that the savings and loans had a net savings gain of $736,000,000 in May.

AT VANCOUVER industrial issues strengthened in price, while mines continued to weaken in moderate trading to 11 a.m.

Block Bros. led the gainers, putting on $1.25 to $14.75 and warrants added $1.12 to $12.62.

Also in the industrials, Weldwood advanced $1.12 to $14.50 on 900 shares traded. MacMilan Bloedel dropped .25 to $22.75.

Losses outnumbered gains in the mines as TC Explorations slipped .13c to $1.62; Utica backed off .10 to $3.65; Kimberley Copper fell .13 to $1.30 and South Seas dropped .07c to .88.

Leading gainer in the mines was Arctic,

AT MONTREAL the market adopted a wait and see attitude as all eyes were on the U.S. House of Representatives which debated the 10 per cent tax surcharge and mandatory $6 billion cut in government spending.

Boy Cyclist Struck by Car

A nine-year-old bicyclist received only minor injuries Wednesday when he was struck by a car.

Jeffry Owens, 2553 Prior, was knocked down at Kings and Prior just before 5 p.m. He sustained only cuts and bruises and required no hospital treatment.

Earlier, two men were taken to hospital for treatment after a collision at Vancouver and Johnson.

John Garrard, 58, of 1093 Stoba Lane, and Paul Wilkins, 72, of 1541 Pear, were both released.

Court Shields Informer In Drug Case

Two RCMP officers concealed themselves in the basement of a home occupied by a man later charged with possession of hashish for the purpose of trafficking, court was told Wednesday.

Const. Gerald O'Neil was testifying at the preliminary hearing of David Sainsbury, 821 Kings Road. The accused was committed for trial in a higher court.

Const. O'Neil said he and Const. George Robertson were hiding in the basement about 10 p.m. May 1 when they heard a knock on the front door.

The man reached up to a shelf over the door, stepped back, and 30 seconds later reached up again and then left.

Const. O'Neil testified he subsequently reached over the door and found a matchbox containing six cubes of a substance wrapped in silver foil.

Const. O'Neil told defence counsel Norman Prelypchan Sainsbury was under observation as a result of "surveillance and information received from a confidential informant."

When counsel asked for the name of the informant, Magistrate Ostler directed the constable not to answer.

"There is ample authority to say the RCMP is not obliged to disclose names of confidential informants," said the magistrate.

Gusty Winds Thrill Race Contestants

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Winds in the "mid-twenties" gusting to 30 provided quite a few thrills for sailboat racers Wednesday evening. RCNSA racing was cancelled, and dinghy racing in Cadboro Bay was also called off.

RESULTS:

THUNDERBIRDS (12 boats)—First, May D II, Ned Ashe; second, Hussy, Dave Anstey; third, Redskin, Gordie Nickells; fourth, Abooya, Ian Stewart.

Port Angeles will be the first stop this Saturday in a weekend cross-strait race for RCNSA and Turkey Head sailing boats.

From a 10 a.m. start Saturday in Esquimalt Harbor, the yachts will set their course for the finish line off Ediz Hook on the state-side. Port Angeles Yacht Club will host the visitors over Saturday night, and send them off again Sunday on the return course which will finish between Brotchie Ledge and the Breakwater.

The Saturday race winner will claim the Cole Trophy, while Sunday's prize will be the Turkey Head Long Distance Trophy. CCA ratings will be used for calculating results.

The two-day event, open to all members of Turkey Head and RCNSA, was initiated in 1967, and will be an annual race weekend on the early summer racing schedule.

U.S. QUITS POLISH FAIR OVER PROPAGANDA

WARSAW (UPI)—The United States Wednesday closed its pavilion at the Poznan International Trade Fair in protest against a North Korean anti-American display showing captured crew members of the U.S. navy ship Pueblo.

An American spokesman said the move was taken only after repeated protests to the fair authorities and finally to the Polish foreign ministry failed to get the offensive display removed.

The North Korean exhibit shows a series of photographs of the crew of the captured ship and the Pueblo's captain signing an alleged confession of "crimes" they committed. Other photographs show the "defeat" of United States units during the Korean War.

The North Korean exhibit also contains a tape recording attacking the United States over the Pueblo incident and for allegedy violating the demilitarized zone in Vietnam.

U.S. SEEKS CREW RELEASE

Neutral Investigation Proposed for Pueblo

SEOUL (AP) — The United States has proposed to North Korea that the crew of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo be turned over to the neutral nations for an investigation into their alleged violation of North Korean waters, the Donghwa news agency reported Thursday.

Quoting diplomatic sources, Donghwa said the U.S. proposal further suggested that the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in Korea be entrusted with the role.

The proposals also said the United States would express "regrets" to North Korea if the investigation by neutral nations confirms that the USS Pueblo violated North Korean territorial waters at the time the ship was seized, according to Donghwa.

No comment on the report was available from U.S. officials here.

The report by the South Korean news agency came after Robert McCloskey, state department press officer, said in Washington that the United States made "certain proposals" to North Korea at their last private negotiation on Panmunjom May 28.

Reports from Washington did not give any details on what the U.S. proposition amounted to, but said that North Korea had not yet responded to the American proposals.

The Korean commission consists of four senior officers, one each from Switzerland and Sweden, which were nominated by the United Nations command, and Czechoslovakia and Poland, nominated by North Korea.

STAGE WALKOUT

Red Envoys Take Dose of Umbrage

PEKING (AFP) — Soviet and other leading diplomats walked out of a banquet given Tuesday night by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai when he said the United States and Soviet Union had invented "nuclear colonialism."

The premier, who was giving the banquet in honor of Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere who arrived Tuesday, said that with the nuclear non-proliferation treaty the United States and Soviet Union had given birth to a new type of colonialism—"nuclear colonialism."

"The U.S. and U.S.S.R. acting in collusion recently established—by means of the United Nations General Assembly which they manipulate—a so-called treaty covering non-proliferation of nuclear weapons," he said.

Reduction Advocated In Drug Penalties

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Committees of two major health groups declared Wednesday that marijuana is dangerous. But they urged that penalties for its use be reduced.

They recognized that some researchers, including physicians, have argued that marijuana is harmless, but said new studies have proved the drug can cause hallucinations and psychological dependence.

The joint statement by two groups of the American Medical Association—its council on mental health and its committee on alcoholism and drug dependence—and the National Research Council's committee on drug dependence was released at the annual convention of the AMA.

Dr. Dana Farnsworth of Harvard University, chairman of the AMA mental health council, told a news conference the statement was "not precisely an AMA policy statement but it has the tacit approval" of the AMA.

Dr. Farnsworth said: "Opinion on marijuana is so diverse it seemed wise for us to make a definitive statement."

He gave these reasons:

- The drug has been proven dangerous both to the individual and to society;
- Legislation, as urged by some investigators and physicians, would create serious problems of abuse and control;
- Knowledge about marijuana is scant, and until more is known it should be controlled;
- Education is the best means of control.

"It is the opinion of many of us that users of marijuana should not be considered criminals but should be treated humanely. The first offence should be a matter for civil, not criminal action. We do believe that the penalties for sale, however, should remain strict."

The statement called for additional research and said that in the meantime marijuana should remain under legal control.

DEFENDER SPURNED

Sirhan Hires New Defender

(Times News Services)

LOS ANGELES — Sirhan B. Sirhan has fired the public defender assigned to prepare his defence against the charge of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and hired a new attorney.

On June 12, he signed a document formally requesting that Parsons, sight unseen, be substituted as his defence counsel for Wilbur Littlefield, chief trial deputy in the public defender's office.

Four Jordanian lawyers who had been nominated to defend Sirhan said Wednesday they have decided to cancel their trip to the United States.

No explanation was given in a statement issued by the four, which followed a meeting with Premier Rahjat Jalhouni in Amman.

The statement said the decision was reached "after consulting some fellow lawyers in neighboring Arab countries who will undertake to defend Sirhan on behalf of the Arab Lawyers' Federation."

Henry Cattan, a well-known lawyer in Beirut, Lebanon, who is a consultant to a number of U.S. firms, said that the most Arab lawyers could do would be to assist American lawyers out of court.

Parsons will handle the case without fee.

Parsons is no stranger to controversy.

"I've tried thousands of criminal cases," the peppery attorney told reporters at his office Wednesday.

"I was a prosecutor in Los Angeles and I prosecuted Communists and they took a shot at me in my car. The bullet came right through the windshield. I had a man sleeping in my living room for a week," Parsons recalled.

He called his assignment to defend Sirhan "a tremendous responsibility, like any criminal case."

AT UBC

Student 'Reforms' Negotiated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Kenneth Hare, president of the University of British Columbia, said Wednesday negotiations with students over their recent call for university reform are under way and will continue through the summer.

His statement came seven days after the Alma Mater Society issued a brief listing seven areas where the students want a share in decision-making.

Dr. Hare said he regards the students' questions so important he has cancelled a trip to Australia to continue talks.

Students are asking for participation in making appointments, discipline, financing studies, housing, planning and building, and a presence in all UBC governing bodies.

The brief set deadlines for some action, but David Zirnhelt who presented the document last week said it was a basis for negotiation rather than an ultimatum.

Three Men Injured During Ship Loading

Ixia, a British freighter that has been taking on lumber at Ogden Point, sailed today but not before two more men became casualties during loading operation.

Longshoreman George Haywood, 1029 Oliphant, was pitched over her side Tuesday in the first accident, reported Wednesday. He fell nearly 40 feet to the dock and into the water while helping to hold a boom restraining chain, but suffered only bruises, and was released from hospital.

Another longshoreman, Bill Bamford, 2296 Grove Crescent, later injured an ankle when he fell from the deck to the water between the ship and the dock.

And crew member Ernest Bertilsan fell from an upper deck to one below in the third mishap. He was not so fortunate as the others, suffering a possible broken pelvis. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and later transferred to Veterans' Hospital.

Figures Show Britain Faces Another Crisis

LONDON (CP) — The latest trade figures suggest that Britain will show a heavy deficit in her international accounts during the first half of 1968, possibly leading to a critical need for fresh loans or other measures to help sustain her minimum currency reserves.

Despite devaluation, which was to have encouraged exports and reduced imports, heavy buying from abroad has produced a trade deficit of some $1,000,000,000 for the first five months of 1968. Imports have exceeded exports in each month with the May figures, published Tuesday, showing a deficit of $243,600,000.

At the same time, the treasury reported that during the first three months, the accounts — taking in trade, shipping, tourist traffic and financial deals — showed a payments deficit of $713,200,000. This is known as an adverse payments balance which must be met from gold and currency holdings or from fresh borrowings abroad.

Big Deal Forecast

VANCOUVER (CP) — The biggest announcement in Canadian mining history in 25 years will be made this fall at Coppermine, N.W.T., Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing said Tuesday.

Industrialist Killed

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) —Lino Zanussi, postwar industrialist who rose to the top of Italy's home appliance industry, was killed in an air crash Tuesday. He was 48.

On index, industrials gained .20 to 162.36, golds rose .24 to 212.87, base metals slid .25 to 102.32 and western oils advanced 2.74 to 202.26.

Final volume was 3,419,000 shares compared with 3,472,000 Wednesday.

AT NEW YORK: Volume for the first four hours was 12,540,000 shares compared with 9,480,000 Tuesday.

Pent-up demand from Wednesday market closing was cited as a reason for the big increases in volume, but it was not as large as last Thursday which also followed a market recess.

Due to weakness in some blue chips, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss, but the broadly-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks posted a good gain. In the over-all list, gains outnumbered losses by about 2,300 issues. International Paper, up a fraction, was the volume leader.

Among other active stocks, American Telephone, up a fraction, continued to pace a rally by utilities which have been favored lately due to hopes that an income tax surcharge would be passed by the U.S. House of Representatives.

Great Western Financial paced savings-and-loan holding companies in a rally based on a report that the savings and loans had a net savings gain of $736,000,000 in May.

AT VANCOUVER industrial issues strengthened in price, while mines continued to weaken in moderate trading to 11 a.m.

Block Bros. led the gainers, putting on $1.25 to $14.75 and warrants added $1.12 to $12.62.

Also in the industrials, Weldwood advanced $1.12 to $14.50 on 900 shares traded. MacMillan Bloedel dropped .25 to $22.75.

Losses outnumbered gains in the mines as TC Explorations slipped .13c to $1.62; Utica backed off .10 to $3.65; Kimberley Copper fell .13 to $1.30 and South Seas dropped .07c to .88.

Leading gainer in the mines was Arctic,

AT MONTREAL the market adopted a wait and see attitude as all eyes were on the U.S. House of Representatives which debated the 10 per cent tax surcharge and mandatory $6 billion cut in government spending.
